VICTOR L. BERGER, the first Socialist ever elected to Congress, is the editor of the Milwaukee Leader (daily), one of the largest Socialist journals in existence. He was born at Nieder Rehbach, Austria-Hungary, February 28, 1860. He attended the gymnasias and universities of Budapest and Vienna, but before his graduation financial reverses caused his family to emigrate to the United States. After working at various trades he became a teacher in the public schools and later the editor of a daily paper. Was married to Meta Schlichting, a public-school teacher, December 4, 1897, and they have two children. Elected alderman at large for Milwaukee April 5, 1910, and elected to the Sixty-second Congress in November, 1910. He was again elected to the Sixty-sixth Congress in November, 1918. On account of having been opposed to the entrance of the United States in the World War, and having written articles expressing his opinion on that question, he was indicted in various places, tried in Chicago in February, 1919, in the Federal court of Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, found guilty, and sentenced to serve 20 years in the penitentiary. The House of Representatives refused him admission. He was, however, reelected in December, 1919, with an increased majority, but again refused admission. He was once more reelected to the Sixty-eighth Congress with a very much increased majority. In 1921, the Supreme Court of the United States, to which the case was referred by the appellate court, reversed the Landis sentence, and in 1922 the Government withdrew all the other cases pending against him. He was also reelected to the Sixty-ninth Congress. He has been prominent as a pioneer organizer of the Socialist movement and was a member of the national executive committee of that party for many years. Mrs. Meta Berger, his wife, has been a member of the Milwaukee school board for the last 16 years and is still a member. ¹ Until within recent years the appointment or election of a President pro tempore was held by the Senate to be for the occasion only, so that more than one appears in several sessions and in others none were chosen. Since Mar. 12, 1859, they have served until the Senate otherwise ordered.

² The Constitution (Art. I, sec. 3) provided that the Congress should assemble Mar. 4, 1789, and thereafter "in every year" on the first Monday in December, unless they shall by law appoint a different day. Up to and including May 20, 1820, 18 acts were passed providing for the meeting of Congress on other days in the year. Since that year Congress has met regularly on the first Monday in December. The first and second sessions of the First Congress were held in New York. Subsequently, until the second session of the Sixth Congress, Philadelphia was the meeting place, since then Congress has convened in Washington.

THE CAPITOL BUILDING.

The Capitol is situated in latitude 38° 53' 20.4" north and longitude 77° 00' 35.7" west from Greenwich. It fronts east and stands on a plateau 88 feet above the level of the Potomac.

ORIGINAL BUILDING.

The southeast corner stone of the original building was laid on the 18th of September, 1793, by President Washington, with Masonic ceremonies. It is constructed of sandstone from quarries on Aquia Creek, Va. The original designs were prepared by Dr. William Thornton, and the work was done under the direction of Stephen H. Hallet, James Hoban, George Hadfield, and B. H. Latrobe, architects. The north wing was finished in 1800 and the south wing in 1811. A wooden passageway connected them. On the 24th of August, 1814, the interior of both wings was destroyed by fire, set by the British. The damage to the building was immediately repaired. In 1818 the central portion of the building was commenced, under the architectural superintendence of Charles Bulfinch. The original building was finally completed in 1827. Its cost, including the grading of the grounds, alterations, and repairs, up to 1827, was $2,433,844.13.

EXTENSIONS.

The corner stone of the extensions was laid on the 4th of July, 1851, by President Fillmore, Daniel Webster officiating as orator. This work was prosecuted under the architectural direction of Thomas U. Walter till 1865, when he resigned, and it was completed under the supervision of Edward Clark. The material used in the walls is white marble from the quarries at Lee, Mass., and that in the columns from the quarries at Cockeysville, Md. The House extension was first occupied for legislative purposes December 16, 1857, and the Senate January 4, 1859.

The value of the Capitol Building and Grounds, October 14, 1911, was as follows: Building, $15,000,000; grounds, $10,400,000; total, $25,400,000.

DIMENSIONS OF THE BUILDING

The entire length of the building from north to south is 751 feet 4 inches, and its greatest dimension from east to west, 350 feet. The area covered by the building is 153,112 square feet.

DOME

The Dome of the original central building was constructed of wood, covered with copper. This was replaced in 1856 by the present structure of cast iron. It was completed in 1865. The entire weight of iron used is 8,909,200 pounds.

The Dome is crowned by a bronze statue of Freedom, which is 19 feet 6 inches high and weighs 12,985 pounds. It was modeled by Crawford. The height of the Dome above the base line of the east front is 287 feet 5 inches. The height from the top of the balustrade of the building is 217 feet 11 inches. The greatest diameter at the base is 135 feet 5 inches.

The Rotunda is 97 feet 6 inches in diameter, and its height from the floor to the top of the canopy is 180 feet 3 inches.

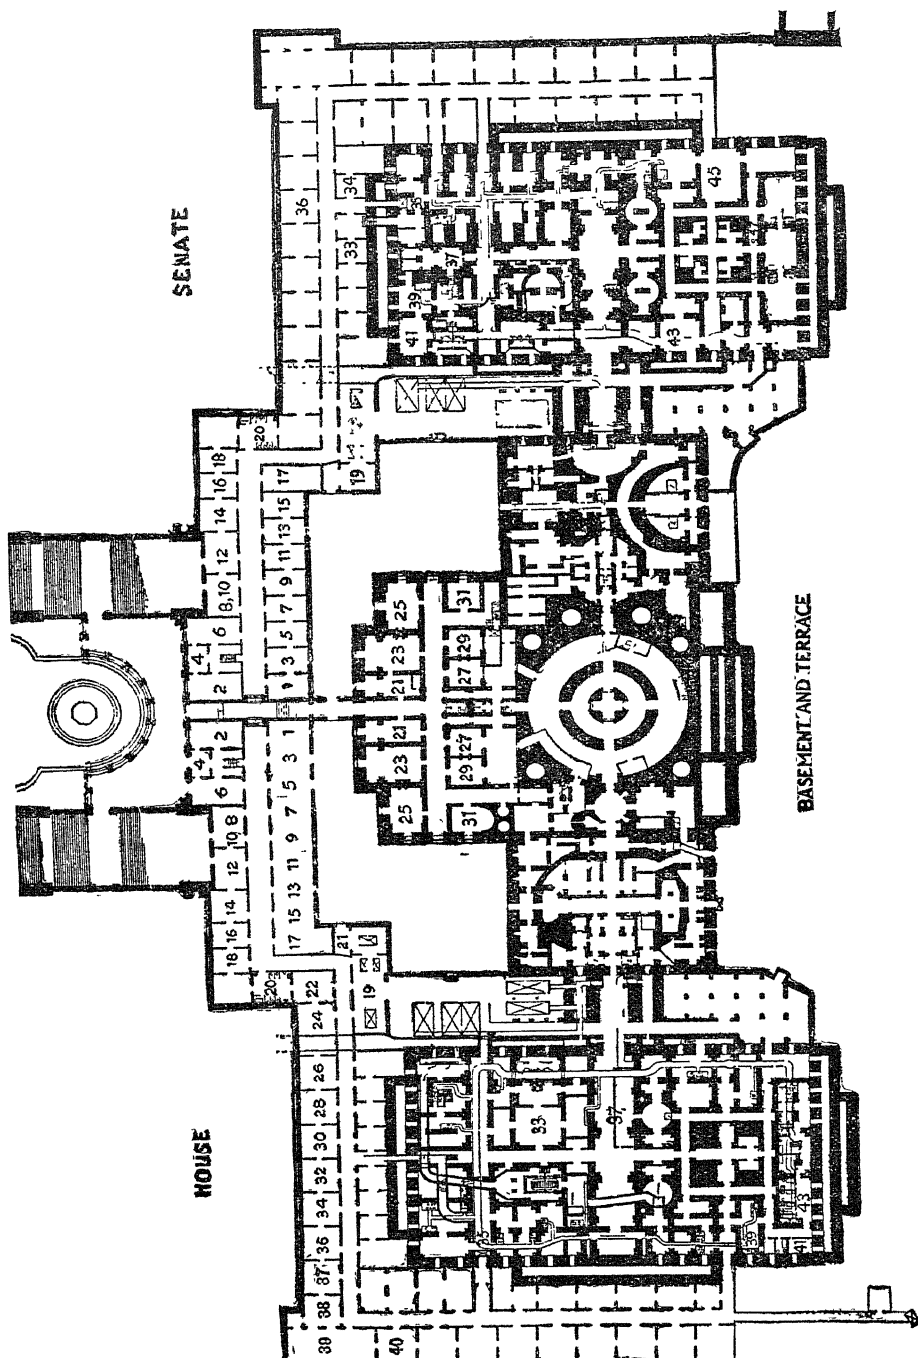

The Senate Chamber is 113 feet 3 inches in length by 80 feet 3 inches in width and 36 feet in height. The galleries will accommodate 1,000 persons.

The Representatives' Hall is 139 feet in length by 93 feet in width and 36 feet in height.

The room now occupied by the Supreme Court was, until 1859, occupied as the Senate Chamber. Previous to that time the court occupied the room immediately beneath, now used as a law library.

OFFICE BUILDINGS.

The value of the Senate and House Office Buildings and Grounds is as follows: Senate Building, $3,732,078; grounds, $746,111; total, $4,478,189. House Building, $3,342,011; grounds, $743,452; total, $4,085,463.

FISCAL BUREAUS AND OFFICES.

COMPTROLLER OF THE CURRENCY

The Comptroller of the Currency is the chief officer of that bureau of the Treasury Department which is charged with the execution of all laws passed by Congress relating to the issue and regulation of the national currency, generally known as national-bank notes, secured by United States bonds; and under the supervision of the Federal Reserve Board is also in charge of the issue of circulating notes to Federal reserve banks.

In addition to these powers the comptroller exercises general supervision over all national banks throughout the United States, including Alaska and Hawaii, in the matter of their organization and regulation. He is vested with the power to appoint receivers and through the courts to enforce penalties prescribed for violations of the national-bank act. The comptroller, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, also appoints all national-bank examiners. Under the Federal reserve act he executed and issued the certificates or charters for the Federal reserve banks. The Comptroller of the Currency is ex officio a member of the Federal Reserve Board.

Reports of condition of all national banks are made to the comptroller not less frequently than three times a year by the banks, and also periodically by the national-bank examiners appointed by him.

His powers are exercised under the general supervision of the Secretary of the Treasury, but under the law his annual report is made direct to Congress; all other bureaus of the Treasury Department report to Congress through the Secretary of the Treasury.

TREASURER OF THE UNITED STATES.

The Treasurer of the United States is charged with the receipt and disbursement of all public moneys that may be deposited in the Treasury at Washington and in the national-bank depositories; is redemption agent for national-bank notes, Federal reserve bank notes, and Federal reserve notes; is trustee for bonds held to secure national-bank circulation and public deposits in national banks, and bonds held to secure postal savings in banks; is custodian of miscellaneous trust funds; is fiscal agent for paying interest on the public debt and for paying the land-purchase bonds of the Philippine Islands, principal and interest; is treasurer of the board of trustees of the Postal Savings System; and is ex officio commissioner of the sinking fund of the District of Columbia.

BUREAU OF THE BUDGET.

The Bureau of the Budget was created by the act approved June 10, 1921. It is in the Treasury Department but not under the jurisdiction or direction of that department. The bureau is under the immediate direction of the President. Under rules and regulations prescribed by the President, the bureau prepares for him the annual budget and such supplemental or deficiency estimates as the President may recommend from time to time to Congress. To this end the bureau has the authority, under the act, "to assemble, correlate, revise, reduce, or increase the estimates of the several departments and establishments." (Sec. 207.) The act requires the head of each department and establishment to appoint a budget officer whose duty it is to prepare, under his direction, the departmental estimates of appropriations and such supplemental or deficiency estimates as may be required. (Sec. 214.) This official is a sort of liaison officer between the department and the Bureau of the Budget. The bureau deals directly with them in the routine work of preparing the budget. The estimates are prepared and submitted to the bureau in such form, manner, and detail as the President prescribes. (Sec. 216.) On or before September 15 of each year the head of each department and establishment revises his estimates and submits them to the bureau. (Sec. 215.)

The bureau is authorized, when directed by the President, to make detailed studies of the departments and establishments for the purpose of enabling the President to determine what changes should be made, in the interest of economy and efficiency, in "(1) the existing organization of activities, and methods of business of such departments or establishments, (2) the appropriations therefor, (3) the assignment of particular activities to particular services, or (4) the regrouping of services." (Sec. 209.) Each department and establishment is required, under regulations by the President, to furnish to the bureau such information as the bureau may from time to time require. Officials of the bureau are given the authority to have access, for the purposes of examination, to the books, papers, and records of any department or establishment. (Sec. 213.)

The office of chief coordinator was created by Circular No. 15, Bureau of the Budget, July 27, 1921, and the duties of this office were later enlarged by the following Budget circulars, Nos. 22, 23, 25, 26, 35, 41, 42, 47, 52, 54, and Executive Order No. 3578, dated The White House, November 8, 1921.

Subject to general supervision by the Director of the Bureau of the Budget, the chief coordinator handles all questions of coordination arising through the application of the policies of the President and of the Congress to the routine business activities of the executive branch of the Government.

COMMISSIONER OF INTERNAL REVENUE.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue, under the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, has general superintendence of the assessment and collection of all internal-revenue taxes; the enforcement of internal-revenue laws; the enforcement of the national prohibition act and the Harrison Narcotic Act; the selection, compensation, and assignment to duty of all internal-revenue officers and employees, and the preparation and distribution of instructions, regulations, forms, blanks, stationery, stamps, etc.

DIRECTOR OF THE MINT.

The Director of the Mint has general supervision of all the mints and assay offices of the United States. He prescribes the rules, to be approved by the Secretary of the Treasury, for the transaction of business at the mints and assay offices, receives daily reports of their operations, directs the coinage to be executed, reviews the accounts, authorizes all expenditures, superintends the annual settlements of the several institutions, and makes special examinations of them when deemed necessary. All appointments, removals, and transfers in the mints and assay offices are subject to his approval.

Tests of the weight and fineness of coins struck at the mints are made in the assay laboratory under his charge. He publishes quarterly an estimate of the value of the standard coins of foreign countries for custom house and other public purposes. An annual report is prepared by the director, giving the operations of the mint service for the fiscal year, printed in the Finance Report of the Secretary of the Treasury, and giving the statistics of the production of the precious metals in the United States and the world for the calendar year.

THE FEDERAL FARM LOAN BOARD.

The Federal Farm Loan Board is charged with the administration of the Federal farm loan act and that portion of the agricultural credits act of March 4, 1923, providing for the establishment and operation of the Federal intermediate credit banks. It established the twelve Federal land banks and the twelve Federal intermediate credit banks, fixed their respective districts, conducted elections for their directors so chosen, and appointed others as by law provided, supervises the operations of these banks, appoints their registrars and appraisers, and has power to grant charters to national farm loan associations and joint stock land banks, which are likewise subject to its supervision. It is the duty of the board to prepare amortization tables and to disseminate by its publications and through the press articles setting forth to borrower and investor the advantages of the laws establishing these banks. It may authorize Federal land banks to appoint agents for making loans to farmers in localities which fail to organize national farm loan associations, and has power to fix, revise and alter rates of interest charged by Federal land and intermediate credit banks; to grant or refuse to Federal land banks or joint stock land banks authority to make any bond issue; to grant or refuse to Federal intermediate credit banks to make any debenture issue; to control charges made against borrowers for expenses incident to obtaining loans; and to exercise such incidental powers as are necessary or requisite to fulfill its duties and carry out the purpose of the Federal farm loan act and the agricultural credits act.

REGISTER OF THE TREASURY.

The Register of the Treasury receives, examines, records, and files all paid and canceled securities representing the interest and principal of the public debt of the United States, and keeps records of the outstanding principal of such indebtedness. He examines and approves for credit in the public debt account the Treasurer's monthly report of paid interest coupons, redeemed and purchased securities, and certifies to and transmits such accounts to the Comptroller General of the United States.

BUREAU OF ENGRAVING AND PRINTING.

The Bureau of Engraving and Printing designs, engraves, and prints for the Government all United States bonds, certificates of indebtedness, Treasury notes, United States currency, national bank currency, Federal reserve notes, Federal Farm Loan and Joint Stock Land Bank bonds; revenue, customs, and postage stamps; disbursing officer's, pension, retirement, and interest checks; liquor permits, passports, drafts, warrants, transportation requests; certificates, commissions, and licenses for various purposes; and many other classes of engraved work for governmental use. It also designs, engraves, and prints, bonds, currency, revenue, and postage stamps as authorized by the Bureau of Insular Affairs for the insular possessions of the Government.

MISCELLANEOUS BUREAUS.

PUBLIC HEALTH SERVICE.

The bureau of the Public Health Service at Washington comprises seven divisions, and the chief clerk's office, the operations of which are coordinated and are under the immediate supervision of the Surgeon General.

The Division of Scientific Research conducts the scientific investigations of the service. Intensive studies of diseases of man, including anthrax, botulism, influenza, malaria, pellagra, plague, pneumonia, tuberculosis, and typhoid fever; of child, school, mental, and industrial hygiene; of public health administration; of morbidity; of milk; and of stream pollution and sewage are carried on from special headquarters in the field in cooperation with State and local health authorities. Technical and purely laboratory studies are conducted at the Hygienic Laboratory in Washington, at special field laboratories, and at the leprosy investigation station in Hawaii, the latter being carried on in connection with the medical treatment of lepers. Information thus obtained is disseminated through publications, correspondence, lectures, and conferences with health authorities concerning the results of field studies in their jurisdictions. Through the division the department enforces the act of July 1, 1902, to regulate the sale of viruses, serums, toxins, and analogues products, including arsphenamine. The division is in charge of control measures of trachoma, through the establishment of hospitals and clinics, in the Appalachian Mountain district and other points where the disease is prevalent. The Surgeon General is required by law to call an annual conference of State and Territorial health authorities, and special conferences may also be called at any time. For advice in respect to scientific investigations he may convene the advisory board of the Hygienic Laboratory.

Through the Division of Foreign and Insular Quarantine and Immigration the Surgeon General enforces the national quarantine laws and prepares regulations relating thereto and is vested with the administration of the national quarantine stations. In accordance with a specific act of Congress, officers of the United States Public Health Service conduct the medical examination of all aliens entering the United States and its insular possessions. There are a total of 99 quarantine stations in the United States and its insular possessions, and arriving aliens are given medical inspection at 85 ports (exclusive of insular possessions). For the purpose of enforcing the provisions of the United States Quarantine Regulations applicable to vessels departing from foreign ports to the United States, 38 medical officers of the Public Health Service are assigned to 36 American consulates in order to prevent the transmission of contagious or infectious diseases into the United States.

The Division of Domestic Quarantine carries out measures to suppress epidemics, such as plague and typhus fever, and measures to prevent the spread of epidemic diseases in the United States. The latter includes—

1. Enforcement of the Interstate Quarantine Regulations of the United States.
2. Development of State departments of health, especially divisions of communicable diseases and sanitary engineering.
3. Control over water supplies used for drinking and culinary purposes on railroads, vessels, and other interstate carriers.
4. Sanitation of the National Parks in cooperation with the National Park Service.
5. Rural sanitation and measures against trachoma.

The Division of Sanitary Reports and Statistics collects and publishes information regarding the prevalence and geographic distribution of diseases dangerous to the public health in the United States and foreign countries. Court decisions, laws, regulations, and ordinances pertaining to the public health are compiled, digested, and published. Its publications contain articles on subjects relating to the public health. The division issues the Public Health Reports (weekly) and supplements to, and reprints from the Public Health Reports. The section on Public Health Education cooperates with State, local, and volunteer health agencies to extend health educational service throughout the United States. This involves the preparation and distribution of bulletins, stereopticon slides, moving pictures, exhibits, posters, placards, and charts on subjects relating to public health.

Through the Division of Marine Hospitals and Relief, hospital care and treatment is provided for beneficiaries at 25 marine hospitals. Medical examination and hospital and outpatient treatment is provided at 119 other relief stations of the service. The beneficiaries include seamen and officers of registered, enrolled, or licensed merchant vessels of the United States and of the Coast Guard and Lighthouse Service; keepers and assistant keepers of lighthouses and keepers and surfmen of the United States Coast Guard; seamen employed on United States Army transports and other vessels belonging to the United States Army, when not enlisted men, including vessels of the Engineer Corps of the Army; civil employees injured while in the performance of their duty; lepers in accordance with public act No. 299, Sixty-sixth Congress; seamen employed on vessels of the Mississippi River Commission; officers and crews of vessels of the Bureau of Fisheries and the Coast and Geodetic Survey, patients for special studies and investigation; and disabled veterans of the World War who are patients of the United States Veterans' Bureau. Physical examinations are made of employees of and applicants to the United States Coast Guard to detect color blindness in masters, mates, and pilots; patients of the United States Veterans' Bureau; claimants under the United States Employees Compensation Commission; and applicants for and employees occupying positions in the classified civil service. The medical evidence of disability in claims for benefits against the United States Coast Guard is also reviewed. Free medical advice for ships at sea is also furnished for transmission by radio, and courses of instruction in the principles of first aid for the benefit of applicants applying to the Steamboat Inspection Service, Department of Commerce, for original license as master, mate, pilot, or engineer are being inaugurated.

Under the supervision of the Surgeon General, the Division of Personnel and Accounts transacts all bureau matters relating to the appointment, promotion, transfer, resignation, or other change in status of service personnel, convenes boards for the examination or discipline of medical officers, and maintains all personnel records. Through the Section of Finance and Accounts of this division all appropriations for the service are allotted, all vouchers covering expenditures examined, and all expenditures recorded.

The Division of Venereal Diseases was created by act of Congress in July, 1918, "(1) to study and investigate the cause, treatment, and prevention of venereal diseases; (2) to cooperate with State boards or departments of health for the prevention and control of such diseases within the States; and (3) to control and prevent the spread of these diseases in interstate traffic." The division is organized to carry out the duties assigned to it by the act. Cooperative venereal disease clinics have been established in approximately 475 locations. At these clinics venereally infected persons are receiving modern scientific treatment and are controlled by laboratory methods. State boards of health are being cooperated with by the service in 48 States which have qualified to receive their share of allotments under the act of February 17, 1922. A comprehensive nation-wide campaign for securing the necessary educational publicity regarding the seriousness of venereal diseases is being carried on. Hundreds of various agencies are cooperating with the Public Health Service in the extension of this work. Interstate quarantine regulations to prevent the spread of these diseases in interstate traffic have been promulgated by the Secretary of the Treasury.

The general inspection service carries out all special investigations and makes inspections of all activities of the service.

The chief clerk has charge of the following: (1) Appointments, promotions, and discipline of the clerical personnel of the bureau. (2) Time records and leaves of absence. (3) Office quarters occupied by the bureau in Washington, and equipment therein. (4) Furnishing supplies of stationery and blanks to the bureau and field stations. (5) The official files of the bureau and the receipt and dispatch of mail. (6) The bureau library. (7) Procuring of printing through the Government Printing Office and supervision of the appropriation therefor. (8) Improvement of office methods.

COAST GUARD

The Commandant of the Coast Guard is charged by law with the administration of the Coast Guard, under the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury in time of peace and under the direction of the Secretary of the Navy in time of war. Headquarters are located at present in the Darby Building, Fourteenth and E Streets. The act of January 28, 1915, provided that the Coast Guard be created in lieu of the then existing Revenue Cutter Service and the Life Saving Service, and to be composed of those two organizations. It also provided that it shall constitute a part of the military forces of the United States, and shall operate under the Treasury Department in time of peace and operate as a part of the Navy, subject to the orders of the Secretary of the Navy, in time of war or when the President shall so direct.

In general, the duties of the Coast Guard may be classified as follows: Rendering assistance to vessels in distress and saving life and property; destruction or removal of wrecks, derelicts, and other floating dangers to navigation; extending medical aid to American vessels engaged in deep-sea fisheries; protection of the customs revenue; operating as a part of the Navy in time of war or when the President shall direct; enforcement of law and regulations governing anchorage of vessels in navigable waters; enforcement of law relating to quarantine and neutrality; suppression of mutinies on merchant vessels; enforcement of navigation and other laws governing merchant vessels and motor boats; enforcement of law to provide for safety of life on navigable waters during regattas and marine parades, protection of game and the seal and other fisheries in Alaska, etc.; enforcement of sponge fishing laws.

To assist the Commandant in conducting the business of his office there are established at headquarters an inspector, having cognizance of matters relating to the inspection of vessels, stations, boats, and all other property, and the following:

Division of operations: Having cognizance of matters relating to the operations and personnel of the service.

Division of matériel: Having cognizance of matters relating to supplies, outfits, equipment, accounts, and the files.

Office of construction and repair: Having cognizance of matters relating to the construction of and repairs to the hulls of vessels and boats, stations, wharves, and all other property.

Office of engineer in chief: Having cognizance of matters relating to the construction of and repairs to the motive power of vessels and boats and the machinery of all other property.

Under the direction of the Commandant statistics are prepared of casualties to vessels of the United States. He is also required to acquaint himself, as far as practicable, with all means employed in foreign countries which may seem to affect advantageously the interests of the Coast Guard, and to cause to be properly investigated all plans, devices, and inventions for the improvement of life-saving apparatus for use at the stations which may appear to be meritorious and available.

SUPERVISING ARCHITECT

Subject to the direction and approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, the duties performed by the Supervising Architect embrace the following: Securing cessions from States of jurisdiction over sites and the payment for the same, preparation of drawings, estimates, specifications, etc., for, and the superintendence of the work of, constructing, rebuilding, extending, or repairing public buildings, the care, maintenance, and repair of public buildings, the direction of the operating force in public buildings, and the supply of furniture, carpets, lighting fixtures, mechanical equipment, safes, and miscellaneous supplies for use of custodians' and engineers' forces in the care of public buildings.

BUREAU OF SUPPLY

The Bureau of Supply has charge of all of the functions in connection with the purchase of equipment and supplies formerly carried on by offices, divisions, services, and bureaus in the Treasury Department in Washington and in the field, except those of the Bureau of the Mint, Coast Guard, and Bureau of Engraving and Printing. The bureau further has control over the storage and distribution of stocks of stationery, etc., belonging to the department. Accounting for the funds allotted to the bureau for the purchase of supplies, together with the approval for the payment of vouchers, is also a function of this bureau. The bureau exercises supervision over the activities of the General Supply Committee.

GENERAL SUPPLY COMMITTEE.

The General Supply Committee was created by the act of June 17, 1910 (36 Stat. 531), in lieu of the Board of Awards provided for in section 3709 of the Revised Statutes as amended, and is composed of officers, one from each of the executive departments, designated by the head thereof. The Superintendent of Supplies, who is appointed by the Secretary of the Treasury, is ex officio secretary of the General Supply Committee, and he conducts all correspondence, supervises the preparation of all contracts, and performs such other duties as the Secretary of the Treasury may direct. It is the duty of the General Supply Committee to make an annual schedule of required miscellaneous supplies for the use of each of the executive departments and other Government establishments in Washington, to standardize such supplies eliminating all unnecessary grades and varieties, and to solicit bids based upon formulas and specifications drawn up by such experts in the service of the Government as the committee may see fit to call upon, who shall render whatever assistance they may require, provided that the articles intended to be purchased in this manner shall be those in common use by or suitable to the ordinary needs of two or more such departments or establishments. Every purchase or drawing of such supplies from the contractor is immediately reported to said committee. No disbursing officer may be a member of the committee.

By the Executive order of December 3, 1918, and Treasury Department Regulations, dated December 10, 1918, the General Supply Committee has direct charge of the transfer and sale of surplus office material, supplies, and equipment in the hands of the executive departments and other establishments of the Government in the District of Columbia, and is required to keep a record of all material received and disposed of by it.

The Executive order of August 27, 1919, carrying into effect the provisions of the act of July 11, 1919, designates the General Supply Committee as the central agency to maintain records of all material, supplies, and equipment available throughout the United States because of the cessation of war activities. To the committee are directed all inquiries from the various governmental establishments regarding the availability of such surplus supplies and equipment.

DEPARTMENT OF WAR.SECRETARY OF WAR.

The Secretary of War is head of the War Department, and performs such duties as are required of him by law or may be enjoined upon him by the President concerning the military service.

He is charged by law with the supervision of all estimates of appropriations for the expenses of the department, including the Military Establishment, of all purchases of Army supplies; of all expenditures for the support, transportation, and maintenance of the Army, and of such expenditures of a civil nature as may be placed by Congress under his direction.

He also has supervision of the United States Military Academy at West Point and of military education in the Army, of the various battle-field commissions, and of the publication of the Official Records of the War of the Rebellion.

He has charge of all matters relating to national defense and seacoast fortifications, Army ordnance, river and harbor improvements, the prevention of obstruction to navigation, and the establishment of harbor lines; and all plans and locations of bridges authorized by Congress to be constructed over the navigable waters of the United States require his approval. He also has charge of the establishment or abandonment of military posts; of all matters relating to leases, revocable licenses, and all other privileges upon lands under the control of the War Department; and with the operation of certain transportation facilities on the inland, canal, and coastwise waterways, and the construction of terminal facilities for the interchange of traffic between those transportation facilities and other carriers.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF WAR.

The Assistant Secretary is charged with supervising and acting upon the procurement and manufacture of supplies and the purchase and lease of real estate, including licenses for temporary use of land under War Department control; approval of expenditures from funds allotted; the approval of purchase vouchers; requests on the Secretary of the Treasury to issue warrants to disbursing officers; plans for the mobilization of materials and industry for war; claims against the War Department; the sale of surplus supplies, equipment, plants, land, or other facilities; approval of inventory and inspection reports; approval of routine expenditures from the appropriation "Contingencies of the Army", approval of expenditures for military posts; authorizing of advertising; use of patent rights by the War Department and Army; matters relating to military parks; matters relating to national cemeteries; matters relating to river and harbor works, and the activities relating to the National Association for the Promotion of Rifle Practice; and civilian marksmanship.

ASSISTANT AND CHIEF CLERK.

The Assistant and Chief Clerk of the War Department is the head of the Office of the Secretary of War, and as such has charge of the records and files, and supervision of the receipt, distribution, and transmission of the official mail and correspondence of that office. By law he is authorized to sign such official papers and documents as the Secretary of War may direct. He is charged with supervising and acting upon appointments, promotions, transfers, and separations in the civil service and other matters affecting civilian employees in and under the War Department in Washington and elsewhere; printing and binding and newspaper advertising for the War Department and the Army; expenditures from War Department appropriations for contingent expenses, stationery, and postage; the War Department telephone service, and the War Department post office; allotment of office space assigned for the use of the War Department in the District of Columbia; and performs such other duties as may be required by the Secretary of War.

WAR DEPARTMENT GENERAL STAFF.

The War Department General Staff is organized under the provisions of the act approved June 4, 1920.

The Chief of Staff is the immediate adviser of the Secretary of War on all matters relating to the Military Establishment and is charged by the Secretary of War with the planning, development, and execution of the Army program. He causes the War Department General Staff to prepare the necessary plans for recruiting, mobilizing, organizing, supplying, equipping, and training the Army for use in the national defense and for demobilization. As the agent and in the name of the Secretary of War, he issues such orders as will insure that the plans of the War Department are harmoniously executed by all branches and agencies of the Military Establishment and that the Army program is carried out speedily and efficiently.

The War Department General Staff is charged with the preparation of plans as outlined above, including those for the mobilization of the manhood of the Nation in an emergency. It investigates and reports upon questions affecting the efficiency of all branches of the Army and their state of preparation for military operations. Assisted by an appropriate number of reserve officers (as prescribed in sec. 5, act of June 4, 1920), it formulates all policies and regulations affecting the organization, distribution, and training of the National Guard and the Organized Reserves, and all policies and regulations affecting the appointment, assignment, promotion, and discharge of reserve officers. It performs such other military duties not otherwise assigned by law as may be from time to time prescribed by the President, and renders professional aid and assistance to the Secretary of War and the Chief of Staff.

The Deputy Chief of Staff assists the Chief of Staff and acts for him in his absence. He reports directly to the Secretary of War in all matters not involving the establishment of important policies. In addition to his other duties, he is charged with supervision over the activities of all the divisions of the War Department General Staff.

The War Department General Staff includes the following divisions, each division being under the immediate control of an Assistant Chief of Staff: Personnel Division (First Division); Military Intelligence Division (Second Division); Operations and Training Division (Third Division); Supply Division (Fourth Division); War Plans Division. For the first four divisions, the abbreviations G-1, G-2, G-3, G-4, respectively, are prescribed. The prescribed abbreviation for the War Plans Division is W. P. D. The chiefs of the several divisions of the War Department General Staff will be designated as Assistant Chiefs of Staff; the prescribed abbreviation A. C. of S. is followed by the prescribed abbreviation of the division.

The Personnel Division is charged, in general, with those duties of the War Department General Staff which relate to the personnel of the Army as individuals. It is specifically charged with the preparation of plans and policies and the supervision of activities concerning the procurement, classification, assignment, promotion, transfer, retirement, and discharge, in peace and war, of all personnel of the Army of the United States, including the Regular Army, the National Guard, the Organized Reserves, the Officers' Reserve Corps, the Enlisted Reserve Corps, and the Citizens Military Training Camps, measures for conserving man power; replacements of personnel, Army regulations, uniform regulations, and such general regulations as especially concern individuals or matters of routine not specifically assigned to other sections, decorations, religious, recreational, and morale work; the Red Cross and similar agencies, with the exception of such part or parts of said agencies as may be wholly devoted to hospital and medical relief work; enemy aliens, prisoners of war, and conscientious objectors, including their security.

The Military Intelligence Division is charged, in general, with those duties of the War Department General Staff which relate to the collection, evaluation, and dissemination of military information. It is specifically charged with the preparation of plans and policies and the supervision of all activities concerning: Military topographical surveys and maps, including their reproduction and distribution; the custody of the General Staff map and photograph collection; military attachés, observers, and foreign-language students; intelligence personnel of all units, liaison with other intelligence agencies of the Government and with duly accredited foreign military attachés and missions; codes and ciphers; translations, relations with the press, censorship in time of war.

The Operations and Training Division is charged, in general, with those duties of the War Department General Staff which relate to the organization, training, and operation of the military forces not expressly assigned to the War Plans Division. It is specifically charged with the preparation of plans and policies and the supervision of activities concerning Organization, including Tables of Organization, for all branches of the Army of the United States; assignments of units to higher organizations; so much of Tables of Equipment as relate to the allotment of major items of equipment to units and the distribution of such items within units; distribution and training, including educational and vocational training of the Army of the United States, the National Guard, and Organized Reserves; location of units of the Regular Army and Organized Reserves; all drill and service regulations, field service regulations, and General Staff manuals, special service schools and general service schools, including the Army War College, and the Command and General Staff School; military training in civilian institutions and in civilian training camps, priorities in assigning replacements and equipment and important priorities affecting mobilization, movement of troops, military police.

The Supply Division is charged in general with those duties of the War Department General Staff which relate to the supply of the Army and with the preparation of basic supply plans. It is specifically charged with the preparation of plans and policies and the supervision of activities concerning: Distribution, storage, and issue of supplies; transportation by land and water including ports of embarkation and their necessary auxiliaries, traffic control; tables of equipment, the quantities and types of military supplies required for the use of the Army and essential to the military program; inventions, leasing of War Department facilities and issuing of revocable licenses; hospitalization and evacuation of men and animals, including such agencies or parts of agencies as may be wholly devoted to hospital and medical relief work; distribution and movement of supply, technical, and labor troops not employed as combat units, property responsibility and accountability, the determination and statement of plans and policies governing the preparation of estimates for funds for military purposes and priorities pertaining thereto and, when necessary with the restatement of such priorities to govern the expenditure of all funds appropriated, the formulation of policies and projects governing the procurement of real estate in connection with the training, shelter, and housing of troops, and with the storage, distribution, and issue of supplies, policies relative to the procurement, construction, repair, maintenance, and disposition of buildings and all utilities connected therewith.

The War Plans Division is charged, in general, with those duties of the War Department General Staff which relate to the formulation of plans for the use in the theater of war of the military forces, separately or in conjunction with the naval forces, in the national defense. It is specifically charged with the preparation of plans and policies and the supervision of activities concerning: Location and armament of coast and land fortifications; estimate of forces required and times at which they may be needed under various possible conditions necessitating the use of troops in the national defense; the initial strategical deployment; actual operations in the theater of war; consultation with G-3 and G-4 on major items of equipment; peace maneuvers, terrain exercises, and staff rides involving units higher than a division; and joint Army and Navy exercises. The War Plans Division is so organized as to enable it, in the event of mobilization, to furnish the nucleus of the General Staff personnel for each of the General Staff Divisions required at the General Headquarters in the Field.

OFFICE OF THE CHIEF OF CAVALRY

The Chief of Cavalry is under the supervision of the Chief of Staff in all matters relating to his arm, and furnishes the Chief of Staff with information and advice on all questions affecting the Cavalry. He exercises direct supervision and control of Fort Riley, Kans., including the Cavalry School, the Cavalry Board, and certain troops and installations thereat designated by the Secretary of War. DEPARTMENT OF THE NAVY.

SECRETARY OF THE NAVY.

The Secretary of the Navy performs such duties as the President of the United States, who is Commander in Chief, may assign him, and has the general superintendence of construction, manning, armament, equipment, and employment of vessels of war.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF THE NAVY.

The Assistant Secretary of the Navy performs such duties in the Navy Department as may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Navy or required by law.

CHIEF CLERK.

As administrative assistant to the Secretary and Assistant Secretary of the Navy, the chief clerk has administrative control over the clerical force and responsibility for the general business operations of the Navy Department, involving supervision over matters relating to the employees of the department; responsibility for the enforcement of departmental regulations general in their nature; supervision over the classification and compilation of estimates of appropriations; supervision over the Navy Department post office; supervision over expenditures from appropriations for contingent and miscellaneous expenses of the department and printing and binding and partial supervision over expenditures from appropriations "Pay, miscellaneous," and "Contingent, Navy"; he has custody of the records and files of the Secretary's office and supervision of the receipt, distribution, and transmission of the official mail and correspondence of that office; and performs such other duties as may be required by the Secretary or Assistant Secretary of the Navy.

OFFICE OF NAVAL OPERATIONS.

During the temporary absence of the Secretary and the Assistant Secretary of the Navy the Chief of Naval Operations is next in succession to act as Secretary of the Navy. (Act March 3, 1915.) The Chief of Naval Operations, while so serving as such Chief of Naval Operations, shall have the rank and title of admiral, to take rank next after the Admiral of the Navy. (Act August 29, 1916.)

The Chief of Naval Operations, under the direction of the Secretary of the Navy, is charged with the operations of the fleet and with the preparation and readiness of plans for its use in war. (Act Mar. 3, 1915.) This includes the direction of the Naval War College, the Office of Naval Intelligence, the Office of Fleet Training, the operation of the Radio Service and of other systems of communication, the operations of the Aeronautic Service, of Mines and Mining, of the Naval Defense Districts, Naval Militia, and of the Coast Guard when operating with the Navy; the direction of all strategic and tactical matters, organization, maneuvers, target practice, drills and exercises, and of the training of the fleet for war; and the preparation, revision, and enforcement of all tactics, drill books, signal codes, and cipher codes.

The Chief of Naval Operations so coordinates all repairs and alterations to vessels and the supply of personnel and material thereto as to insure at all times the maximum readiness of the fleet for war.

The Chief of Naval Operations is charged with the preparation, revision, and record of Regulations for the Government of the Navy, Naval Instructions, and General Orders. He advises the Secretary concerning the movements and operations of vessels of the Navy, including their assignment for docking, repair, and alterations, and prepares all orders issued by the Secretary in regard thereto, and keeps the records of service of all fleets, squadrons, and ships. He advises the Secretary in regard to the military features of all new ships and as to any proposed extensive alterations of a ship which will affect her military value, and all features which affect the military value of dry docks, including their location; also as to matters pertaining to fuel reservations and depots, the location of radio stations, reserves of ordnance and ammunition, fuel, stores, and other supplies of whatsoever nature, with a view to meeting effectively the demands of the fleet.

In preparing and maintaining in readiness plans for the use of the fleet in war he freely consults with and has the advice and assistance of the various bureaus, boards, and offices of the department, including the Marine Corps headquarters, in matters coming under their cognizance. After the approval of any given war plans by the Secretary it is the duty of the Chief of Naval Operations to assign to the bureaus, boards, and offices such parts thereof as may be needed for the intelligent carrying out of their respective duties in regard to such plans.

The Chief of Naval Operations is charged with matters pertaining to the operation of aircraft.

The Chief of Naval Operations from time to time witnesses the operations of the fleet as an observer.

He is ex officio a member of the General Board.

ORGANIZATION OF THE OFFICE OF NAVAL OPERATIONS

For administrative purposes, and next in authority to the Chief of Naval Operations, an officer of suitable rank and experience is designated as Assistant to the Chief of Naval Operations. The Assistant to the Chief of Naval Operations does not administer the details of any division.

The primary functions of the Office of Naval Operations are—

- (1) Study and preparation of policies and plans; and
- (2) The operation and administration of the forces of the Navy in accordance with approved plans.

The functions of (1) are not administrative, and all work in connection therewith is carried on by a body known as the planning division, none of whose members are given administrative duties.

The administrative divisions are as follows:

- 1 Ship movements division
- 2 Intelligence division

3. Communication division
4. Material division
5. Naval districts division
6. Inspection division
7. Fleet training division
8. Secretarial division

WAR PLANS DIVISION, NAVAL OPERATIONS

The War Plans Division is charged with the preparation and maintenance of Basic War Plans for the development and maintenance of the naval forces in a state of readiness for war and for operating in war. These plans are designed to serve as a guide for all major activities of the naval service.

The War Plans Division studies and makes recommendation on questions having a bearing on approved Basic War Plans.

The Director War Plans Division, is a member of the Joint Board and is senior member of the Board for the Development of Navy Yard Plans. Three or more officers of the War Plans Division are detailed to form the Navy section of the Joint Army and Navy Planning Committee. One or more officers of the War Plans Division are assigned as members of the Aeronautical Board and of the Munitions Board. Through membership on these boards and committees the War Plans Division assists in the coordination of the plans and policies of the War and Navy Departments.

SHIP MOVEMENTS DIVISION, NAVAL OPERATIONS.

The movements of all naval craft, whether surface, subsurface, or air, not specially designated for training and experimental purposes exclusively, are directed by the Chief of Naval Operations or the Assistant Chief of Naval Operations, through the officers charged with the responsibility of supervising the movements of:

- (1) Fighting craft of the Navy, and
- (2) All other naval craft

One of the most important duties in connection with this division is the liaison with the Shipping Board and the merchant marine.

INTELLIGENCE DIVISION, NAVAL OPERATIONS

(Office of Naval Intelligence.)

The Intelligence Division is charged with the collection of information for the department and for other naval activities which require it. It publishes and disseminates such information to the Navy and to Government officials requiring it. It cooperates with the other executive departments of the Government in discovering and bringing to justice persons engaged in activities against the United States. It directs all naval attachés abroad and is the official channel of communication for all foreign naval attachés in the United States.

It is the duty of the Office of Naval Intelligence to keep in close touch with all naval activities, both in and out of the Navy Department.

In time of war the Office of Naval Intelligence has charge of the censorship of cables and radio.

The Historical Section collects and classifies, with a view to publication, the records of the naval history of the World War.

COMMUNICATION DIVISION, NAVAL OPERATIONS.

(Office of the Director of Naval Communications.)

The Director of Naval Communications is charged with the administration, organization, and operation of the entire radio, telegraph, telephone, and cable systems of communications within the naval service, including the operation of the trans-Atlantic radio system and all communications between merchant ships and all shore stations in the United States and its possessions. The foregoing includes the preparation and distribution of all codes, ciphers, and secret calls and commercial accounting. The Director of Naval Communications handles all matters pertaining to naval radio communications in any manner whatsoever, except those relating solely to purchase, supply, test, and installation of apparatus.

The communication office of the Navy Department (a section of the Communication Division) is responsible for the handling of all telegraphic and radio communications to and from the Navy Department.

MATERIAL DIVISION, NAVAL OPERATIONS.

The Material Division advises the Chief of Naval Operations on material matters ashore and afloat affecting the efficiency of the Naval Establishment. In so doing the division keeps in close touch with the material bureaus and the navy yards, naval stations, and the high commands afloat.

NAVAL DISTRICTS DIVISION, NAVAL OPERATIONS.

Correspondence relating to naval district matters, records of vessels commandeered during the World War by purchase or charter, and their disposition; sale of purchased and obsolete naval vessels; records of vessels retained for use in naval districts; responsible for preparation of war plans for shore establishments and local defense forces, military operating readiness, and operating plans for same.

NAVAL RESERVE POLICY SECTION, NAVAL OPERATIONS.

This section is charged with the initiation and formulation of the department's policies relating to the size, organization, administration, training, and mobilization of the Naval Reserve and with the coordination of the resultant duties imposed upon the various offices and bureaus of the Navy Department.

The general scope of the duties of this office relating to the Naval Reserve are as follows:

(a) Recommend to the department the allotment of Naval Reserve appropriations. Determine the number and assignment of naval vessels to the training of the Naval Reserve.

(b) Determine the numbers of officers and men to be maintained from year to year in the various classes of the Naval Reserve to meet the needs of the Navy.

(c) Determine the distribution of the personnel of the Naval Reserve among the naval districts.

(d) Determine and prescribe the principles which are to govern the active training of the Naval Reserve when afloat. This will include the degree to which the fleet shall be made available for such training.

(e) Determine and prescribe the principles which are to govern the organization and administration of the Naval Reserve within the Naval Districts.

(f) Determine and prescribe the principles which are to govern the mobilization of the Naval Reserve in time of war or national emergency.

(g) Determine the measures that are necessary, in time of peace, to insure that the personnel of the merchant marine shall be of maximum service to the country in time of war.

INSPECTION DIVISION, NAVAL OPERATIONS.

(Board of Inspection and Survey.)

The activities at present under this division are

- (a) Board of inspection and survey; and
- (b) Joint merchant vessels board.

The board of inspection and survey is charged with inspections and trials of newly constructed naval vessels and, at intervals specified by law, with the material inspections of all vessels of the Navy. It is in close coordination with the Matériel Division of the Chief of Naval Operations.

The joint merchant vessels board is charged with the inspection of privately owned craft and the securing of such data relative to such craft as will determine their suitability for military purposes.

FLEET TRAINING DIVISION, NAVAL OPERATIONS.

This division of the Office of Naval Operations is charged with the following

(a) The preparation of a balanced program of fleet training based upon approved war plans, and the current degree of readiness for war in each branch of fleet training.

(b) Cooperation with the fleet and the Naval War College, in study, research, and experiment in all branches of fleet training for war.

(c) The preparation of general instructions for the conduct of fleet exercises.

(d) The preparation of the War Instructions, and other standard instructions, manuals, and drill books governing the military activities of the fleet in war and in training for war.

(e) The collection, analysis, and review of all data in regard to fleet training and compilation of the same into suitable reports for the information and guidance of the service.

BUREAU OF NAVIGATION.

The duties of the Bureau of Navigation comprise the distribution of personnel, the issue, record, and enforcement of the orders of the Secretary to the individual officers of the Navy; the training and education of line officers and of enlisted men (except of the Hospital Corps) at schools and stations and in vessels maintained for that purpose; the upkeep and operation of the Naval Academy, of technical schools for line officers, of the apprentice-seaman establishments, of schools for the technical education of enlisted men, and of the Naval Home at Philadelphia, Pa.; the upkeep and the payment of the operating expenses of the Naval War College; the enlistment, assignment to duty, and discharge of all enlisted persons.

(2) It has under its direction all rendezvous and receiving ships, and provides transportation for all enlisted persons under its cognizance.

(3) It establishes the complements of all ships in commission.

(4) It keeps the records of service of all officers and men, and prepares an annual Navy Register for publication, embodying therein data as to fleets, squadrons, and ships, which shall be furnished by the Chief of Naval Operations. To the end that it may be able to carry out the provisions of this paragraph, all communications to or from ships in commission relating to the personnel of such ships are forwarded through this bureau, whatever their origin.

(5) It is charged with all matters pertaining to applications for appointments and commissions in the Navy, and with the preparation of such appointments and commissions for signature.

(6) It is charged with the preparation, revision, and enforcement of all regulations governing uniform, and with the distribution of all orders and regulations of a general or circular character.

(7) Questions of naval discipline, rewards, and punishments are submitted by this bureau for the action of the Secretary of the Navy. The records of all general courts-martial and courts of inquiry involving the personnel of the Navy before final action are referred to this bureau for comment as to disciplinary features.

(8) It receives and brings to the attention of the Secretary of the Navy all applications from officers for duty or leave.

(9) It receives all reports of services performed by individual officers or men.

(10) It is charged with the enforcement of regulations and instructions regarding naval ceremonies and naval etiquette.

(11) It shall be charged with the upkeep and operation of the Hydrographic Office, the Naval Observatory, Nautical Almanac, and compass offices. It shall also have charge of all ocean and lake surveys, and ships' and crews' libraries; it shall defray the expenses of pilotage of all ships in commission.

(12) It is charged with carrying on the administration and training of the Naval Reserve in accordance with the policies of the Office of the Chief of Naval Operations.

(13) It is charged with general supervision of the instruction and training of personnel.

(14) It advises the Secretary of the Navy on personnel matters.

NAVAL OBSERVATORY, BUREAU OF NAVIGATION.

The Naval Observatory at Washington, D. C., sends out daily the time signals which establish standard time for the country and enable the mariner at sea to ascertain his chronometer error and his longitude by observation. The signals are transmitted by the Naval Radio Stations at Arlington, Annapolis, and Key West, and the noon signal by land wire also. Similar service for the Pacific coast is furnished by the Navy Chronometer and Time Station at Mare Island, Calif. Special signals are sent by the Naval Observatory for use of United States and foreign scientific institutions, astronomical work, surveying, eclipse, and longitude expeditions.

At the Naval Observatory is carried on the administration for the development, supply, upkeep, repair, and inspection of navigational, aeronautical, and aerological instruments for the ships and aircraft of the Navy.

The Naval Observatory maintains continuously observations for absolute positions of the fundamental stars, and the independent determination, by observations of the sun, of the position of the ecliptic and of the Equator among the stars, and of the positions of the stars, moon, and planets with reference to the Equator and equinoxes, in order to furnish data to assist in preparing the American Ephemeris and Nautical Almanac and improving the tables of the planets, moon, and stars. At the same time this department furnishes the observations for determining the time.

The Nautical Almanac Office of the Naval Observatory computes and prepares for publication the American Ephemeris and Nautical Almanac and its smaller edition the Nautical Almanac.

HYDROGRAPHIC OFFICE, BUREAU OF NAVIGATION

The Hydrographic Office is charged with topographic and hydrographic surveys in foreign waters and on the high seas; the collection and dissemination of hydrographic and navigational information and data; the preparation and printing by its own personnel and with its own equipment of maps and charts relating to and required in navigation, including confidential, statistical, and tactical charts required for naval operations and maneuvers, the preparation and issue of sailing directions, pilot, light lists, pilot charts, navigational manuals, periodicals, and radio broadcasts for the use of all vessels of the United States and for the benefit and use of mariners generally; the furnishing of the foregoing to the Navy and other public services, and the sale to the mercantile marine of all nations and to the general public, at the cost of printing and paper. It maintains intimate relations with the hydrographic offices of all foreign countries, and with the International Hydrographic Bureau, Monaco, and (through branch hydrographic offices and sales agents) with mariners and the general public.

BUREAU OF YARDS AND DOCKS

The duties of the Bureau of Yards and Docks comprise all that relates to the design and construction of public works, such as dry docks, marine railways, building ways, harbor works, quay walls, piers, wharves, slips, dredging, landings, floating and stationary cranes, power plants, coaling plants, heating, lighting, telephone, water, sewer, and railroad systems; roads, walks, and grounds; bridges, radio towers, and all buildings, for whatever purpose needed, under the Navy and Marine Corps. It has cognizance over repairs to the same and provides for general maintenance, except at the naval proving ground, the naval torpedo stations, the naval air stations, the naval training stations, the Naval Academy, the naval magazines, naval hospitals, and marine posts; it designs and makes the estimates for the public works after consulting as to their operating features with the bureau or office for whose use they are primarily intended; it has charge of all means of transportation, such as locomotives, locomotive cranes, cars, derricks, shears, motor trucks, and all vehicles, horses, teams, and necessary operators and teamsters in the navy yards and naval stations; it provides the furniture for all buildings, except at the naval magazines, hospitals, the Naval Academy, and marine posts; it provides clerks for the offices of the commandant, captain of the yard, and public works officer. In general, the work of the bureau is carried out by commissioned officers of the Corps of Civil Engineers, United States Navy, whose major duties comprise the construction and maintenance of the public works of the Navy.

BUREAU OF ORDNANCE.

The Bureau of Ordnance has cognizance over the upkeep and operation of the following naval ordnance establishments and of their repair except as otherwise provided in Naval Regulations:

- (f) Naval ammunition depots.
- (g) Naval magazines on shore.
- (h) Naval mine depots.

And of all that relates to the manufacture of offensive and defensive arms and apparatus (including torpedoes and armor), all ammunition and war explosives. It requires for or manufactures all machinery, apparatus, equipment, material, and supplies required by or for use with the above.

It determines the interior dimensions of revolving turrets and their requirements as regards rotation.

As the work proceeds it inspects the installation of the permanent fixtures of the armament and its accessories on board ship, and the methods of stowing, handling, and transporting ammunition and torpedoes, all of which work shall be performed to its satisfaction. It designs and constructs all turret ammunition hoists, determines the requirements of all ammunition hoists, and the method of construction of armories and ammunition rooms on shipboard, and, in conjunction with the Bureau of Construction and Repair, determines upon their location and that of ammunition hoists outside of turrets. It installs all parts of the armament and its accessories which are not permanently attached to any portion of the structure of the hull, excepting turret guns, turret mounts, and ammunition hoists, and such other mounts as require simultaneous structural work in connection with installation or removal. It confers with the Bureau of Construction and Repair respecting the arrangements for centering the turrets and the character of the roller paths and their support.

It has cognizance of all electrically operated ammunition hoists, lammers, and gun-elevating gear which are in turrets, of electric training and elevating gear for gun mounts not in turrets, of electrically operated air compressors for charging torpedoes, and of all range finders and battle order and range transmitters and indicators.

BUREAU OF CONSTRUCTION AND REPAIR.

The duties of the Bureau of Construction and Repair comprise the responsibility for the structural strength and stability of all ships built for the Navy: all that relates to designing, building, fitting, and repairing the hulls of ships, turrets, and electric turret-turning machinery, spars, capstans, windlasses, deck winches, boat cranes, steering gear, and hull ventilating apparatus (except portable fans); and, after consultation with the Bureau of Ordnance and according to the requirements thereof as determined by that bureau, the designing, construction, and installation of independent ammunition hoists, the same to conform to the requirements of the Bureau of Ordnance as to power, speed, and control, and the installation of the permanent fixtures of all other ammunition hoists and their appurtenances; placing and securing armor, placing and securing on board ship to the satisfaction of the Bureau of Ordnance the permanent fixtures of the armament and its accessories as manufactured and supplied by that bureau, installing the turret guns, turret mounts, and turret ammunition hoists, and such other mounts as require simultaneous structural work in connection with installation or removal; also the designing and installing to the satisfaction of the Bureau of Aeronautics all aeronautic accessories that are an integral part of the structure of naval vessels.

It has charge of the docking of ships, and is charged with the operating and cleaning of dry docks.

It is responsible for the care and preservation of ships not in commission.

It has cognizance of electric launches and other boats supplied with electric motive power.

It has charge of the manufacture of anchors and cables, the supplying and fitting of rope, cordage, rigging, sails, awnings, and other canvas, and flags and bunting, it supplies, to the satisfaction of the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts, galley ranges, steam cookers, and other permanent galley fittings, and installs and repairs the same.

It supplies and installs, in consultation with the Bureau of Engineering, all voice tubes and means of mechanical signal communications.

BUREAU OF ENGINEERING

1. The duties of the Bureau of Engineering comprise all that relates to designing; building, fitting out, and repairing machinery used for the propulsion of naval ships, pumps (except motor driven pumps for drainage and for distribution of fresh water for ship's use); steam and electric heaters; fuel-oil apparatus, distilling apparatus, refrigerating apparatus; air compressors (except those required for adjusting and diving compressors on submarines and for charging torpedoes); all steam connections of ships; and the steam machinery necessary for actuating the apparatus by which turrets are turned.

2. (a) It has cognizance of all that relates to electric generating sets and storage batteries; the generation and distribution of electric power on board ship for all purposes; all means of interior communication, including telephones and telegraphs of all descriptions and mechanical means of interior communication; all methods of electric signaling, internal and external; all other electrical apparatus on board ship, except gyro compass and anemometer equipment (Bureau of Navigation); fire control instruments (Bureau of Ordnance); galley ranges and ovens (Bureau of Construction and Repair). Motors and control appliances used to operate machinery under the cognizance of other bureaus.

(b) It determines the number and locations of voice tube outlets and size of voice tubes

(c) The running of cable and the installation of conduit is made after consultation with the Bureau of Construction and Repair.

3. It has charge of the design, manufacture, installation, maintenance, and repair of radio and sound outfits on board ship, in aircraft, and on shore. It provides and maintains pigeons for communications.

4. It inspects all fuel for the fleet.

5. It has supervision and control of the upkeep and operation of the Engineering Experiment Station, Annapolis, Md., and the Fuel Oil Testing Plant, Philadelphia, Pa.

6. It maintains in the field offices of Inspectors of Machinery and Engineering Material, wherein is provided a force of trained naval and civilian experts for the inspection of all the machinery and engineering materials used by it, the Bureau of Yards and Docks and certain materials for other bureaus, and to interpret and enforce strict compliance with the engineering specifications for the construction of the vessels as regards the characteristics of the material used and the method of installation of the completed parts.

7. It nominates to the Bureau of Navigation specially qualified officers for engineering duties at sea and on shore, including those for duty as inspectors of machinery and inspectors of engineering material.

8. It compiles and issues pamphlets for the dissemination of engineering information and prepares and issues a bulletin of confidential engineering information.

9. With the Bureau of Construction and Repair it has a joint supervision and control over the appropriation "Increase of the Navy, Construction and Machinery."

BUREAU OF MEDICINE AND SURGERY.

The Bureau of Medicine and Surgery shall have charge of the upkeep and operation of all hospitals and of the force employed there; it shall advise with respect to all questions connected with hygiene and sanitation affecting the service, and to this end shall have opportunity for necessary inspection; it shall provide for physical examinations; it shall pass upon the competency, from a professional standpoint, of all men in the Hospital Corps for enlistment, enrollment, and promotion by means of examinations conducted under its supervision, or under forms prescribed by it; it shall recommend and have information as to the assignment and duties of all enlisted men of the Hospital Corps; it shall recommend to the Bureau of Navigation the complement of medical officers, dental officers, nurses, and Hospital Corps men for hospitals and hospital ships, and shall have power to appoint and remove all nurses in the Nurse Corps, subject to the approval of the Secretary of the Navy.

Except as otherwise provided for, the duties of the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery shall include the upkeep and operation of medical supply depots, medical laboratories, naval hospitals, dispensaries, technical schools for the Medical, Dental, and Hospital Corps, and the administration of the Nurse Corps.

It shall approve the design of hospital ships in so far as relates to their efficiency for the care of the sick and wounded.

It shall require for all supplies, medicines, and instruments used in the Medical Department of the Navy. It shall have control of the preparation, reception, storage, care, custody, transfer, and issue of all supplies of every kind used in the Medical Department for its own purposes.

The Bureau of Medicine and Surgery is charged with the duty of inspecting the sanitary condition of the Navy and making recommendations in reference thereto: of advising with the department and other bureaus with reference to the sanitary features of ships under construction and in commission regarding berthing, ventilation, location of quarters for the care and treatment of the sick and injured; of the provisions for the care of wounded in battle; and, in the case of shore stations, of advising in regard to health conditions depending on location, the hygienic construction and care of public buildings, especially of barracks and other habitations, such as camps. It shall advise in regard to water supplies used for drinking, cooking, and bathing purposes, and drainage and the disposal of wastes, so far as these affect the health of the Navy. It shall provide for the care of the sick and wounded, the physical examination of officers and enlisted men, with a view to the selection or retention of those only whose physical condition is such as to maintain or improve the military efficiency of the service if admitted or retained therein, the management and control of naval hospitals, and of the internal organization and administration of hospital ships, the instruction of the personnel of the Hospital Corps and Nurse Corps, and the furnishing of all medical and hospital supplies. It shall advise in matters pertaining to clothing and food so far as these affect the health of the Navy. It shall safeguard the personnel by the employment of the best methods of hygiene and sanitation, both afloat and ashore, with a view to maintaining the highest possible percentage of the personnel ready for service at all times. It shall adopt for use all such devices or procedures as may be developed in the sciences of medicine and surgery which will in any way tend to an increase in military efficiency. All technical schools which are or may be established for the education of medical and dental officers or members of the Hospital Corps and Nurse Corps shall be under the supervision and control of the Bureau of Medicine and Surgery.

BUREAU OF SUPPLIES AND ACCOUNTS.

The duties of the Bureau of Supplies and Accounts comprise all that relates to the purchase (including the preparation and distribution of schedules, proposals, contracts, and bureau orders and advertisements connected therewith, and the Navy's list of acceptable bidders), reception, storage, care, custody, transfer, shipment, issue of and accounting for all supplies and property of the Naval Establishment except medical supplies (but including their purchase) and supplies for the Marine Corps.

The Paymaster General of the Navy has direction of the naval clothing factories and their cost of operation.

He has supervision over requisitions and service covering provisions, clothing, and canteen stocks; allotments under S. and A. appropriations and the accounting for allotments for ships under all appropriations; the preparation and issuance of allowance lists for ships of S. and A. material, the disposition of excess stocks accumulated at the various yards and the upkeep of naval supply account stock, he recommends to the Bureau of Yards and Docks the interior arrangements of storehouses ashore and to the Bureau of Construction and Repair the character of the permanent galley fittings and interior storeroom arrangement of all naval vessels.

He has direction of the sale of condemned, salvaged, and scrap, or other materials, and the transfer thereof from point to point.

He procures all coal, fuel oil, and gasoline for Navy use, including expenses of transportation, leased storage, and handling the same, and water for all purposes on board naval vessels, and the chartering of merchant vessels for transportation purposes.

He originates the details to duty of officers of the supply corps.

BUREAU OF AERONAUTICS.

The duties of the Bureau of Aeronautics comprise all that relates to designing, building, fitting out, and repairing Naval and Marine Corps aircraft, except that the bureau recommends to each bureau of the Navy Department the nature and priority of experimental development and production of aeronautic material under that bureau's cognizance. When designs are to be prepared for new types of aircraft the Bureau of Aeronautics has duties, within its cognizance, similar to those assigned to other bureaus of the department. The bureau furnishes information covering all aeronautic planning, operations, and administration that may be necessary to the administration of the Navy Department. The bureau makes recommendations to the Bureau of Navigation for the details of officers for duty in connection with aeronautics, for the distribution in the various ratings of the enlisted personnel required for aeronautic activities, and on all matters pertaining to aeronautic training, to the Major General Commandant, United States Marine Corps, for the details of officers for duty in connection with aeronautics, and for the distribution in the various ratings of the enlisted personnel required for aeronautic activities; also relative to all matters pertaining to aeronautic training. The bureau has cognizance over the policy of the upkeep and operation of

(a) Naval aircraft factories;

(b) Naval aeronautic experimental stations,

(c) Helium plants, in so far as they come under naval cognizance.

The experimental and test work of the other bureaus of the Navy Department affecting aeronautic material is made in accordance with requests of the Bureau of Aeronautics. The installation of ordnance material in aircraft and the repairs of public works utilities at aeronautic shore establishments, as well as their upkeep and operation, are under the cognizance of the Bureau of Aeronautics.

OFFICE OF THE JUDGE ADVOCATE GENERAL OF THE NAVY.

The Judge Advocate General of the Navy shall, in accordance with the instructions creating his office, have cognizance of all matters of law arising in the Navy Department and shall perform such other duties as may be assigned him by the Secretary of the Navy.

The duties of the Judge Advocate General of the Navy shall be to advise and report upon the legal features of and to have recorded the proceedings of all courts-martial, courts of inquiry, boards of investigation and request and boards for the examination of officers for retirement and promotion in the naval service; to prepare orders and specifications for courts-martial and the necessary orders for civil courts-martial in cases where such courts are ordered by the Secretary of the Navy; to prepare courts-martial orders promulgating the final action of the reviewing authority in general courts-martial cases, except those of enlisted men conveyed by orders other than the Secretary of the Navy; to prepare the necessary orders convening courts of inquiry and boards for the examination of officers for promotion and retirement; for the examination of all candidates for appointment as officers in the naval service other than midshipmen, and in the Naval Reserve Force, where such courts and boards are ordered by the Secretary of the Navy, and to conduct all official correspondence relating to such courts and boards.

It shall also be the duty of the Judge Advocate General of the Navy to examine and report upon all questions relating to rank and precedence, to promotions and retirement, and to the validity of the proceedings in courts-martial cases, all matters relating to the supervision and control of naval prisons and prisoners, including prisoners of war; the removal of the mark of desertion; the correction of records of service of the naval personnel; certification of discharge in true name; pardons; the interpretation of statutes; references to the general accounting officers of the Treasury; proceedings in the civil courts by or against the Government or its officers; preparation of advertisements, proposals, and contracts; insurance; patents; the sufficiency of official contracts, and other bonds and guaranties; claims by or against the Government, and to conduct the correspondence respecting the foregoing duties, including the preparation for submission to the Attorney General of all questions which the Secretary of the Navy may direct to be so submitted.

It shall be the duty of the Judge Advocate General of the Navy to examine and report upon all bills and resolutions introduced in Congress and referred to the department for report; to draft all proposed legislation arising in the Navy Department; and to conduct the correspondence in connection with these duties.

The study of international law is assigned to the Office of the Judge Advocate General of the Navy. He shall examine and report upon questions of international law as may be required.

He shall be charged, under the special instructions of the Secretary of the Navy, with the searching of titles, purchase, sale, transfer, and other questions affecting lands and buildings pertaining to the Navy, and with the care and preservation of all muniments of title to land acquired for naval uses.

HEADQUARTERS UNITED STATES MARINE CORPS.

The Major General Commandant of the Marine Corps is responsible to the Secretary of the Navy for the general efficiency, discipline, and operations of the corps in all branches of its activities. The headquarters is organized as the office of the Major General Commandant and three staff departments.

The assistant to the Major General Commandant has general supervision over recruiting; assignments and complements of officers and enlisted men; constabulary detachments; passports; transportation on naval transports; Marine Corps Institute and post schools (other than military).

He was designated custodian of records, files, and property of United States Coal Commission by Executive order of September 13, 1923.

FIRST ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR.

In the absence of the Secretary the First Assistant Secretary becomes Acting Secretary. He is charged with the supervision of the business of the General Land Office, including cases appealed to the Secretary of the Interior from decisions of that bureau involving public lands; applications for easements or rights of way for reservoirs, ditches, railroads, and telephone lines; applications for oil, gas, coal, and potash prospecting permits and leases; selections of public land under grants made by Congress to aid in the construction of railroads and wagon roads, for reclamation, and for the benefit of educational and other public institutions, etc. The Reclamation Bureau, Bureau of Mines, and National Park Service are under his supervision, also matters from all bureaus relating to public lands. He is the budget officer of the department. From time to time duties in connection with the affairs of other bureaus of the department are assigned to him.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF THE INTERIOR

The Assistant Secretary has general supervision over all matters concerning the Patent Office, Geological Survey, the Pension Office (including appeals from the decisions of the Commissioner of Pensions), Indian Office matters, excepting those affecting the disposal of the public domain, the Bureau of Education, Territorial affairs of Alaska and Hawaii, the execution of contracts for the contingent, stationery, etc., appropriations for the department; also for St. Elizabeths Hospital, Freedmen's Hospital, and Howard University; and various miscellaneous matters over which the department has jurisdiction. He also considers proposed legislation pertaining to matters under his supervision. Duties in connection with the affairs of other bureaus are assigned to him from time to time.

DIRECTOR OF THE GEOLOGICAL SURVEY.

The Director of the Geological Survey is charged under direction of the Secretary of the Interior with classification of the public lands and the examination of the geologic structure, mineral resources, and mineral products of the national domain. In conformity with this authorization, the Geological Survey has been engaged in making a geologic map of the United States and Alaska, involving both topographic and geologic surveys, in collecting annually the statistics of mineral production, and in conducting investigations relating to surface and underground waters.

THE COMMISSIONER OF THE BUREAU OF RECLAMATION

The Commissioner of the Bureau of Reclamation, under the direction of the Secretary of the Interior, is charged with investigation, construction, and management of irrigation developments in the arid States as authorized by the reclamation act of June 17, 1902, and amendments.

DIRECTOR OF THE BUREAU OF MINES.

The Director of the Bureau of Mines is charged with the investigation of the methods of mining, especially in relation to the safety of miners and the appliances best adapted to prevent accidents, the possible improvement of conditions under which mining operations are carried on, the treatment of ores and other mineral substances, the use of explosives and electricity, the prevention of accidents, the prevention of waste, and the improvement of methods in the production of petroleum and natural gas, and other inquiries and technological investigations pertinent to such industries. He has charge of tests and analyses of coals, lignites, ores, and other mineral fuel substances belonging to or for the use of the United States; supervises the work of mine inspection in Alaska; and administers the regulations governing the production of coal, oil, gas, and phosphate from lands mined under Government lease. He also has charge of the Government fuel yards for the storage and distribution of fuel for the use of and delivery to all branches of the Federal service and the municipal government in the District of Columbia and such parts thereof as may be situated immediately without the District of Columbia.

DIRECTOR OF NATIONAL PARK SERVICE.

The Director of the National Park Service is charged with the duty of administering the national parks and national monuments under the jurisdiction of the Interior Department, including their maintenance, improvement, and protection, and the control of the public operators conducting utilities therein for the care and comfort of the visitors.

BOARD OF INDIAN COMMISSIONERS.

The Board of Indian Commissioners, created in 1869, is a body of unpaid citizens, appointed by the President, who maintain an office in Washington, for the expenses of which and of travel Congress appropriates. The board is not a bureau or division of any department, but is purposely kept reasonably independent and afforded opportunities for investigation in order that it may freely express an intelligent and impartial opinion concerning Indian legislation and administration. Its legal duties are to visit and inspect branches of the Indian Service, to cooperate with the Commissioner of Indian Affairs in the purchase and inspection of Indian supplies, and to report to the Secretary of the Interior, to whom and to the President the board acts in an advisory capacity, with respect to plans of civilizing or dealing with the Indians.

THE ALASKA RAILROAD.

The Alaskan Engineering Commission was created under the act of March 12, 1914, which empowered, authorized, and directed the President to locate, construct, operate, or lease a railroad, or railroads, to connect the interior of Alaska with one or more of the open navigable ports on the coast. Authority was also granted to purchase existing railroads, to construct, maintain, and operate telegraph and telephone lines, and to make reservations of public lands in Alaska necessary for the purposes of the railroad.

For the execution of this work a commission of three engineers was appointed by the President to make the necessary surveys. They were directed to report to the Secretary of the Interior, under whom the President placed the general adminis-tiation of the work. After the completion of the preliminary surveys the President, by Executive order, selected the route for the railway from the coast to the interior. Construction of the railway was begun in 1915, under the general supervision of the Secretary of the Interior.

The railroad was completed in the spring of 1923 and is now under operation. By Executive order of June 8, 1923, the President placed the operation of the railroad under the Secretary of the Interior and by order of the Secretary of the Interior of August 15, 1923, the designation of the Alaskan Engineering Commission was changed to The Alaska Railroad, and a general manager was appointed in October of 1923.

WAR MINERALS RELIEF.

The War Minerals Relief Commission assists the Secretary of the Interior in the adjustment of claims filed under the war minerals relief act (sec. 5, act of Mar. 2, 1919, 40 Stat. 1274, as amended Nov. 28, 1921), for losses incurred in providing or preparing to produce manganese, chrome, pyrites, or tungsten during the war.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE.

SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE.

The Secretary of Agriculture is charged with the work of promoting agriculture in its broadest sense. He exercises general supervision and control over the affairs of the department and formulates and establishes the general policies to be pursued by its various branches and offices.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF AGRICULTURE

The Assistant Secretary of Agriculture becomes Acting Secretary in the absence of the Secretary and assists in the general supervision of the work of the department.

SOLICITOR

The solicitor is the legal adviser of the Secretary and the heads of the several branches of the department. He directs and supervises all law work of the department.

OFFICE OF EXPERIMENT STATIONS

The Office of Experiment Stations exercises the supervision provided by law over the work and expenditures of the State agricultural experiment stations, serving as a general clearing house for the national system and assisting in various ways to promote its efficiency; it supervises the work and expenditures of the agricultural experiment stations maintained by the department in Alaska, Hawaii, Porto Rico, Guam, and the Virgin Islands; and compiles and disseminates information regarding the progress of agricultural research through Experiment Station Record and other publications.

PUBLICATION WORK.

The Office of Publications has charge of the publication work of the department. It edits manuscripts, prepares illustrations, makes indexes, revises proofs, attends to job and other printing, and directs the distribution of publications.

AGRICULTURAL EXTENSION SERVICE

The extension service which is composed of the Office of Cooperative Extension Work, Office of Exhibits, and Office of Motion Pictures, represents the Secretary of Agriculture in his relations with the State agricultural colleges, under the acts of Congress granting funds for these institutions for cooperative extension work in agriculture and home economics, and in carrying out the provisions of acts of Congress making appropriations to this department for farmers' cooperative demonstration work, and for exhibits at State, interstate, and international fairs within the United States. All extension work of the department clears through this service.

WEATHER BUREAU.

The Weather Bureau has charge of the forecasting of the weather; the issue and display of weather forecasts, and storm, cold-wave, frost, and flood warnings; the gauging and reporting of river stages, the maintenance and operation of the United States Weather Bureau telegraph and telephone lines; the collection and transmission of marine intelligence for the benefit of commerce and navigation, the reporting of temperature and rainfall conditions for agricultural interests; and the taking of such meteorological observations as may be necessary to determine and record the climatic conditions of the United States including investigations in aerology in the aid of aviation and in seismology.

BUREAU OF ANIMAL INDUSTRY

The Bureau of Animal Industry has charge of the work of the department relating to the livestock industry. In general it deals with the investigation, control, and eradication of diseases of animals, the inspection and quarantine of livestock, the inspection of meat and meat products and with animal husbandry and dairying.

BUREAU OF DAIRYING

The Bureau of Dairying investigates problems relating to the dairy industry, under the following general projects: Bacteriology and chemistry of milk; breeding and nutrition of dairy cattle; dairy cattle management; dairy sanitation; dairy plant management; market milk; the manufacture of dairy products and by-products; and the introduction into the field of new principles and methods in dairying.

BUREAU OF PLANT INDUSTRY

The Bureau of Plant Industry studies plant life in all its relations to agriculture. The scientific work of the bureau is divided into 30 distinct groups, over each of which is placed a scientifically trained officer, who reports directly to the chief and associate chief of the bureau. The work of the bureau is conducted on the project plan, the investigations under each of the offices being arranged by projects consisting of groups of closely related lines of work.

FOREST SERVICE

The Forest Service administers the national forests; aids and advises in timber growing on privately owned land; studies forest conditions, methods of growing timber, and methods of forest utilization; investigates the mechanical and physical properties of woods and the processes employed in the manufacture of forest products; and gathers information concerning the needs of the various wood-using industries and the relation of forests to the public welfare generally.

BUREAU OF CHEMISTRY

The Bureau of Chemistry is concerned with analytical work and investigation under the food and drugs act, questions of agricultural chemistry of public interest, and other chemical investigations referred to it by the Government.

BUREAU OF SOILS

The Bureau of Soils investigates the relation of soils to climate and organic life; studies the texture and composition of soils in field and laboratory; maps the soils; studies the cause and means of preventing the use of alkali in the soils of irrigated districts; the relations of soils to seepage and drainage conditions, and the fertilizer resources of the country.

BUREAU OF ENTOMOLOGY

The Bureau of Entomology studies insects in their economic relation to agriculture and agricultural products and to the health of man and animals; experiments with the introduction of beneficial insects; makes tests with insecticides and insecticide machinery; and identifies insects sent in by inquirers.

BUREAU OF BIOLOGICAL SURVEY.

The Bureau of Biological Survey studies the distribution and habits of native wild life, makes biological surveys of areas, and maps the natural life zones of the country; investigates the relation of wild birds and animals to agriculture and stock raising, with a view to the control of the harmful and the conservation of the useful species, conducts campaigns for the extermination of predatory wild animals, destructive rodents, and other injurious forms; experiments in fur farming, and studies the diseases to which fur bearers are subject in captivity; investigates Alaskan reindeer management, and administers big game and bird reservations, and Federal laws relating to migratory game, nongame, and insectivorous birds, to importations of foreign wild birds and animals, to interstate commerce in wild birds and game, and to Alaskan land fur-bearing animals.

BUREAU OF PUBLIC ROADS.

The Bureau of Public Roads administers the Federal aid road act, under which the Government cooperates with the States in improvement of roads of the Federal aid highway system and national forest roads; studies systems of road management, administration and finance, methods of road construction and maintenance; tests road materials; conducts research with its own forces solely and in cooperation with colleges, experiment station, and State highway departments to determine the causes of road depreciation and wear and devise better methods of road design; investigates methods of land irrigation and drainage; studies farm power problems; and offers an advisory service in connection with all matters concerned with the application of engineering and architectural principles to the farm and farm home.

BUREAU OF AGRICULTURAL ECONOMICS.

The Bureau of Markets and Crop Estimates and the Offices of Farm Management and Farm Economics were united in one bureau on July 1, 1922, by the act making appropriations for the Department of Agriculture for the fiscal year 1923. This bureau conducts investigations in the costs of production and marketing, farm organization, farm financial relations, farm labor, agricultural history and geography, land economics, and the problems of rural life. The bureau also acquires and disseminates information regarding the marketing and distributing of farm and nonmanufactured food products, and collects, compiles, summarizes, interprets, and makes public statistical data relating to agricultural production. Studies are made of marketing methods, conditions, and costs, and with regard to the standardization, transportation, handling, and storage of agricultural products. Demonstrational work is conducted in connection with these studies. Reports are issued by the bureau which contain information on the supply, commercial movement, disposition, and market prices of fruits and vegetables, livestock and meats, dairy and poultry products, and hay, feed, and seed. Information is also secured and published with regard to the supply of and demand for certain agricultural products in foreign countries. Summaries and analyses covering this information are published in the weekly Crops and Markets, and supplements which embody current statistics relating to the acreage, yield, condition, and production of crops, numbers of livestock, and value of farm products. Other special reports are issued at intervals. A market inspection service on fruits and vegetables is now available at many of the principal producing and receiving centers of the country and on butter at five of the principal terminal markets. Regulatory work is performed in connection with the enforcement of the United States cotton futures act, the United States grain standards act, the standard container act, and in connection with the administration of the United States warehouse act. The chief of the bureau acts as liquidating officer of the wool section of the War Industries Board. Center Market in the city of Washington is also operated by this bureau.

BUREAU OF HOME ECONOMICS.

The Bureau of Home Economics has charge of the investigation of problems connected with the home. The work is conducted under the following divisions: Foods and nutrition, economic problems of the home, textiles and clothing, housing and equipment.

FIXED NITROGEN RESEARCH LABORATORY.

The principal function of the Fixed Nitrogen Research Laboratory consists in conducting researches on methods of fixing the nitrogen of the atmosphere for agricultural, industrial, and military purposes. This includes the improvement of the existing processes (cyanamid, haber, arc, and cyanide), the discovery and development of new processes, and the study of the transformation of nitrogen compounds from one form to another.

DIVISION OF ACCOUNTS AND DISBURSEMENTS.

This division has charge of the disbursement of public funds appropriated for the Department of Agriculture.

LIBRARY.

The department library contains 168,000 books and pamphlets, including an extensive collection on agriculture, a large and representative collection on the sciences related to agriculture, and a good collection of standard reference books. Periodicals currently received number 3,000. A dictionary catalogue is kept on cards, which number about 480,000. The librarian has charge of the foreign mailing lists.

PACKERS AND STOCKYARDS ADMINISTRATION

The Packers and Stockyards Administration was created under the act of August 15, 1921, known as the "Packers and stockyards act, 1921," and assists the Secretary of Agriculture in the enforcement of that law.

GRAIN FUTURES ADMINISTRATION

The Grain Futures Administration was created under the act of September 21, 1922, known as "The grain futures act," and assists the Secretary of Agriculture in the enforcement of that law.

INSECTICIDE AND FUNGICIDE BOARD

The Insecticide and Fungicide Board, created December 22, 1910, assists the Secretary of Agriculture in the enforcement of the insecticide act of 1910.

FEDERAL HORTICULTURAL BOARD

The Federal Horticultural Board, created August 21, 1912, assists the Secretary of Agriculture in the enforcement of the plant quarantine act of August 20, 1912.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE.

SECRETARY OF COMMERCE.

The Secretary of Commerce is charged with the work of promoting the commerce of the United States and its mining, manufacturing, shipping, fishery, and transportation interests. His duties also comprise the administration of the Lighthouse Service and the aid and protection to shipping thereby; the taking of the census, and the collection and publication of statistical information connected therewith; the making of coast and geodetic surveys; the collecting of statistics relating to foreign and domestic commerce; the inspection of steamboats, and the enforcement of laws relating thereto for the protection of life and property; the supervision of the fisheries as administered by the Federal Government; the supervision and control of the Alaskan fur-seal, salmon, and other fisheries; the jurisdiction over merchant vessels, their registry, licensing, measurement, entry, clearance, transfers, movement of their cargoes and passengers, and laws relating thereto, and to seamen of the United States; the administration of Federal laws governing radio communication, including the licensing and inspection of broadcasting stations and of apparatus on vessels and the licensing of operators; the custody, construction, maintenance, and application of standards of weights and measurements; the gathering and supplying of information regarding industries and markets for the fostering of manufacturing, and the formulation (in conjunction with the Secretaries of Agriculture and the Treasury) of regulations for the enforcement of the food and drugs act of 1906 and the insecticide act of 1910. He has power to call upon other departments for statistical data obtained by them.

For the proper accomplishment of any or all of the aforesaid work, it is by law provided that all duties performed, and all the powers and authority possessed or exercised at the date of the creation of said department by the head of any executive department in and over any bureau, office, officer, board, branch, or division of the public service transferred to said department, or any business arising therefrom or pertaining thereto, or in relation to the duties and authority conferred by law upon such bureau, office, officer, board, branch, or division of the public service, whether of appellate or advisory character or otherwise, are vested in and exercised by the Secretary of Commerce.

The act creating the Department of Labor, approved March 4, 1913, changed the name of the Department of Commerce and Labor to the Department of Commerce. Under the terms of this act the Bureau of Labor, Bureau of Immigration, Division of Naturalization, and Children's Bureau were detached from the Department of Commerce and Labor and organized as the new Department of Labor.

Upon the organization of the Federal Trade Commission, created by the act approved September 26, 1914, the Bureau of Corporations ceased to exist as a bureau of the Department of Commerce and became a part of the Federal Trade Commission, and all pending investigation and proceedings of the former bureau were taken over by the Federal Trade Commission.

It is his further duty to make such special investigations and furnish such information to the President or Congress as may be required by them on the foregoing subject matters, and to make annual reports to Congress upon the work of said department.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF COMMERCE.

The Assistant Secretary performs such duties as shall be prescribed by the Secretary or may be required by law. In the absence of the Secretary he acts as head of the department.

CHIEF CLERK.

The chief clerk is charged with the general supervision of the clerks and employees of the department; the enforcement of the general regulations of the department; the supervision of the library and the stock and shipping section of the department; the care of all vehicles employed; the general supervision of all expenditures from the appropriations for contingent expenses and rent; the receipt, distribution, and transmission of the mail, the custody of the department's seal and the records and files of the Secretary's office; the answering of calls from Congress and elsewhere for copies of papers and records; and the discharge of all business of the Secretary's office not otherwise assigned.

DISBURSING CLERK.

The disbursing clerk is charged by the Secretary of Commerce with the duty of preparing all requisitions for the advance of public funds from appropriations for the Department of Commerce to disbursing clerks and special disbursing agents charged with the disbursement of public funds; the keeping of appropriation ledgers relating to the advance and expenditure of all items of appropriations. He has charge of the issuing, recording, and accounting for Government requests for transportation issued to officers of the department for official travel; the audit and payment of all vouchers and accounts submitted from the various offices, bureaus, and services of the department (except the Coast and Geodetic Survey and those services having special disbursing agents); and the general accounting of the department.

APPOINTMENT DIVISION.

The Chief of the Appointment Division is charged by the Secretary of Commerce with the supervision of matters relating to appointments, transfers, promotions, reductions, removals, and all other changes in the personnel, including applications for positions and recommendations concerning the same, and the correspondence connected therewith; the preparation and submission to the Secretary of all questions affecting the personnel of the department in its relations to the civil-service law and rules; the preparation of nominations sent to the Senate and of commissions and appointments of all officers and employees of the department; the preparation of official bonds; the compilation of statistics in regard to the personnel, including material for the Official Register, and the custody of oaths of office, records pertaining to official bonds, service records of officers and employees, correspondence and reports relating to the personnel, reports of bureau officers respecting the efficiency of employees, and records relating to leaves of absence.

DIVISION OF PUBLICATIONS.

The Chief of the Division of Publications is charged by the Secretary of Commerce with the conduct of all business the department transacts with the Government Printing Office; the general supervision of printing, including the editing and preparation of copy, illustrating and binding, the distribution of publications, and the maintenance of mailing lists. The advertising done by the department is in his charge. He also keeps a record of all expenditures for the publishing work of the department and conducts the correspondence it entails.

DIVISION OF SUPPLIES.

Under the direction of the chief clerk the Chief of the Division of Supplies has personal supervision of all the work incident to the purchase and distribution of supplies for the department proper and for the services of the department outside of Washington, and of the keeping of detailed accounts of all expenditures from the appropriation for contingent expenses of the department. He receives, verifies, and preserves the annual returns of property from the offices and bureaus of the department which are supplied from the contingent appropriation, and examines and reports on the property returns of all other bureaus and services.

BUREAU OF THE CENSUS.

The Bureau of the Census takes the decennial census of the United States, covering population, agriculture, manufactures, mines and quarries, and is continuously engaged in the compilation of other statistics covering a wide range of subjects. Statistics regarding the dependent, defective, and delinquent classes in institutions; public debt, national wealth and taxation, religious bodies or churches; and transportation by water are compiled every tenth year in the period intervening between the decennial censuses; and statistics of electric light and power plants, electric railways, telephones, and telegraphs every fifth year. A special census of agriculture is taken in the fifth year following the decennial census, and a census of manufactures is taken biennially. Statistics of births, deaths, marriages, and divorces, are compiled annually; also financial statistics of cities and States. At quarterly intervals the bureau collects and publishes statistics as to stocks of leaf tobacco in the hands of manufacturers and dealers. At monthly intervals statistics are published relating to cotton supply, consumption, and distribution, to cottonseed and its products; and at approximately semi-monthly intervals during the ginning season reports are issued showing the amounts of cotton ginned to specified dates. The bureau also collects monthly or quarterly data regarding the production or supply of many other commodities, including hides, skins, leather and leather goods, clothing, and wool.

The bureau publishes the monthly Survey of Current Business compiling from various sources data regarding the movement of prices, stocks on hand, production, etc., for various lines of trade and industry, together with such other available data as may throw light upon the business situation.

BUREAU OF FOREIGN AND DOMESTIC COMMERCE.

It is the duty of this bureau to "promote and develop the foreign and domestic commerce of the United States." Included under the obligations with which it is charged by virtue of the various funds now being currently allotted to it by Congress are such duties as (1) "to report upon domestic as well as foreign problems relating to production, distribution, and marketing in so far as they relate to the important export industries of the United States;" (2) "to investigate and report upon such conditions in the manufacturing industries and trade of foreign countries as may be of interest to the United States;" (3) to promote American trade with Europe, Central and South America, and the Far East; (4) "to operate and maintain district and cooperative offices within the United States;" (5) to enforce the China Trade Act regarding the tax exemptions of American firms doing business in China; (6) to compile and publish statistics on foreign trade; (7) to investigate trade restrictions and regulations of foreign countries in relation to American commerce; (8) to prepare and circulate lists of available foreign agents for American firms.

The bureau maintains commercial attachés abroad whose reports on trade conditions and prospects are widely circulated among American firms. There are attachés at London, Paris, Berlin, Rome, Madrid, Brussels, Copenhagen, The Hague, Athens, Bucharest, Prague, Warsaw, Buenos Aires, Rio de Janeiro, Santiago, Lima, Habana, Mexico City, Peking, and Tokyo.

There are also resident trade commissioners (juniors in rank to commercial attachés) at Vienna, Riga, Stockholm, Helsingfors, Hamburg, Constantinople, Alexandria, Ottawa, São Paulo, Montevideo, San Juan, Johannesburg, Bogota, Bombay, Calcutta, Manila, Batavia, Melbourne, Shanghai, and Canton.

Use is made of the consular service, through the Department of State, to obtain reports on the trade of foreign countries and opportunities for the sale abroad of articles produced in the United States. This material is edited in the bureau and distributed to the commercial public by means of the weekly magazine Commerce Reports, special bulletins and pamphlets, and confidential circulars or letters.

Commerce Reports contains authoritative articles on all phases of foreign commerce, industry, and finance, a special feature being the monthly cable reviews of conditions in foreign countries. Trade information bulletins and annual trade and economic reviews of nations and consular districts are issued as supplements to Commerce Reports.

Commodity divisions, manned by technical experts, put the resources of the Government at the disposal of a number of basic industries in the extension of their foreign trade Services to the following industries are in operation. Agricultural implements, automotive products, chemicals, coal, electrical equipment, foodstuffs, hides and leather, iron, steel, and hardware, lumber, machinery, minerals, paper, rubber and rubber products, shoe and leather manufactures, specialties, textiles, and transportation. There is close cooperation with committees of trade associations and other representatives of American industry.

At such times as the need becomes apparent, the bureau conducts special investigations into foreign sources of raw materials essential to American industry.

Three regional divisions—European, Far Eastern, and Latin American—furnish basic information on economic conditions and broad commercial problems. These divisions supervise the work of the bureau's foreign representatives and disseminate data obtained from those representatives, from foreign publications, and from other sources.

In connection with its trade-promotion work the bureau maintains a Division of Foreign Tariffs, where information in regard to customs tariffs and regulations of foreign countries is compiled. The bureau also furnishes information concerning patent and trade-mark laws of foreign countries, consular regulations, treatment of commercial travelers and their samples, pure food and drug laws, sales or luxury taxes, consumption or excise duties, and quality standards officially established.

A Finance and Investment Division attends to all financial and economic questions that are international in scope and to matters connected with the flotation of foreign securities in the United States, the investment of American capital abroad, and the general aspects of foreign-trade financing.

Statistical information with respect to United States imports and exports is received by the bureau in monthly and quarterly returns from the collectors of customs, showing the articles imported and exported and the countries from which articles are imported and to which articles are exported. These statistics are printed in monthly, quarterly, and annual publications.

The Research Division handles the trade statistics of foreign countries. Thus there is concentration of work on United States and foreign trade statistics in the one bureau. The Statistical Abstract of the United States presents in condensed form statements regarding the commerce, production, industries, population, finance, etc., of the United States and a statement of the commerce of the principal foreign countries. The Commerce Yearbook comprises a descriptive and statistical summary of industrial, commercial, and general economic conditions and developments.

With respect to foreign countries, information is furnished concerning commercial laws and judicial procedure, the taxation of American firms doing business abroad, formalities in connection with bankruptcy proceedings, powers of attorney, the protesting of drafts, the legal aspects of construction enterprises, agency agreements, standardization of bills of exchange, etc.

An active trade directory of business houses and prospective buyers and agents all over the world is maintained for the benefit of American manufacturers and exporters. This directory now contains about 100,000 detailed reports, covering data required for a sales contact. The bureau also locates, in foreign markets, exporters of such raw materials as are needed by American manufacturers.

Specific opportunities for the sale of goods abroad and similar matters of this character are presented through Commerce Reports and confidential circulars to those American firms, whose names are recorded in the Exporters' Index.

The distribution work of the bureau is facilitated by its district offices in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Detroit, Chicago, Atlanta, New Orleans, St. Louis, San Francisco, and Seattle. These offices expedite the distribution of commercial information and establish closer relations between Government and private agencies interested in the extension of foreign trade. They also aid in the adjustment of disputes; place foreign business men in touch with American firms; promote foreign trade education; and help American firms to obtain competent employees. Through arrangements made between district offices of the bureau and radiotelephone stations, foreign trade information from the bureau is broadcast throughout the United States.

Arrangements have been made with commercial organizations in other cities for the establishment of cooperative branch offices, which serve the same purpose as the bureau's own district offices. Such cooperative offices have been established in Akron, Baltimore, Birmingham, Bridgeport (Conn.), Charleston (S. C.), Chattanooga, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, Dallas, Dayton, El Paso, Erie, Fort Worth, Indianapolis, Jacksonville, Los Angeles, Milwaukee, Mobile, Muncie, Newark (N. J.), Norfolk and Newport News, Orange (Tex.), Pensacola, Pittsburgh, Portland (Oreg.), Providence (R. I.), Richmond, Rochester, San Diego, Syracuse, Toledo, Trenton, and Worcester.

A Division of Domestic Commerce devotes its attention to the study of merchandising methods, trade movements, and price trends within the boundaries of the United States.

BUREAU OF STANDARDS.

The Bureau of Standards is charged by law with the custody of the standards, the comparison of the standards with those used in science, industry, technology, commerce, and educational institutions; the construction of standards and of their multiples and subdivisions; the testing and certification of standard measuring instruments; the solution of problems arising in connection with standards; the determination of physical constants and properties of materials; and other investigations authorized by Congress. The bureau's functions may be exercised for the National Government, State governments, and, subject to reasonable fees, the general public. The Bureau of Standards aids industry directly or through cooperating committees to determine the best standards of dimension, quality, performance, and practice. Its unique research and testing facilities are used to discover and evaluate material standards and to solve basic technical problems of industry.

The bureau's work on standards of measurement is designed to aid accuracy in industry through uniform and correct measures. In this the bureau assists in size standardization of containers and products, in promoting systematic inspection of trade weights and measures to insure justice in daily trade, and finally to facilitate precise research in science and technology through the standardization of measuring instruments.

The work of the bureau on the measured numerical data concerning materials and energy—that is, standard constants—furnishes an exact basis for scientific experiment and design. These furnish also the data for the efficient technical control of industrial process.

The bureau's work on standards of quality includes the specification of the numerical magnitude of the property or group of properties which determine the quality. The purpose is to set an attainable standard of quality to assure high utility in the products of industry; to furnish a scientific basis for fair dealing by promoting truthful branding and advertising through suitable standards and methods of test. This work yields large scale economies by eliminating ineffective materials.

The bureau likewise develops standards of performance—that is, specifications for the operative efficiency or accuracy of machines or devices. These are numerical statements of speed, uniformity, durability, output, economy, and other factors which together define the net efficiency of an appliance or machine. The ultimate purpose is to make exact knowledge the basis of the buyer's choice, to clarify the understanding between maker, seller, buyer, and user as to the operative efficiency of appliances and machines. An important outcome of this work is that it stimulates and measures mechanical progress.

A function of the bureau of very general interest is the development of standards of practice—that is, collation of data and formulation of codes of practice for public utilities and other services. These are prepared in cooperation with the technical and commercial agencies concerned and relate to the technical regulation of construction, installation, and operation. They are necessarily based upon standards of measurement, standards of quality, and standards of performance. The purpose of such work is to afford a single impersonal standard of performance mutually agreed upon by all concerned and clearly defined in measurable terms. Incidentally, it insures effective design and installation of service utilities, and promotes safety, efficiency, and convenience in such service.

Congress has made special provision for research and testing in specific fields involved in the five kinds of standards described above. Some examples of such functions may be cited.

State weights and measures.—Aid to State governments on technical details of weights and measures inspection service, with a view to securing uniformity in weights and measures laws and methods of inspection.

Gauge standardization.—Standardization and testing gauges, screw threads, and other length standards required in manufacturing.

Railroad track scales.—Investigation of track scales and other large scales used for interstate shipments and of large scales used by the Government in transactions with the public.

Mine scales.—Investigating mine scales and the conditions and methods used to weigh and measure coal in fixing wages due, including investigations of all means for insuring accuracy in weighing and measuring at the mines.

High temperatures.—Investigations of methods of high temperature measurements and temperature control in various industrial processes, and making results available to industries.

Color standardization.—Development of color standards and methods of color measurement, with reference to their use in industrial color standardization, the specification of colorants and of products in which color is a pertinent property

Radio standardization—Investigation and standardization of methods and instruments used in radio communication

Sound investigations—Investigation of principles of sound and their application to military and industrial purposes

Standard analyzed materials—Preparation, analysis, and certification of the composition of technical materials, either of typical composition or of high purity, for use in checking the accuracy of scientific and industrial chemical analyses and for testing physical measuring instruments

Fire-resisting properties—Investigation of building materials and their efficient use, and standardization of types of appliances for fire prevention.

Structural materials—Investigation of stone, clays, cement, and other structural materials; the collation and dissemination of scientific and other information as to approved methods for building structural units, formulating building codes and researches to promote, improve, and cheapen housing and other construction

Other industrial materials—Development of standards of quality and methods of measurement of textiles, paper, leather, and rubber

Tests of materials such as varnish, soap, ink, and chemicals, including supplies for the Government service.

Clay products—Study of clay products, including methods of measurement and technical processes used in their manufacture; study of the properties of the materials used in this industry.

Optical glass—Investigation of problems involved in production of optical glass

Metallurgical research—Researches in metals, including foundry practice, standards for metals, alloys, and sands; their properties and treatment; prevention of corrosion; development of substitutes for metals; behavior of bearing metals; preparation of specifications, investigation of new processes and methods of conservation in manufacture, investigation of railway materials and causes of their failure

Testing machines—Operation of testing machines in the determination of physical constants and properties of materials

Standardization of ropes and cables—Determination of the fundamental data required by engineers and others regarding internal strains of ropes and cables used in mines, elevators, bridges, rigging, etc.; development of instruments for field use to measure stress and strain in advance of rupture; research to improve methods of making such rope and cable.

Sugar standardization.—Development of technical specifications for all grades of sugars, involving their standardization and methods of manufacture; standardization and production of rare and unusual types of sugars for medical and other scientific uses, determination of fundamental scientific constants; standardization and design of sugar-testing apparatus, study of technical problems relating to collection of revenue on sugars; and practical use of results in tests of imported sugars.

Certification of radioactive materials.—Investigation of radium, radium compounds, and other radioactive materials; standard testing and certification of radioactive materials.

Standardization of equipment.—Cooperation with the Government and with engineers and manufacturers, in formulating standards of performance for instruments, equipment, tools, and other devices, the testing and inspection of the same, including formulation of methods of inspection and of laboratory and service tests to insure compliance with specification for quality and performance, and simplification of varieties of products.

Engineering instruments.—Development of methods of testing and standardizing equipment used in mechanical, hydraulic, and aeronautic engineering, study of types of apparatus and methods of operation, and the establishment of standards of performance; determination of physical constants involved; scientific research and investigation on problems, especially relating to aeronautics.

Public utilities.—Investigation of standards and solution of problems arising in connection with standards for public utilities, such as gas, electric light and power, water, telephone, heating, electric railway service.

Industrial research.—Technical cooperation with the industries upon fundamental research to promote industrial development and to assist in the permanent establishment of new American industries.

BUREAU OF FISHERIES.

The work of the Bureau of Fisheries comprises (1) the propagation and salvaging of useful food fishes and shellfish, and their distribution to suitable waters; (2) the inquiry into the causes of fluctuations in abundance of food fishes in the lakes, rivers, and coast waters of the United States, the development of methods of husbanding these resources including improvements in methods of fish culture, and the investigation of the fishing grounds of the Atlantic, Gulf, and Pacific coasts, with the view of determining their food resources and the development of the commercial fisheries; (3) the study of the methods of the fisheries and of the preservation, utilization, and merchandising of fisheries products, and the collection and compilation of statistics of the fisheries; (4) the administration of the salmon fisheries of Alaska, the fur seal herd on the Pribilof Islands, and the care of the native inhabitants of those islands; (5) administration of the law for the protection of sponges off the coast of Florida.

BUREAU OF LIGHTHOUSES.

The United States Lighthouse Service is charged with the establishment and maintenance of aids to navigation, and with all equipment and work incident thereto, on the sea and lake coasts of the United States, and on the rivers of the United States so far as specifically authorized by law, and on the coasts of all other territory under the jurisdiction of the United States, with the exception of the Philippine Islands and Panama.

The bureau publishes Light Lists and Buoy Lists, giving information regarding all aids to navigation maintained by the Lighthouse Service; it also publishes each week, jointly with the Coast and Geodetic Survey, Notices to Mariners, giving the changes in lights, buoys, etc.

COAST AND GEODETIC SURVEY.

The Coast and Geodetic Survey is charged with the survey of the coasts of the United States and coasts under the jurisdiction thereof and the publication of charts covering said coasts. This includes base measure, triangulation, topography, and hydrography along said coasts; the survey of rivers to the head of tidewater or ship navigation; deep-sea soundings, temperature, and current observations along said coasts and throughout the Gulf and Japan streams; magnetic observations and researches, and the publication of maps showing the variations of terrestrial magnetism; gravity research; determination of heights; the determination of geographic positions by astronomic observations for latitude, longitude, and azimuth, and by triangulation, to furnish reference points for State surveys.

The results obtained are published in annual reports and in special publications, charts upon various scales, including sailing charts, general charts of the coast, and harbor charts; tide tables issued annually in advance; Coast Pilots, with sailing directions covering the navigable waters; Notices to Mariners (published jointly by Coast and Geodetic Survey and Bureau of Lighthouses), issued weekly and containing current information necessary for safe navigation; catalogues of charts and publications; and such other special publications as may be required to carry out the organic law governing the survey.

BUREAU OF NAVIGATION.

The Bureau of Navigation is charged with general superintendence of the commercial marine and merchant seamen of the United States, except so far as supervision is lodged with other officers of the Government. It is specially charged with the decision of all questions relating to the issue of registers, enrollments, and licenses of vessels and the filing of those documents, with the supervision of laws relating to the admeasurement, letters, and numbers of vessels, and with the final decision of questions concerning the collection and refund of tonnage taxes. It is empowered to change the names of vessels, and prepares annually a list of vessels of the United States. The commissioner also investigates the operation of the laws relative to navigation, and annually reports to the Secretary of Commerce such particulars as may in his judgment admit of improvement or require amendment.

In addition to the above statutory duties the bureau is charged, under direction of the Secretary of Commerce, with the enforcement, through collectors and surveyors of customs and radio inspectors, of the navigation and steamboat inspection laws, and the laws governing radio communication, and the consideration of action to be taken on fines, penalties, and forfeitures incurred under those laws; administrative examination of accounts of collectors, surveyors of customs, and shipping commissioners covering fines, penalties, and forfeitures; services to vessels; navigation fees; amounts collected on account of decease of passengers, tonnage-tax collections, refunds; shipment and discharge of seamen, etc.

STEAMBOAT INSPECTION SERVICE.

The Steamboat Inspection Service is charged with the duty of inspecting vessels, the licensing of the officers of vessels, and the administration of the laws relating to such vessels and their officers for the protection of life and property.

The blue prints or drawings of water tube and coil boilers used in vessels of the American merchant marine are passed upon by the board of supervising inspectors, while designs of marine boilers of other types are passed upon by the local inspectors having original jurisdiction. All material subject to tensile strain used in the construction of marine boilers is required to be tested by an inspector of the Steamboat Inspection Service, so that not only is the material but the design of a boiler under the closest scrutiny. The inspectors of hulls look after the examination of the hulls of vessels and of life-saving equipment, such as life-preservers, lifeboats, life rafts, davits, etc., and once at least in each year vessels of the American merchant marine are required by law to be inspected by the Steamboat Inspection Service, and excursion steamers are reinspected not less than three times during the year in addition to the regular annual inspection. The local inspectors are the officers who examine applicants for licenses for the deck department and engineer department of merchant ships. These examinations are conducted frequently, and at such times as to be most convenient to the applicants for licenses, and, as the result of this close supervision over the licensing of officers, a very high standard is maintained. The Steamboat Inspection Service also is required by law to certificate the able seamen who form the crew of merchant vessels, and the inspectors of the service, together with other Government officers especially detailed for that purpose, also certificate the lifeboat men. Not the least important of the work of the local inspectors is the investigation of violations of the steamboat inspection laws. In such instances the boards of local inspectors have quasi judicial authority, and these boards have conferred upon them the authority and the right to suspend or revoke the licenses of officers who have been found guilty of violating these laws, negligence, inattention to duty, etc

DEPARTMENT OF LABOR.

THE SECRETARY OF LABOR.

The Secretary of Labor is charged with the duty of fostering, promoting, and developing the welfare of the wage earners of the United States, improving their working conditions, and advancing their opportunities for profitable employment. He has power under the law to act as mediator and to appoint commissioners of conciliation in labor disputes whenever in his judgment the interests of industrial peace may require it to be done. He has authority to direct the collecting and collating of full and complete statistics of the conditions of labor and the products and distribution of the products of the same and to call upon other departments of the Government for statistical data and results obtained by them and to collate, arrange, and publish such statistical information so obtained in such manner as to him may seem wise. His duties also comprise the gathering and publication of information regarding labor interests and labor controversies in this and other countries; the supervision of the immigration of aliens, and the enforcement of the laws relating thereto, and to the exclusion of Chinese; the direction of the administration of the naturalization laws the direction of the work of investigating all matters pertaining to the welfare of children and child life and to cause to be published such results of these investigations as he may deem wise and appropriate.

The law creating the Department of Labor provides that all duties performed and all power and authority possessed or exercised by the head of any executive department at the time of the passage of the said law, in and over any bureau, office, officer, board, branch, or division of the public service by said act transferred to the Department of Labor, or any business arising therefrom or pertaining thereto, or in relation to the duties performed by and authority conferred by law upon such bureau, officer, office, board, branch, or division of the public service, whether of an appellate or advisory character or otherwise, are vested in and exercised by the head of the said Department of Labor. The Secretary of Labor is also given authority and directed to investigate and report to Congress a plan of coordination of the activities, duties, and powers of the office of the Secretary of Labor with the activities, duties, and powers of the present bureaus, commissions, and departments, so far as they relate to labor and its conditions, in order to harmonize and unify such activities, duties, and powers, with a view to additional legislation to further define the duties and powers of the Department of Labor, and to make such special investigations and reports to the President or Congress as may be required by them or which he may deem necessary, and to report annually to Congress upon the work of the Department of Labor.

ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF LABOR

The Assistant Secretary performs such duties as shall be prescribed by the Secretary or may be required by law. He becomes the Acting Secretary of Labor in the absence of the Secretary.

SECOND ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF LABOR

The Second Assistant Secretary performs such duties as shall be prescribed by the Secretary or may be required by law, he becomes acting Secretary of Labor in the absence of the Secretary and Assistant Secretary.

CHIEF CLERK

The chief clerk is charged with the general supervision of the clerks and employees of the department; the enforcement of the general regulations of the department; the superintendency of all buildings occupied by the department in the District of Columbia; the general supervision of all expenditures from the appropriations for contingent expenses, printing and binding, and rents, the receipt, distribution, and transmission of the mail, and the discharge of all business of the Secretary's office not otherwise assigned.

DISBURSING CLERK

The disbursing clerk is charged by the Secretary of Labor with the duty of preparing all requisitions for the advance of public funds from appropriations for the Department of Labor to disbursing clerks and special disbursing agents charged with the disbursement of public funds; the keeping of appropriation ledgers relating to the advance and expenditure of all items of appropriations. He has charge of the issuing, recording, and accounting for Government requests for transportation issued to officers of the department for official travel; the audit and payment of all vouchers and accounts submitted from the various offices, bureaus, and services of the department; the general accounting of the department; and the accounting for all naturalization receipts received under the provisions of the act of June 29, 1906.

APPOINTMENT CLERK

The appointment clerk has charge of all clerical work incident to appointments which are made under the jurisdiction of the department. He is also the custodian of oaths of office, bonds of officers, personnel files, retirement records, and efficiency reports.

DIVISION OF PUBLICATIONS AND SUPPLIES

The Chief of the Division of Publications and Supplies is charged by the Secretary of Labor with the conduct of all business the department transacts with the Government Printing Office and the correspondence it entails, the general supervision of printing, including the editing and preparation of copy, illustrating and binding, the distribution of publications, and the maintenance of mailing lists. All blank books and blank forms and the printed stationery of all kinds used by the bureaus and offices of the department in Washington and the various outside services of the department are supplied by him. The advertising done by the department is in his charge. Under the direction of the chief clerk he has supervision of all the work incident to the purchase and distribution of supplies for the department proper and for the services of the department outside of Washington and of the keeping of detailed accounts of all expenditures from the appropriations for contingent expenses and printing and binding of the department. He receives, verifies, and preserves the semiannual returns of property from the offices and bureaus of the department which are supplied from the contingent appropriation, and examines and reports on the semiannual property returns of all other bureaus and services.

BUREAU OF LABOR STATISTICS.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics is charged with the duty of acquiring and diffusing among the people of the United States useful information on subjects connected with labor in the most general and comprehensive sense of that word, and especially upon its relations to capital, the hours of labor, the earnings of laboring men and women, and the means of promoting their material, social, intellectual, and moral prosperity. It is especially charged to investigate the causes of and facts relating to controversies and disputes between employers and employees as they may occur, and which may happen to interfere with the welfare of the people of the several States.

It is also authorized, by act of March 2, 1895, to publish a bulletin on the condition of labor in this and other countries, condensations of State and foreign labor reports, facts as to conditions of employment, and such other facts as may be deemed of value to the industrial interests of the United States. This bulletin is issued in a number of series, each dealing with a single subject or closely related group of subjects, and the bulletin is published at irregular intervals as matter becomes available for publication.

By the act to provide a government for the Territory of Hawaii, as amended, it is made the duty of the bureau to collect and present in quinquennial reports statistical details relating to all departments of labor in the Territory of Hawaii, especially those statistics which relate to the commercial, industrial, social, educational, and sanitary condition of the laboring classes.

BUREAU OF IMMIGRATION.

The Bureau of Immigration is charged with the administration of the laws relating to immigration and of the Chinese exclusion laws. It supervises all expenditures under the appropriation for "Expenses of regulating immigration." It causes alleged violations of the immigration, Chinese exclusion, and alien contract labor laws to be investigated, and when prosecution is deemed advisable submits evidence for that purpose to the proper United States district attorney.

CHILDREN'S BUREAU.

The act establishing the bureau provides that it shall investigate and report upon all matters pertaining to the welfare of children and child life among all classes of our people, and shall especially investigate the questions of infant mortality, the birth rate, orphanage, juvenile courts, desertion, dangerous occupations, accidents, and diseases of children, employment, and legislation affecting children in the several States and Territories. The bureau is also empowered to publish the results of these investigations in such manner and to such extent as may be prescribed by the Secretary of Labor. The bureau is charged with the Federal administration of the Sheppard-Towner Act for the promotion of the welfare and hygiene of maternity and infancy. Under this act the Federal and State Governments are cooperating in their efforts to reduce maternal and infant mortality.

BUREAU OF NATURALIZATION.

The act approved March 4, 1913, creating the Department of Labor, provided a Bureau of Naturalization, and that the Commissioner of Naturalization, or, in his absence, the Deputy Commissioner of Naturalization, shall be the administrative officer in charge of the Bureau of Naturalization and of the administration of the naturalization laws under the immediate direction of the Secretary of Labor. Under the provisions of the act of June 29, 1906, naturalization jurisdiction was conferred upon approximately 3,500 United States and State courts. The duties of the Bureau of Naturalization are to supervise the work of these courts in naturalization matters, to require an accounting from the clerks of courts for all naturalization fees collected by them, examine and audit these accounts, deposit them in the Treasury of the United States through the disbursing clerk of the department, and render an accounting therefor quarterly to the Auditor for the State and other Departments, to conduct all correspondence relating to naturalization, and, through its field officers located in various cities of the United States, to investigate the qualifications of the candidates for citizenship and represent the Government at the hearings of petitions for naturalization. In its administration of the naturalization laws the bureau obtains the cooperation of the public school authorities throughout the United States, receives reports therefrom of courses in citizenship instruction, and, acting as a clearing house of information on civic instruction, it disseminates the information received throughout the public-school system. It stimulates the preparation of candidates for citizenship for their new responsibilities by bringing them into contact at the earliest moment with the Americanizing influences of the public-school system, and thereby contributes to the elevation of citizenship standards. In the archives of the bureau are filed duplicates of all certificates of naturalization granted since September 26, 1906, as well as the preliminary papers of all candidates for citizenship filed since that date.

WOMEN'S BUREAU

This bureau was established as a statutory bureau under act of June 5, 1920, "An act to establish in the Department of Labor a bureau to be known as the Women's Bureau." Its functions are to formulate standards and policies to promote the welfare of wage-earning women, to improve their working conditions, increase their efficiency, and advance their opportunity for profitable employment. The bureau has authority to investigate and report to the department upon all matters pertaining to the welfare of women in industry. The director of the bureau publishes the results of these investigations in the manner and to such extent as the Secretary of Labor may prescribe.

This bureau, formerly known as the Women in Industry Service, organized in July, 1918, was established by an appropriation in the act providing for the sundry civil expenses of the Government for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1919, its function being to serve as a policy-forming and advisory body during the war emergency, whose special duty was to develop in the industries of the country policies and methods for the most effective use of women's services in production, and safeguarding such employment from injurious conditions. This service was continued by appropriation during the following year and until it became a statutory bureau by the act of Congress above quoted.

UNITED STATES EMPLOYMENT SERVICE.

The purpose of the United States Employment Service is to foster, promote, and develop the welfare of the wage earners of the United States by so conserving and distributing their industrial activities as to improve their working conditions and advance their opportunities for profitable employment, in harmony with the general good, with the necessities of war, with the just interests of employers, and with the development in practice of the recognized principle of a common responsibility for production and a common interest in distribution.

JOINT COMMITTEE ON PRINTING.

The Joint Committee on Printing, consisting of three members of the Senate and three Members of the House of Representatives, was created by the act of August 3, 1846, and its principal duties are set forth in the printing act approved January 12, 1895. That act gave the committee authority "to remedy any neglect or delay in the public printing and binding." This authority was extended by section 11 of public act No. 314, Sixty-fifth Congress, empowering the committee "to adopt and employ such measures as, in its discretion, may be deemed necessary to remedy any neglect, delay, duplication, or waste in the public printing and binding and the distribution of Government publications."

The act of 1895 provides that the committee "shall have control of the arrangement and style of the Congressional Record, and, while providing that it shall be substantially a verbatim report of proceedings, shall take all needed action for the reduction of unnecessary bulk." The committee is also authorized to provide for the publication of an index to the Record. The Congressional Directory, addresses on deceased Senators and Members, statue proceedings, and similar publications are prepared under the direction of the committee. The Superintendent of Documents publishes the index of public documents upon a plan approved by the committee and indexes such single volumes as it shall direct.

The committee is directed by law to establish rules and regulations for the printing of documents and reports in two or more editions. Orders for subsequent editions after two years from date of original order must receive its approval. The committee directs whether extra copies of documents and reports shall be bound in paper or cloth, and prescribes the arrangement and binding of documents for depository libraries.

The cost of printing any document or report which can not be properly charged to any other appropriation may, upon order of the committee, be charged to the congressional allotment.

The committee may order additional copies printed of Government publications within a limit of $200 in cost in any one instance.

The act of 1895 also provides that the committee shall exercise the following functions in regard to the purchase of paper for the public printing and binding. Fix upon standards of quality, receive proposals and award contracts therefor, appoint a member of the board of paper inspection, determine differences of opinion as to quality, act upon defaults, and authorize open-market purchases.

The Public Printer is required by law to advertise for bids for material, other than paper, under the direction of the committee, and to make a return to it on all such contracts awarded by him. The committee may authorize the Public Printer to make certain open-market purchases of material, and, by resolution, it has required him to obtain its approval on all purchases of machinery and equipment in excess of $1,000 in any one instance.

Maps and illustration plates for Government publications are purchased under the direction of the committee whenever the probable cost exceeds $1,200; or, whenever the exigencies of the public service do not justify advertisement, the committee may authorize immediate contracts for lithographing and engraving.

Printing for the Patent Office is required by law to be done under such regulations and conditions as the committee may prescribe.

Section 11 of public act No. 314, Sixty-fifth Congress, requires all printing, binding, and blank-book work for the Government to be done at the Government Printing Office, except such classes of work as shall be deemed by the Joint Committee on Printing to be urgent or necessary to have done elsewhere than in the District of Columbia for the exclusive use of any field service outside of said District.

THE SMITHSONIAN INSTITUTION.

The Smithsonian Institution was created by act of Congress in 1846, under the terms of the will of James Smithson, an Englishman, who in 1826 bequeathed his fortune to the United States to found, at Washington, under the name of the "Smithsonian Institution," an establishment for the "increase and diffusion of knowledge among men." The Institution is legally an establishment, having as its members the President of the United States, the Vice President, the Chief Justice, and the President's Cabinet. It is governed by a Board of Regents consisting of the Vice President, the Chief Justice, three Members of the United States Senate, three Members of the House of Representatives, and six citizens of the United States appointed by joint resolution of Congress. The Secretary of the Smithsonian Institution is its executive officer and the director of its activities.

Through the Hodgkins fund, the income of $100,000 of which is for the increase and diffusion of knowledge in regard to the nature and properties of atmospheric air in connection with the welfare of man, grants have been made, publications issued, and medals and prizes awarded.

The Institution, in cooperation with the Library of Congress, maintains a scientific library which numbers 366,000 volumes, consisting mainly of the transactions of learned societies and scientific periodicals.

UNITED STATES NATIONAL MUSEUM.

The United States National Museum is the depository of the national collections. It is especially rich in the natural history of America, including zoology, botany, geology, paleontology, archeology, and ethnology, and has extensive series relating to the arts and industries, the fine arts, and American history. Under "history" is included the World War collections which have been accumulated with the cooperation of the War and Navy Departments. This collection embraces at the present time between forty and fifty thousand objects, such as field guns, machine guns, small arms, tanks, trucks, airplanes and accessories, models of naval vessels, uniforms and insignia of all kinds of the United States soldier and the Allies, engineering and medical apparatus, and a large collection of captured material of many of the above classes.

NATIONAL GALLERY OF ART.

The National Gallery of Art contains the George P. Marsh collection of etchings, engravings, and books on art, the Charles L. Freer collection, comprising numerous paintings, etchings, etc., by Whistler and other American artists, and many examples of Japanese and Chinese art; the Harriet Lane Johnston collection, including a number of portraits by British masters, the Ralph Cross Johnson collection of paintings by Italian, French, English, Flemish, and Dutch masters, and the William T. Evans collection of paintings by contemporary American artists.

INTERNATIONAL EXCHANGE SERVICE.

The International Exchange Service is the agency of the United States Government for the exchange of scientific, literary, and governmental publications with foreign Governments, institutions, and investigators. It receives and dispatches about 600,000 pounds of printed matter annually.

BUREAU OF AMERICAN ETHNOLOGY.

The Bureau of American Ethnology is engaged in the collection and publication of information relating to the American Indians and the natives of Hawaii.

ASTROPHYSICAL OBSERVATORY.

The Astrophysical Observatory investigates solar radiation and other solar phenomena. The work of this observatory is carried on partly in Washington and partly at stations on Mount Wilson, in California, Mount Harqua Hala, near Wenden, in Arizona; and on Mount Montezuma, near Calama, Chile.

NATIONAL ZOOLOGICAL PARK.

The National Zoological Park has an area of 175 acres, and is located in the Rock Creek Valley, 2 miles north of the center of Washington. Its collection comprises about 1,800 animals.

INTERNATIONAL CATALOGUE OF SCIENTIFIC LITERATURE.

The International Catalogue of Scientific Literature publishes an annual classified index to the literature of science. The organization consists of a central bureau in London and 33 regional bureaus established in, and supported by, the principal countries of the world. That for the United States is supported by an annual appropriation from Congress, administered by the Smithsonian Institution.

THE PAN AMERICAN UNION.

(Formerly International Bureau of American Republics.)

The Pan American Union is the official international organization of all the Republics of the Western Hemisphere, founded and maintained by them for the purpose of exchanging mutually useful information and fostering commerce, intercourse, friendship, and peace. It is supported through their joint contributions, each nation annually paying that part of the budget of expenses which its population bears to the total population of all the Republics. Its general control is vested in a governing board made up of the diplomatic representatives in Washington of all the Latin-American Governments and the Secretary of State of the United States. Its executive officers are a Director General and an Assistant Director, elected by the board. They in turn are assisted by a trained staff of editors, statisticians, compilers, trade experts, translators, librarians, and clerks. It is strictly international in its scope, purpose, and control, and each nation has equal authority in its administration. Its activities and facilities include the following: Publication in English, Spanish, Portuguese, with separate editions, of an illustrated monthly bulletin, which is a record of the progress of all the Republics; publication of handbooks, descriptive pamphlets, commercial statements, maps, and special reports relating to each country, correspondence covering all phases of Pan American activities; distribution of every variety of information helpful in the promotion of Pan American commerce, acquaintance, cooperation, and solidarity of interests. It also sets the date, selects the place of meeting, and prepares the programs for the International Conferences of the American States known as the Pan American Conferences, and is custodian of their archives. Its library, known as the Columbus Memorial Library, contains nearly 53,000 volumes, including the official publications, documents, and laws of all the Republics, together with a large collection of maps. The Union also possesses a collection of more than 25,000 photographs, lantern slides, and negatives. Its reading room has upon its tables the representative magazines and newspapers of Latin America. Both are open to the public for consultation and study. It occupies and owns buildings and grounds facing Seventeenth Street, between B and C streets, overlooking Potomac Park on the south and the White House Park on the east. These buildings and grounds, representing an outlay of $1,100,000, of which Mr. Andrew Carnegie contributed $850,000 and the American Republics $250,000, are dedicated forever to the use of the Pan American Union as an international organization. The Pan American Union was founded in 1890, under the name of the International Bureau of American Republics, in accordance with the action of the First Pan American Conference, held in Washington in 1889-90 and presided over by James G. Blaine, then Secretary of State. It was reorganized in 1907 by action of the Third Pan American Conference, held in Rio de Janeiro in 1906, and upon the initiative of Elihu Root, then Secretary of State. At the fourth conference, held at Buenos Aires in 1910, its name was changed from the International Bureau of American Republics to the Pan American Union. The fifth conference, held at Santiago, Chile, in 1923, considerably enlarged the functions of the Pan American Union. All communications should be addressed to the Director General, Pan American Union, Washington, D. C.

GENERAL ACCOUNTING OFFICE.

The Comptroller General of the United States is charged by law with the settlement and adjustment, independently of the executive departments, of all claims and demands whatever by the Government of the United States or against it, and all accounts whatever in which the Government of the United States is concerned, either as debtor or creditor, and is vested with all powers and duties previously conferred or imposed by law upon the former Comptroller of the Treasury and the six Auditors of the Treasury Department, also with the duty of keeping the personal ledger accounts of disbursing and collecting officers; of reporting to Congress delinquency in rendering accounts, and of certifying balances, which are final and conclusive, upon the executive branch of the Government. He may provide for payment of accounts or claims adjusted and settled in the General Accounting Office, through disbursing officers of the several departments and establishments instead of by warrant, and prescribes the forms, systems, and procedure for administrative appropriation and fund accounting in the several departments and establishments and for the administrative examination of fiscal officers' accounts and claims, reporting to Congress upon the adequacy and efficiency of such administrative examination. He appoints and removes attorneys and other employees in the General Accounting Office, they performing such duties as may be assigned to them by him, all official acts performed by them, when specially designated therefor by the Comptroller General, having the same force and effect as though performed by the Comptroller General in person. He makes such rules and regulations as may be necessary for carrying on the work of the General Accounting Office, including those for the admission of attorneys to practice before it, and furnishes, under the seal of said office for use as evidence, copies of records from books and proceedings thereof in accordance with sections 882 and 886 of the Revised Statutes.

Upon the application of disbursing officers, the head of any executive department or other independent establishment not under any of the executive departments, the Comptroller General is required to render his advance decision upon any question involving a payment to be made by them or under them, which decision when rendered governs in the settlement of the account involving the payment inquired about. He reviews, on his own motion, any settled account when in the interest of the United States to do so. He superintends the recovery of all debts finally certified by audited settlements to be due the United States exclusive of those arising under the Postal Service, and the preservation of all accounts, with their vouchers, etc., which have been finally adjusted, and countersigns all warrants authorized by law to be signed by the Secretary of the Treasury.

It is also the duty of the Comptroller General to investigate at the seat of government or elsewhere all matters relating to the receipt, disbursement, and application of public funds and to make recommendations to the President, when requested by him, and to Congress concerning legislation necessary to facilitate the prompt and accurate rendition and settlement of accounts, and concerning such other matters as he may deem advisable in regard to the receipt, disbursement, and application of public funds and economy or efficiency in public expenditures. He makes investigations for Congress as to revenue, appropriations, and expenditures, furnishing assistants from his office to Congress for that purpose, and specially reports to Congress every expenditure or contract made by any department or establishment in any year in violation of law. He also reports to Congress upon the adequacy and effectiveness of departmental inspection of the offices and accounts of fiscal officers, and, in accordance with law, has access to and examines any books, documents, papers, or records, except those pertaining to certain funds for purposes of intercourse or treaty with foreign nations, of all departments and establishments for the purpose of securing from time to time information regarding the powers, duties, activities, organization, financial transactions, and methods of business of their respective offices. It is also his duty to furnish to the Bureau of the Budget such information relating to expenditures and accounting as it may request from time to time.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION.

The original act to regulate commerce, approved February 4, 1887, provided for a commission consisting of five members. By various amendatory and supplementary enactments the powers of the commission have been increased and the scope of the regulating statute materially widened. Among the more important of these enactments are the acts of March 2, 1889; the Elkins Act, approved February 19, 1903; the Hepburn Act, approved June 29, 1906; the Mann-Elkins Act of June 18, 1910; the acts of August 24, 1912, and May 29 and August 9, 1917; and the transportation act,

1920. The number of commissioners was increased under the act of June 29, 1906, to 7 members; under the act of August 9, 1917, to 9 members, and under the transportation act, 1920, to 11 members

The commission appoints a secretary (who is its general administrative and executive officer), an assistant secretary, a chief counsel, and such attorneys, examiners, special agents, and clerks as are necessary to the proper performance of its duties.

The act to regulate commerce applies to all common carriers engaged in the transportation of oil or other commodities, except water, and except natural or artificial gas, by means of pipe lines, or partly by pipe lines and partly by railroad, or partly by pipe lines and partly by water, and to telegraph, telephone, and cable companies (whether wire or wireless) engaged in sending messages from one State, Territory, or District of the United States to any other State, Territory, or District of the United States, or to any foreign country, and to common carriers engaged in interstate transportation of passengers or property wholly by railroad (or partly by railroad and partly by water when both are used under a common control, management, or arrangement for a continuous carriage or shipment), also to express companies and sleeping-car companies, to bridges, ferries, car floats, and lighters, and all terminal and transportation facilities used or necessary in the interstate transportation of persons and property, and all instrumentalities and facilities used in connection with the transmission of intelligence and messages by the use of electric energy

The act to regulate commerce requires all rates to be just and reasonable and prohibits unjust discrimination and undue or unreasonable preference or advantage in transportation rates or facilities. As amended by the transportation act, 1920, the act provides that whenever in any investigation, including one instituted upon petition of the carriers concerned, there shall be brought in issue any rate, fare, charge, classification, regulation, or practice made or imposed by any State authority, or by the President, during the period of Federal control, the authorities of the State or States interested must be notified of the hearings in such cases, and the commission may confer and hold joint hearings with the authorities of the interested States. If, after hearing, the commission finds such rate, fare, charge, classification, regulation, or practice causes undue or unreasonable advantage, preference, or prejudice as between persons or localities in intrastate commerce on the one hand and interstate or foreign commerce on the other hand, or any undue, unreasonable, or unjust discrimination against interstate or foreign commerce which is forbidden, it is authorized to prescribe the rate, fare, or charge, or the maximum or minimum, or maximum and minimum, thereafter to be charged, and the classification, regulation, or practice thereafter to be observed, in such manner as, in its judgment, will remove such advantage, preference, prejudice, or discrimination.

The act as amended prohibits the charging of a higher rate for a shorter than for a longer haul over the same line in the same direction, the shorter being included within the longer haul, or the charging of any greater compensation as a through route than the aggregate of the intermediate rates subject to the act. It is provided, however, that the commission may, in special cases, after investigation, authorize carriers to charge less for longer than for shorter distances, and from time to time prescribe the extent to which such carriers may be relieved, subject, however, to the further proviso that in so doing the commission shall not permit the establishment of any charge to or from the more distant point that is not reasonably compensatory, or authorize a circuitous rail line, because of such circuitry, to meet the charges of a more direct line to or from competitive points, and to maintain higher charges to or from an intermediate point on its line where the length of the haul on the petitioning line is not longer than that of the direct line between the competitive points, or authorize any such relief because of merely potential water competition not actually in existence.

The commission is authorized to require carriers to establish through routes and joint rates, and it may act summarily in itself establishing, temporarily, through routes when, in its opinion, shortage of equipment, congestion of traffic, or other emergency exists. The amended act requires that divisions of joint rates shall be just, reasonable, and equitable, and authorizes the commission, upon complaint or upon its own initiative, after hearing, to prescribe the just, reasonable, and equitable divisions of such rates, and it may require readjustment of such divisions if it finds they have been unjust, unreasonable, or inequitable in the past. The commission is also authorized to require carriers subject to the act to construct switch connections with lateral branch lines of railroads and private sidetracks. The act provides that where two or more through routes and through rates shall have been established shippers shall have the right to designate in writing via which of such through routes the property shall be transported to destination. The act as amended February 28, 1920, gives the commission authority over the routing of traffic after it arrives at the terminus or a junction point of a carrier and is to be there delivered to another carrier in cases where routing instructions have not been given by the shipper. Where diversion of routed freight occurs which is not in compliance with an order, rule, or regulation of the commission, the carrier or carriers so diverting the traffic are jointly and severally liable to the carrier deprived of its right to participate in the haul of the property.

The act as amended February 28, 1920, authorizes the commission, under certain circumstances, upon such terms and conditions, and subject to such rules and regulations as it may think just and reasonable, to permit the pooling of freights of different and competing railroads, and to divide the aggregate or net proceeds of the earnings of such railroads, and to permit the acquisition by one carrier of the control of another carrier in any manner not involving the consolidation of such carriers into a single system for ownership and operation. It requires the commission to prepare and adopt, as soon as practicable, a plan for the consolidation of railway properties of the continental United States into a limited number of systems. It authorizes carriers, with the approval of the commission and subject to certain restrictions, to consolidate their properties or any part thereof. It authorizes a consolidation of four express companies, and relieves carriers, when permission is so granted, from the restraints of the antitrust laws so far as may be necessary to effect such consolidations. The commission is required to make rates which will yield the carriers as a whole, or as a whole in each group or territory designated by the commission, a fair return upon the aggregate value of the property used by them in serving the public, and to fix such aggregate values from time to time as may be necessary. The rate of return is fixed at 5½ per cent, to which may be added, in the discretion of the commission, not exceeding one-half of 1 per cent for improvements, betterments, or equipment, for the two years beginning March 1, 1920, and provides for the disposition of any earnings in excess thereof by distributing one-half of them to a reserve fund to be established and maintained by the carrier, the other half of such excess to be paid to the commission for the purpose of establishing and creating a contingent fund. The carrier is authorized to make certain uses of its reserve fund. The contingent fund created by the commission is to be used as a revolving fund to be administered by the commission, out of which loans may be made to carriers, or transportation equipment and facilities purchased by the commission and leased to the carriers, in accordance with prescribed terms and conditions.

The commission has jurisdiction, upon complaint or in a proceeding instituted upon its own initiative, and after full hearing, to determine and prescribe reasonable rates, regulations, and practices, including minimum, and maximum and minimum, rates; and also minimum, and maximum and minimum, proportional rates to and from ports, and to award reparation to injured shippers. The transportation act also provides that actions at law by carriers to recover their charges shall be begun within three years from the time the cause of action accrues and not thereafter, and that complaints seeking reparation shall be instituted within two years from the time the cause of action accrues, except that where the carrier begins an action after the expiration of two years for the recovery of charges in respect of the same service, or within 90 days before such expiration, the proceeding before the commission may be begun within 90 days after such action by the carrier is begun. The act also provides that a cause of action against the carrier shall be deemed to accrue upon delivery or tender of delivery by the carrier of the property involved. The commission may also require carriers to cease and desist from unjust discrimination or undue or unreasonable preferences. By the act as amended February 28, 1920, it is provided that an order of the commission shall continue in force until its further order, or for a specified period of time, according as shall be prescribed in the order, unless modified or set aside by the commission, or set aside by a court of competent jurisdiction.

Carriers are required to publish and file rates, rules, and regulations applying to interstate traffic and are prohibited from engaging in interstate transportation unless such rates, rules, and regulations are published and filed. Severe penalties are provided in the statute for failure to observe the rates and regulations shown in the published tariffs.

By the act of May 29, 1917, as amended on February 28, 1920, the commission is given extensive jurisdiction over the use, control, supply, movement, distribution, exchange, interchange, and return of locomotives, cars, and other vehicles, including special types of equipment and the supply of trains.

The commission may inquire into the management of the business of all common carriers subject to the provisions of the act to regulate commerce, and may prescribe the accounts, records, and memoranda which shall be kept by the carriers, which shall be open to examination by the commission through its authorized agents or examiners. Carriers are required to file annual reports with the commission and such other reports as the commission may from time to time require.

By the act of June 18, 1910 (Mann-Elkins law), the jurisdiction of the commission was increased as to through routes and joint rates, freight classification, switch connections, long and short hauls, filing or rejection of rate schedules, investigations on own motion, determining reasonable rates, suspension of proposed rates, and other matters. By the transportation act, 1920, the maximum period during which the commission may suspend the operation of proposed schedules is fixed at 150 days, and it is provided that if the proceeding upon suspension is not concluded within that time the proposed schedule shall go into effect at the end of such period, but that the commission may require the carriers to keep account in detail of all amounts received by reason of increases in such rates and charges and, if the decision of the commission be adverse, require the carrier or carriers to refund with interest such portions of such increased rates or charges as by its decision shall be found not justified.

By act approved August 24, 1912 (sec. 11), a new paragraph was added to section 5 of the act to regulate commerce, by which it is made unlawful after July 1, 1914, for any common carrier subject to the act to regulate commerce to own, lease, operate, control, or have any interest in any competing carrier by water. Jurisdiction is conferred upon the commission to determine questions of fact as to competition, after full hearing, on the application of any railroad company or other carrier, and to extend beyond July 1, 1914, the time during which such ownership or operation of vessels plying elsewhere than through the Panama Canal may continue, when it is found to be in the interest of the public and of advantage to the convenience and commerce of the people and not in restraint of competition.

At the same time section 6 of the act was amended by adding a new paragraph conferring upon the commission jurisdiction over transportation of property from point to point in the United States by rail and water, whether through the Panama Canal or otherwise, and not entirely within the limits of a single State, this jurisdiction under certain conditions, including power to establish physical connection between lines of the rail carrier and the dock of the water carrier by directing the rail carrier to make such connection, to establish through routes and maximum joint rates over such rail and water lines, and to determine the conditions thereof, and to determine to what traffic and in connection with what vessels and upon what terms and conditions such rates shall apply; and to require rail carriers entering into through routing arrangements with any water carrier to extend the privileges of such arrangements to other water carriers.

By the act approved March 1, 1913, as amended by act approved June 7, 1922, amending the act to regulate commerce, the commission is directed to investigate, ascertain, and report the value of all the property owned or used by every common carrier subject to the provisions of the act.

The act approved March 4, 1915, which became effective June 2, 1915, as amended August 9, 1916, makes common carriers liable for all loss, damage, or injury to property caused by them, and forbids, with certain exceptions, limitations of liability. As amended February 28, 1920, it is provided that where the loss, damage, or injury occurs while the property is in the custody of a carrier by water, the liability of such carrier shall be determined by and under the laws and regulations applicable to transportation by water, and that the liability of the initial carrier shall be the same as that of such carrier by water except in connection with shipments to foreign destinations by water carriers whose vessels are registered under the laws of the United States, in which case it is made the duty of the carrier by railroad to deliver such shipments to the vessel as a part of its undertaking as a common carrier, but it is provided in this connection that the rail carrier shall not be liable after its delivery to the vessel.

It is further provided that the two-year period for the institution of suits against carriers for loss, damage, or injury shall be computed from the day when notice is given by the carrier to the claimant that the carrier has disallowed the claim or any part thereof.

The act as amended February 28, 1920, prohibits a carrier from issuing securities or from assuming obligations or liabilities as lessor, lessee, guarantor, indorser, surety, or otherwise, in respect of the securities of others from and after 120 days after the provision takes effect, except after having been authorized by the commission so to do, prescribes the conditions under which the commission may grant authorities to the carriers, the form and contents of applications which shall be made to the commission for such purposes; provides for the giving of notice by the commission of such applications to the governor of each State in which the applicant carrier operates; for hearings by the commission in respect of such applications, that carriers may issue certificates and assume obligations or liabilities without obtaining authority other than that of the commission, and for the issuance by the carrier without the consent of the commission of short-term notes in limited amounts, reports of which are, however, required to be filed with the commission. It is further provided that nothing in the act shall be construed to imply any guaranty or obligation as to such securities on the part of the United States. The act also provides for a right of action in favor of investors or purchasers in good faith and without notice of securities which, if not legally issued, are void, and for penalties against directors, officers, attorneys, or agents or carriers who knowingly assent to or concur in the issuance of securities, etc., contrary to the provisions of the commission's orders or grants of authority.

By the act approved August 18, 1922, the commission is required to direct, after notice and hearing, each carrier by rail, subject to this act, to issue at such offices as may be prescribed by the commission interchangeable mileage or scrip coupon tickets. The commission may in its discretion except from the provisions of this amendatory act, either in whole or in part, any carrier where the particular circumstances shown to the commission shall justify such exemption to be made.

As amended February 28, 1920, the act also requires every common carrier by water in foreign commerce whose vessels are registered under the laws of the United States to file with the commission within 30 days after the provision becomes effective, and regularly thereafter as changes are made, a schedule, or schedules, showing for each of its steam vessels intended to load general cargo at ports in the United States for foreign destinations (a) the port of loading, (b) the dates upon which such vessels will commence to receive freight and dates of sailing, (c) the route and itinerary such vessels will follow and the ports of call for which cargo will be carried. It provides that such carriers by water shall, upon request, state their specific rates on any designated commodities and for any scheduled sailing and shall state any port charges not absorbed in the railroad rate to the port. The act provides, also, for the publication and dissemination in compact form, for the information of shippers throughout the country, of the substance of such schedules and the furnishing of such publications to all railway carriers for distribution in such towns and cities as may be specified by the commission.

The amended act further provides for the issuance of through export bills of lading, in connection with such water carriers, to the point of destination; that such bills of lading shall name separately the charges to be paid for railway transportation, water transportation, and port charges, if any, not included in the rail or water transportation charges, and that the commission shall, in such manner as will preserve for the carrier by water the protection of limited liability provided by law, make rules and regulations and prescribe the form of such through bills of lading; it provides that the issuance of such through bills of lading shall not be held to constitute "an arrangement for continuous carriage or shipment" within the meaning of this act.

RELATED ACTS AFFECTING INTERSTATE COMMERCE.

Elkins Act—The act of February 19, 1903, commonly called the Elkins law, prohibits rebating, allows proceedings in the courts by injunction to restrain departures from published rates, and provides that cases prosecuted under the direction of the Attorney General in the name of the commission shall be included within the expediting act of February 11, 1903.

District court jurisdiction act.—The urgent deficiency appropriation act approved October 22, 1913, provided that the Commerce Court should be abolished from and after December 31, 1913, and that the jurisdiction theretofore vested in the Commerce Court under act approved June 18, 1910, be transferred to and vested in the several district courts of the United States.

Expediting act—The act of February 11, 1903, provides that suits in equity brought under the act to regulate commerce wherein the United States is complainant may be expedited and given precedence over other suits, and that appeals from the circuit court (district court) lie only to the Supreme Court.

Federal control act.—The act known as the Federal control act, approved March 21, 1918, provides that the commission shall ascertain and certify to the President the average annual railway operating income, to be used by the President in making agreements for compensation for the use of the transportation systems of the country; that in case the amount of compensation is not adjusted, claims may be submitted to boards of referees appointed by the commission and the finding of such boards shall be a maximum of compensation which may be paid to the carriers; that the President, in executing the Federal control act may avail himself of the advice, assistance, and cooperation of the commission, its members, and its employees; that the President may initiate rates, fares, charges, classifications, regulations, and practices by filing same with the commission; that the commission shall upon complaint enter upon a hearing and determine the justness and reasonableness of any rate, fare, charge, classification, regulation, or practice initiated by the President, taking into consideration the fact that the railroads are operated under unified control and such recommendations as the President may make as to the necessity of increasing railway revenues.

Transportation act, 1920.—The transportation act, 1920, as amended by act approved February 24, 1922, provides for the termination of Federal control and limits the powers the President may thereafter exercise under the Federal control act to those necessary to wind up and settle matters arising out of Federal control; for the turning over to the Secretary of War for operation and settling up of all matters arising out of Federal control in connection with boats, barges, tugs, and other facilities on the inland, canal, and coastwise waterways acquired by the United States under the Federal control act, and requiring him to provide terminal facilities for the interchange of traffic with carriers, and renders the operation of the boats and facilities subject to the provisions of the interstate commerce act to the same extent they would be if not owned by the United States. This act also authorizes the President to advance moneys to the carriers for certain purposes out of the revolving fund created by the Federal control act, and requires the commission to ascertain and certify to the Secretary of the Treasury the amounts to be thus advanced to the carriers. It also provides for the appointment by the President of an agent to act as defendant in actions at law, suits in equity, proceedings in admiralty, and before the commission, based on matters arising out of Federal control, and confers upon the commission jurisdiction over all claims for reparation pertaining to the Federal control period, whether arising in respect of intrastate or interstate traffic, that pending actions, suits, proceedings, and reparation claims shall not abate, but that reparation awards in such cases shall be paid out of the revolving fund; that the period of Federal control shall not be computed as a part of the periods of limitation in actions against carriers or in claims for reparation based on causes of action arising out of matters pertaining to Federal control; and that a judgment in favor of the United States is the only one that may be levied against the property of the carrier where the judgment is based upon such matters.

The transportation act also continues in force until changed by lawful authority all rates, fares, charges, classifications, regulations, and practices in effect on February 29, 1920, and prohibits reductions of such rates, fares, and charges prior to September 1, 1920, except with the approval of the commission. It provides certain guaranties of compensation for a period of six months from March 1, 1920, to all carriers which were entitled to the same under the Federal control act, and which on or before March 15, 1920, filed with the commission a written statement that they accepted the provisions and conditions upon which such guaranties are made. A similar guaranty under the same conditions of acceptance is made to the American Railway Express Co. that the contract between it and the Director General of Railroads shall remain in effect during the guaranty period in so far as the said contract constitutes a guaranty to the express company against a deficit in operating income. It provides for advances to the express company and the carriers to meet operating expenses and fixed charges, and that the commission after the expiration of the guaranty period shall ascertain and certify to the Secretary of the Treasury the amount due any carrier under the guaranty, and the amount of and the times at which such loans or advances shall be made to any carrier. The transportation act also provides for the inspection of carriers' records by the President or his agents until the affairs of Federal control are concluded, and for the refunding of carriers' indebtedness to the United States. It also authorizes the Secretary of the Treasury to make new loans to carriers upon certain conditions and upon favorable certification by the commission and creates a revolving fund of $300,000,000 out of which said loans are to be made and out of which certain judgments, decrees, and awards are to be paid.

The transportation act also provides a plan for the settlement of controversies between carriers and their employees and subordinate officials through the medium of railroad boards of labor adjustment and a Railroad Labor Board. The latter consists of nine members, three of whom, representing the labor group, are to be chosen from not less than six nominees designated by the employees; three, representing the management, are to be chosen from not less than six nominees designated by the carriers. All nominations in both groups are made under rules and regulations prescribed by the commission. Three members, representing the public, are chosen directly by the President. All appointments are made by and with the advice and consent of the Senate.

Clayton Antitrust Act.—Jurisdiction is conferred upon the commission to enforce certain provisions of the act approved October 15, 1914, to supplement existing laws against unlawful restraints and monopolies in so far as such provisions relate to carriers subject to the act to regulate commerce. The act prohibits, with certain exceptions, carriers from discriminating between purchasers in sales of commodities, and from making leases or sales of commodities and from acquiring stock or capital of other corporations engaged in commerce tending to substantially lessen competition or create a monopoly; makes it a felony for a president or other specified officers to misappropriate a carrier's funds; and, as amended by act approved January 12, 1918, provides that, effective January 1, 1919, no carrier shall have dealings in securities or supplies, or contract for construction or maintenance to the amount of more than $50,000 in the aggregate in any one year, with another corporation or organization when, by reason of common officers or otherwise, there exists a community of interest between the carrier and such other corporation or organization, except as a result of free competitive bidding under regulations to be prescribed by the commission. The commission is further authorized to investigate violations of the act by carriers and to require the guilty parties to cease therefrom, and its findings of fact in such investigations shall be conclusive when supported by testimony.

Government-aided railroad and telegraph act.—Under the act of August 7, 1888, all Government-aided railroad and telegraph companies are required to file certain reports and contracts with the commission, and it is the commission's duty to decide questions relating to the interchange of business between such Government-aided telegraph company and any connecting telegraph company. The act provides penalties for failure to comply with the act or the orders of the commission.

Railway Mail Service pay act.—The act making appropriations for the service of the Post Office Department approved July 28, 1916, empowers the commission to fix and determine fair and reasonable rates and compensation for the transportation of mail matter by railway common carriers and services connected therewith, prescribing the method by weight or space, or both, or otherwise.

The act making appropriations for the services of the Post Office Department for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1919, empowers the commission to fix and determine fair and reasonable rates and compensation for the transportation of mail matter by urban and interurban electric railway common carriers.

Standard time act.—By the act approved March 19, 1918, the commission is authorized to fix the limits of the standard time zones established for the continental United States and Alaska, having due regard, in doing so, to the convenience of commerce and the junction and division points of common carriers whose movements are to be governed by the standard time of the zones so fixed.

Safety-appliance acts.—The act of March 2, 1893, known as the safety-appliance act, provides that railroad cars used in interstate commerce must be equipped with automatic couplers, and drawbars of a standard height for freight cars, and have grab irons or handholds in the ends and sides of each car; and that locomotive engines used in moving interstate traffic shall be equipped with a power driving-wheel brake and appliances for operating the train-brake system. The act directs the commission to lodge with the proper district attorneys information of such violations as may come to its knowledge. The act of March 2, 1903, amended this act so as to make its provisions apply to Territories and the District of Columbia, to all cases when couplers of whatever design are brought together, and to all locomotives, cars, and other equipment of any railroad engaged in interstate traffic, except logging cars and cars used upon street railways; and provides for a minimum number of air-braked cars in trains.

By act of April 14, 1910, the safety-appliance acts were supplemented so as to require railroads to equip their cars with sill steps, hand brakes, ladders, running boards, and roof handholds, and the commission was authorized to designate the number, dimensions, location, and manner of application of appliances.

Accident reports act.—By act of May 6, 1910, the prior accident reports law was repealed and a new statute enacted requiring carriers to make full reports of all accidents to the commission and increasing the scope of the commission's authority in making investigations of all accidents resulting to person or the property of the carrier.

Hours of service act.—The act of March 4, 1907, makes it the duty of the Interstate Commerce Commission to enforce the provisions of the act wherein it is made unlawful to require or permit employees engaged in or connected with the movement of trains to be on duty more than a specified number of hours in any 24.

Ash-pan act.—The act of May 30, 1908, makes it the duty of the Interstate Commerce Commission to enforce the provisions of the act wherein it is provided that after a certain date no locomotive shall be used in moving interstate or foreign traffic, etc., not equipped with an ash pan which can be emptied without requiring a man to go under such locomotive. Penalties are provided for violations of this act.

Transportation of explosives act.—The act of May 30, 1908, as amended by act approved March 4, 1921, directs the Interstate Commerce Commission to make regulations for the safe transportation of explosives by common carriers engaged in interstate commerce. Penalties are provided for violations of such regulations.

Locomotive and boiler inspection acts.—The act of February 17, 1911, confers jurisdiction upon the commission to enforce certain provisions compelling railroad companies to equip their locomotives with safe and suitable boilers and appurtenances thereto.

By an amendatory act approved March 4, 1915, the powers of the commission to inspect and to prescribe standards of safety for locomotive boilers and appurtenances thereto was extended to include "all parts and appurtenances of the locomotive and tender."

Block signal and automatic train-control safety devices—The urgent deficiency appropriation act approved October 22, 1913, contained an appropriation of $25,000 to enable the commission to investigate and test block signals and appliances for the automatic control of railway trains and appliances or systems intended to promote the safety of railway operation, including experimental tests of such systems and appliances as shall be furnished in completed shape to the commission for investigation and test, free of cost to the Government, in accordance with the provisions of joint resolution approved June 30, 1916, and sundry civil appropriation act approved May 27, 1908. Provision was made in the sundry civil appropriation acts approved August 1, 1914, March 3, 1915, July 1, 1916, June 12, 1917, and July 1, 1918, for continuing the investigation and testing of these systems and appliances.

By the amendment approved February 28, 1920, the commission is authorized to require carriers to install automatic train-stop or train-control devices or other safety devices in compliance with specifications upon the whole or any part of the carrier's railroad, but it is provided that any order made by the commission in the premises shall be issued and published at least two years before the date specified for its fulfillment.

UNITED STATES RAILROAD LABOR BOARD.

Section 304 of public law No. 152, Sixty-sixth Congress (the railroad act), provides for a board to be known as the Railroad Labor Board, to be composed of nine members, to be appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, as follows: Three members constituting the labor group, representing the employees and subordinate officials of the carriers, three members constituting the management group, representing the carriers; and three members constituting the public group, representing the public. Any vacancy on the board to be filled in the same manner as the original appointment.

The Labor Board shall hear, and as soon as practicable and with due diligence decide, any dispute involving grievances, rules, or working conditions, in respect to which any adjustment board certifies to the Labor Board that, in its opinion, the adjustment board has failed or will fail to reach a decision within a reasonable time, or in respect to which the Labor Board determines that any adjustment board has so failed or is not using due diligence in its consideration thereof. In case the appropriate adjustment board is not organized under the provisions of the act, the Labor Board, (1) upon the application of the chief executive of any carrier or organization of employees or subordinate officials whose members are directly interested in the dispute, (2) upon a written petition signed by not less than 100 unorganized employees or subordinate officials directly interested in the dispute, or (3) upon the Labor Board's own motion if it is of the opinion that the dispute is likely substantially to interrupt commerce, shall receive for hearing, and as soon as practicable and with due diligence decide, any dispute involving grievances, rules or working conditions which is not decided as provided by the act and which such adjustment board would be required to receive for hearing and decision under the provisions of the act.

The Labor Board, (1) upon the application of the chief executive of any carrier or organization of employees or subordinate officials whose members are directly interested in the dispute, (2) upon a written petition signed by not less than 100 unorganized employees or subordinate officials directly interested in the dispute, or (3) upon the Labor Board's own motion if it is of the opinion that the dispute is likely substantially to interrupt commerce, shall receive for hearing, and as soon as practicable, and with due diligence decide, all disputes with respect to the wages or salaries of employees or subordinate officials of carriers not decided as provided in the act. The Labor Board may upon its own motion within 10 days after the decision of any dispute with respect to wages or salaries of employees or subordinate officials of carriers, suspend the operation of such decision if the Labor Board is of the opinion that the decision involves such an increase in wages or salaries as will be likely to necessitate a substantial readjustment of the rates of any carrier. The Labor Board shall hear any decision so suspended, and as soon as practicable and with due diligence decide to affirm or modify such suspended decision.

All decisions of the Labor Board shall be entered upon the records of the board, and copies thereof, together with such statement of facts bearing thereon as the board may deem proper, shall be immediately communicated to the parties to the dispute, the President, each adjustment board, and the commission, and shall be given further publicity in such manner as the Labor Board may determine.

All the decisions of the Labor Board in respect to wages or salaries and of the Labor Board or an adjustment board in respect to working conditions of employees or subordinate officials of carriers shall establish rates of wages and salaries and standards of working conditions which in the opinion of the board are just and reasonable.

The Labor Board, in case it has reason to believe that any decision of the Labor Board or of an adjustment board is violated by any carrier, or employee or subordinate official, or organization thereof, may upon its own motion, after due notice and hearing to all persons directly interested in such violation, determine whether in its opinion such violation has occurred and make public its decision in such manner as it may determine.

CIVIL SERVICE COMMISSION.

The purpose of the civil service act, as declared in its title, is "to regulate and improve the civil service of the United States." It provides for the appointment of three commissioners, not more than two of whom shall be adherents of the same political party, and makes it the duty of the commission to aid the President, as he may request, in preparing suitable rules for carrying the act into effect. The act requires that the rules shall provide, among other things, for open competitive examinations for testing the fitness of applicants for the classified service, the making of appointments from among those passing with highest grades, an apportionment of appointments in the departments at Washington among the States and Territories, a period of probation before absolute appointment, and the prohibition of the use of official authority to coerce the political action of any person or body. The act also provides for investigations touching the enforcement of the rules, and forbids, under penalty of fine or imprisonment, or both, the solicitation by any person in the service of the United States of contributions to be used for political purposes from persons in such service, or the collection of such contributions by any person in a Government building.

The retirement act of May 22, 1920, authorizes the commission to issue certificates permitting the retention of employees beyond retirement age upon official request of the department concerned. The commission is also required to keep such information concerning individual service as may be deemed necessary to a proper determination of rights under the retirement act, and furnish the Commissioner of Pensions such reports as he shall from time to time request as necessary to the proper adjustment of any claim for annuity; and also to keep needful tables and records required for carrying out the provisions of the retirement act, including data showing mortality, experience of the employees in the service, and the percentage of withdrawals from the service.

The commission was organized on March 9, 1883. The first classification of the service applied to the departments at Washington and to post offices and custom-houses having as many as 50 employees, embracing 13,294 employees. The commission then consisted of three commissioners, the chief examiner, secretary, stenographer, and messenger boy. On June 30, 1924, there were 554,986 officers and employees in the executive civil service. Examinations were held in the principal cities throughout the country through the agency of local boards of examiners, of which there are approximately 4,000. The members of these boards are detailed from other branches of the service. During the fiscal year ended June 30, 1924, the commission examined 225,720 persons, and of this number 67,352 were appointed. The present force of the commission consists of 292 clerks and examiners and 30 subclerical employees at Washington and 157 employees in the field service.

The commission also holds examinations in Hawaii, Porto Rico, and the Philippine Islands. Under the rules, it is required to render all practical assistance to the Philippine Civil Service Board.

Appointments of unskilled laborers in the departments at Washington and in all branches of the service in certain other cities and certain branches of the service in all cities are required to be made in accordance with regulations promulgated by the President, restricting appointments to applicants who are rated highest in physical condition. This system is outside the civil service act, and is auxiliary to the civil-service rules.

CHIEF EXAMINER.

The chief examiner has supervision of the system of examinations and the procedure of examining boards. The Examining Division, the Division of Investigation and Review, the Application Division, the Research Section, and the 13 district offices are under his supervision.

SECRETARY.

The secretary is the administrative officer of the commission and has charge of matters relating to the enforcement of the civil service act, rules, and regulations. The Appointment Division is under his supervision.

APPLICATION DIVISION

Issues announcements of examinations; distributes information concerning examinations; receives and passes upon applications, prepares correspondence respecting admission to examinations; and supervises the holding of examinations by local civil-service boards. It maintains a record of applications.

EXAMINING DIVISION.

Prepares examinations, rates the papers, issues notices of markings, and passes upon the qualifications of applicants.

APPOINTMENT DIVISION.

Maintains registers of eligibles and issues certifications for appointments, records appointments and changes in the personnel of the executive civil service, and maintains service records of all employees in the classified service; handles retirement matters, matters relating to reinstatements, transfers, promotions, and irregularities arising under the civil service law and rules and of Executive orders, and conducts the general correspondence of the commission, except that relating to applications and examinations.

DIVISION OF INVESTIGATION AND REVIEW.

Investigates alleged frauds and irregularities in examinations, decides on requirements in changes of designations of Government employees, conducts oral examinations, makes personal investigations in the field, and acts as an appellate board for the consideration and review of ratings on appeal.

BUREAU OF INFORMATION.

This bureau answers telephonic and personal inquiries regarding dates and places of examinations; supplies applications and other printed matter concerning the examinations; records the names and addresses of persons to be notified of future examinations; and gives other general information.

UNITED STATES BUREAU OF EFFICIENCY.

The duties of the Bureau of Efficiency are to establish and maintain a system of efficiency ratings for the executive departments in the District of Columbia; to investigate the needs of the several executive departments and independent establishments with respect to personnel, to investigate duplication of statistical and other work and methods of business in the various branches of the Government service; and to aid the Personnel Classification Board in the classification of positions in the departmental service.

FEDERAL RESERVE BOARD.

Generally speaking, the functions of the board are to exercise a broad supervision over the affairs and conduct of 12 Federal reserve banks established in accordance with the terms of the Federal reserve act in different parts of the country and invested with authority to discount paper for member banks, issue Federal reserve notes to member banks, and perform the various banking functions described in the act itself. The board has full power to appoint its own staff of employees and officers and to regulate the conditions of their employment. Its support is derived from the several reserve banks from assessments levied by its half yearly pro rata. The board is responsible to Congress and reports annually to that body. Certain functions in connection with the national banking system are also assigned to it under the legislation, although the Comptroller of the Currency, who is a member of the board, exercises the same general administrative and supervisory authority over the national banks that has been in his hands in the past. It also passes upon applications under the Clayton Act as amended.

Some of the more important duties of the Federal Reserve Board are set forth in section 11 of the Federal reserve act, which provides that the Federal Reserve Board shall be authorized to examine at its discretion the accounts, books, and affairs of each Federal reserve bank and of each member bank, and to require such statements and reports as it may deem necessary, to permit, or, on the affirmative vote of at least five members of the Reserve Board, to require Federal reserve banks to rediscount the discounted paper of other Federal reserve banks at rates of interest to be fixed by the Federal Reserve Board; to suspend for a period not exceeding 30 days, and from time to time to renew such suspension for periods not exceeding 15 days, any reserve requirements specified in this act, to supervise and regulate through the bureau under the charge of the Comptroller of the Currency the issue and retirement of Federal reserve notes, and to prescribe rules and regulations under which such notes may be delivered by the comptroller to the Federal reserve agents applying therefor; to add to the number of cities classified as reserve and central reserve cities under existing law in which national banking associations are subject to the reserve requirements set forth in section 20 of this act; to suspend or remove any officer or director of any Federal reserve bank, the cause of such removal to be forthwith communicated in writing by the Federal Reserve Board to the removed officer or director and to said bank; to require the writing off of doubtful or worthless assets upon the books and balance sheets of Federal reserve banks; to suspend, for the violation of any of the provisions of this act, the operations of any Federal reserve bank, to take possession thereof, administer the same during the period of suspension, and, when deemed advisable, to liquidate or reorganize such bank; to require bonds of Federal reserve agents, to exercise general supervision over said Federal reserve banks; to grant by special permit to national banks applying therefor, when not in contravention of State or local law, the right to exercise fiduciary powers.

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION.

The Federal Trade Commission was created by an act of Congress approved September 26, 1914, in which the commission's powers and duties were defined. The commission is an independent agency, with its five members appointed for a term of seven years each by the President of the United States with the approval of the Senate. No more than three members may be of one political party.

Further specific powers are conferred upon this commission by "An act to supplement existing laws against unlawful restraints and monopolies, and for other purposes," approved October 15, 1914 (commonly known as the Clayton Act); by an act of Congress approved October 6, 1917, known as the trading with the enemy act; and by "An act to promote export trade, and for other purposes," approved April 10, 1918, known as the export trade act (Webb-Pomerene law).

FUNCTIONS UNDER THE FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION ACT.

Section 5 of the Federal Trade Commission act states that "unfair methods of competition in commerce are hereby declared unlawful" and empowers and directs the commission to prevent "persons, partnerships, or corporations, except banks, and common carriers subject to the acts to regulate commerce, from using unfair methods of competition in commerce."

Whenever the commission shall have reason to believe that any such person, partnership, or corporation has been or is using any unfair method of competition in commerce, and if it shall appear to the commission that a proceeding by it in respect thereof would be to the interest of the public, it shall issue and serve upon such person, partnership, or corporation a complaint stating its charges in that respect. Provision is made for hearings and the taking of testimony. If the commission shall then be of the opinion that the method of competition in question is prohibited by this act, it shall issue and cause to be served upon the person or organization against whom complaint is made an order to cease and desist from using such unfair method of competition as shown to be sustained by the proof submitted.

Provision is made for appeal to the Circuit Court of Appeals of the United States to enforce, set aside, or modify orders of the commission. The judgment and decree of the court shall be final, except that the same shall be subject to review by the Supreme Court upon certiorari as provided in the Judicial Code.

The commission's procedure, findings, and orders in many cases have been tested out in the Federal courts, and at the present time the commission has been sustained, in whole or in part, in 14 cases. There are still a number of cases in the courts being litigated, and there are on appeal in the Supreme Court two cases which will be presented to that court in the near future for final determination.

Application for complaint may be made merely in a letter to the Federal Trade Commission. In this letter the writer should make specific charges against the individual or concern which he believes is practicing unfair methods of competition. If this letter appears to set forth a clear case it is docketed as an application for complaint and is given to an attorney-examiner for inquiry and investigation. This attorney-examiner, following a thorough investigation, reports to the chief examiner, who examines the record and makes his recommendation to a board of review composed of two lawyers and one economist. This board of review determines whether interstate commerce is involved; whether the methods complained of are unfair; whether there is actual competition; and whether it is such as to involve the public interest. The board of review, upon answering these questions, makes its recommendation as to whether or not a formal complaint containing specific charges should be issued. The case is then studied by a commissioner to whom it has been assigned. This commissioner reviews what the investigator, the chief examiner, and the board of review have said, and then in turn makes his recommendation to the commission, which, after discussion, votes as to whether formal complaint should issue. If complaint is ordered issued by a majority vote, the proceeding becomes a public record, and after the respondent has answered the charges in writing the case proceeds to trial. Following the trial and the filing of briefs and oral argument, the commission decides the case and issues either an order to cease and desist or an order of dismissal. If the respondent does not believe the commission's order is justified, he has the right to appeal to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals.

Among the methods of competition thus far condemned by the commission are the following:

Misbanding of fabrics and other commodities respecting the materials or ingredients of which they are composed, their quality, origin, or source

Adulteration of commodities, misrepresenting them as pure or selling them under such names and circumstances that the purchaser would be misled into believing them to be pure.

Bribery of buyers or other employees of customers and prospective customers to secure new customers or induce continuation of patronage

The payment of bonuses by manufacturers to salesmen of jobbers and retailers to procure their special services in selling their goods, and making unduly large contributions of money to associations of customers.

Procuring breach of competitors' contracts for the sale of products by misrepresentation or by other means.

Procuring the business or trade secrets of competitors by espionage, by bribing their employees, or by similar means.

Inducing employees of competitors to violate their contracts or enticing away employees of competitors in such numbers or under such circumstances as to hamper or embarrass them in business.

Making false or disparaging statements respecting competitors' products, their business, financial credit, etc.

The use of false or misleading advertisements.

Making vague and indefinite threats of patent infringement suits against the trade generally, the threats being couched in such general language as not to convey a clear idea of the rights alleged to be infringed, but nevertheless causing uneasiness and fear in the trade.

Widespread threats to the trade of suits for patent infringement arising from the sale of alleged infringing products of competitors, such threats not being made in good faith but for the purpose of intimidating the trade.

False claims to patents or misrepresenting the scope of patents

Intimidation for the purpose of accomplishing enforced dealing by falsely charging disloyalty to the Government.

Tampering with and misadjusting the machines sold by competitors for the purpose of discrediting them with purchasers.

Trade boycotts or combinations of traders to prevent certain wholesale or retail dealers or certain classes of such dealers from procuring goods

Passing off products or business of one manufacturer for those of another by imitation of products, dress of goods, or by simulation of advertising or of corporate or trade names.

Unauthorized appropriation of the results of a competitor's ingenuity, labor, and expense, thereby avoiding costs otherwise necessarily involved in production.

Preventing competitors from procuring advertising space in newspaper or periodicals by misrepresenting their standing or other misrepresentation calculated to prejudice advertising mediums against them

Misrepresentation in the sale of stock of corporations.

Selling rebuilt machines of various descriptions, rebuilt automobile tires, and old motion-picture films slightly changed and renamed as and for new products

Harassing competitors by fake requests for estimates on bills of goods, for catalogues, etc.

Giving away of goods in large quantities to hamper and embarrass small competitors, and selling goods at cost to accomplish the same purpose

Sales of goods at cost, coupled with statements misleading the public into the belief that they are sold at a profit

Bidding up the prices of raw materials to a point where the business is unprofitable for the purpose of driving out financially weaker competitors

The use by monopolistic concerns of concealed subsidiaries for carrying on their business, such concerns being held out as not connected with the controlling company.

Intentional appropriation or converting to one's own use of raw materials of competitors by diverting shipments.

Giving or offering to give premiums of unequal value, the particular premiums received to be determined by lot or chance, thus in effect setting up a lottery.

Any and all schemes for compelling wholesalers and retailers to maintain resale prices on products fixed by the manufacturer.

Combinations of competitors to enhance prices, maintain prices, bring about substantial uniformity in prices, or to divide territory or business.

Under section 6 the Federal Trade Commission derives its authority for making economic investigations. It is provided that the commission shall have power to gather and compile information concerning, and to investigate from time to time, the organization, business, conduct, practices, and management of any corporation engaged in commerce, excepting banks, and common carriers subject to the act to regulate commerce; that it may require reports and answers to specific questions in the compilation of such information

The commission has already gathered and published for the use of the Congress, the departments, and the public, a great deal of information regarding many of the essential industries of the country. Most of the economic inquiries have been made at the request of the Congress or the President, to whom reports have been or are now being made.

Among the more important inquiries under way during 1923, which were directed to be made by Congress, or by the President, were the following: (1) Cotton trade, (2) grain trade, (3) flour milling, (4) foreign ownership in the petroleum industry, (5) coal dealers, (6) house furnishings, (7) export grain trade, and (8) national wealth, income, and debt.

The commission may (under sec. 6) investigate, from time to time, trade conditions in and with foreign countries where associations, combinations, or practices of manufacturers, merchants, or traders, or other conditions, may affect the foreign trade of the United States.

Further investigatory powers are given to the commission in connection with violations of the antitrust acts and the manner in which final decrees that have been entered in suits to prevent and restrain such violations have been carried out. Provision is made for report thereon to the Attorney General.

The commission may make public from time to time such portions of the information obtained by it as it shall deem expedient in the public interest, except trade secrets and names of customers.

Section 7 of the Federal Trade Commission act provides that in any suit in equity brought by or under the direction of the Attorney General, as provided in the antitrust acts, the court may refer said suit to the commission, as a master in chancery, to ascertain and report an appropriate form of decree therein.

Other sections of the act give to the commission authorization for such investigations and the compilation of data, with provision for procedure under the act, and penalties prescribed for refusal of persons, partnerships, or corporations, to furnish such material or to comply with orders of the commission to testify, produce evidence, or file reports as required.

FUNCTIONS OF THE COMMISSION BOTH LEGAL AND ECONOMIC.

It will be seen that under the Federal Trade Commission act the powers and duties of the commission are both legal and economic. Regulatory powers include measures for the prevention of unfair competition and in connection with violation of the antitrust laws. Investigatory powers include economic studies of domestic industry and interstate and foreign commerce. Such economic inquiries may be inaugurated by the commission of its own initiative, but are more frequently undertaken by direction of the United States Senate or the House of Representatives, or both.

POWERS OF THE COMMISSION UNDER THE CLAYTON ANTITRUST ACT.

The commission is given jurisdiction over violations of sections 2, 3, 7, and 8, of the Clayton Act, which prohibit.

(1) Certain discriminations in prices between different purchasers of commodities where the effect of such discrimination may be to substantially lessen competition or tend to create a monopoly in any line of commerce.

(2) In certain cases, so-called "tying contracts," or contracts whereby, as a condition of sale or lease, the seller or lessor exacts from the purchaser or lessee an agreement that he shall not use or deal in the goods or other commodities of a competitor of the lessor or seller, where the effect of such agreement may be to substantially lessen competition or tend to create a monopoly in any line of commerce.

(3) In certain cases, so-called "holding companies," or the ownership by one company of the stock of another, where the effect may be to substantially lessen competition, to restrain commerce, or tend to create a monopoly.

(4) So-called "interlocking directorates" in cases where one person shall at the same time be a director in any two or more corporations engaged in interstate or foreign commerce, other than banks, banking associations, trust companies, and common carriers subject to the act to regulate commerce, if such corporations are or have been competitors, so that the elimination of competition by agreement between them would constitute a violation of any of the provisions of any of the antitrust laws.

Procedure under the Clayton Act is identical with that under the Federal Trade Commission act

FUNCTIONS OF THE COMMISSION UNDER THE EXPORT TRADE ACT (WEBB-POMERENE LAW).

The export trade act authorizes the formation of "associations" entered into for the sole purpose of engaging in export trade, these associations to be exempt from the antitrust laws of the United States, with the proviso that there shall be through the association no restraint of the export trade of any domestic competitor, no enhancing or depression of prices, or substantial lessening of competition within the United States.

Section 1 of the act defines "export trade" and "association."

Sections 2 and 3 provide exemption from the antitrust laws under certain conditions

Section 4 extends the jurisdiction of the commission under the Federal Trade Commission act to "unfair methods of competition used in export trade against competitors engaged in export trade even though the acts constituting such unfair methods are done without the territorial jurisdiction of the United States."

Section 5 provides for the filing of papers by such export trade associations with the Federal Trade Commission, and other details of administration.

UNITED STATES SHIPPING BOARD.

The United States Shipping Board was created by an act of Congress approved September 7, 1916, entitled "An act to establish a United States Shipping Board for the purpose of encouraging, developing, and creating a naval auxiliary and naval reserve and a merchant marine to meet the requirements of the commerce of the United States with its territories and possessions and with foreign countries; to regulate carriers by water engaged in the foreign and interstate commerce of the United States, and for other purposes," generally known as the shipping act, 1916. It is an independent establishment of the executive branch of the Government, similar to the Interstate Commerce Commission and Federal Trade Commission, and under the shipping act, 1916, was composed of five members, who chose their own chairman and vice chairman and secretary.

The shipping act, 1916, provides for the regulation of the operations of common carriers by water in both interstate and foreign commerce, defines certain terms used in connection therewith, and provides penalties for the violation of its provisions. Carriers are required to file with the board copies of such agreements, or memorandums of oral understandings as each may have with other carriers or persons subject to the act relating to the regulation of rates, pooling of earnings, number and character of sailings between various ports, the volume or character of traffic, etc. Certain conduct by carriers or other persons subject to the act is declared to be unlawful and punishable by penalties set forth in the act. Sworn complaints setting forth violations of the act may be filed with the board by a common carrier by water or other person subject to the act, and a method is provided for the adjudication of such complaints.

The board is further empowered to investigate the action of foreign governments with respect to privileges afforded and burdens imposed on vessels of the United States, and to make a report of the result of such investigations to the President, who is authorized to secure by diplomatic action equal privileges for United States vessels.

Methods of enforcing the orders of the board, whether for the performance of certain acts or for the payment of money awarded as damages by the board, are also provided.

The act expressly provides that the board does not have concurrent jurisdiction with the Interstate Commerce Commission over acts within the latter's power or jurisdiction, and that its provisions do not apply to interstate commerce.

The board is further empowered by the shipping act to regulate the sale of a vessel owned by a citizen of the United States to aliens. The board's approval must be obtained to put a vessel owned by a citizen of the United States under a foreign registry or flag. The board may also organize one or more corporations under the laws of the District of Columbia, for the purchase, operation, lease, charter, or sale of the merchant vessels acquired under the act, and there was placed at the disposal of the board for this purpose a fund of $50,000,000, to be raised through the sale of Panama Canal bonds. Under this authority the board on April 16, 1917, organized the United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation, all the stock of which has been fully paid up and is now owned by the United States of America through the United States Shipping Board.

The board is directed to investigate the relative cost of constructing vessels at home and abroad; to examine the rules under which vessels are constructed at home and abroad, to investigate matters relating to marine insurance, the classification and rating of vessels, and the navigation laws of the United States, and to make such recommendations to Congress as it may deem best for the improvement and revision of such laws.

The shipping act, 1916, was amended by an act approved July 15, 1918, which more particularly defined the various terms used and provisions contained in the shipping act, and added eight sections at the end of the act whereby the board was granted more complete control over the use or sale, particularly to aliens, of marine property during the existence of a state of war or any national emergency declared to exist by proclamation of the President, and providing punishment for violations of certain provisions of the act as amended.

The shipping act, 1916, as amended by the act approved July 15, 1918, was further amended by the act of June 5, 1920, known as the merchant marine act, 1920, which transferred to the Shipping Board certain specified authority granted during the war by Congress to the President and by him delegated by various Executive orders to the Shipping Board and the United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation. This act in section 1 sets forth in the following language the general merchant marine policy to be followed by the board in its administration of the merchant marine acquired by the United States as a result of its European war activities: "That it is necessary for the national defense and for the proper growth of its foreign and domestic commerce that the United States shall have a merchant marine of the best equipped and most suitable types of vessels sufficient to carry the greater portion of its commerce and serve as a naval or military auxiliary in time of war or national emergency, ultimately to be owned and operated privately by citizens of the United States; and it is hereby declared to be the policy of the United States to do whatever may be necessary to develop and encourage the maintenance of such a merchant marine, and, in so far as may not be inconsistent with the express provisions of this act, the United States Shipping Board shall, in the disposition of vessels and shipping property as hereinafter provided, in the making of rules and regulations, and in the administration of the shipping laws keep always in view this purpose and object as the primary end to be obtained."

By this act the membership of the board is increased from five to seven, the sections of the country from which they are to be appointed are designated, and the President is directed to designate the member to act as chairman of the board, the board electing its vice chairman.

General conditions to govern the board in its disposition of vessel property of the United States both to citizens of the United States and to aliens are set forth, and the board is authorized to sell to aliens only when, after diligent effort, it has been unable to sell to American citizens, and then only upon the affirmative vote of not less than five members, with the reasons for such action spread on the minutes of the board.

Other duties of the board under the merchant marine act, 1920, are as follows

To investigate and determine what steamship lines should be established and operated between the United States and foreign ports for the development and maintenance of the foreign and coastwise trade of the United States and an adequate postal service, to sell vessels under its control to responsible citizens of the United States who will agree to maintain such lines under such terms as the board may deem advisable.

To cooperate with the Secretary of War in encouraging the development of ports and transportation facilities in connection with the water commerce over which the board has jurisdiction, to investigate the cause of congestion of commerce at ports and any other matters tending to promote and encourage the use by vessels of ports adequate to care for the freight which would naturally pass through such ports, the result of such investigations to be submitted to the Interstate Commerce Commission for such action as that commission may consider appropriate under existing law in case the board decides that rates, charges, rules, or regulations of common carriers by rail subject to the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission are detrimental to the promotion and development of such ports.

To set aside annually for five years from the approval of the act, from revenues from sales and operations, a construction loan fund of not exceeding $25,000,000, for use in aiding the construction of vessels of the best and most efficient type for operation on the steamship lines deemed necessary and desirable by the board, no aid from such fund, however, being for a greater sum than two-thirds of the cost of the vessel or vessels to be constructed.

To recondition and keep in suitable repair and operate until sold all vessels under its control either directly or through the United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation, which is authorized to continue in existence until all vessels are sold regardless of the provision of the shipping act, 1916, limiting the life of said corporation to not to exceed five years after the declaration of peace between the United States and Germany as evidenced by proclamation of the President.

To create out of net revenue from operations and sales and to administer an insurance fund to insure any interest of the United States in vessels constructed or under construction and in any plants or materials acquired by the board.

To continue the operation of housing projects acquired by the United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation until the interest of the United States in such properties is disposed of consistent with good business and the best interest of the United States.

To take over on January 1, 1921, the possession, control, operation, and development of the terminal facilities acquired by the President by or under the act entitled "An act making appropriations to supply urgent deficiencies in appropriations for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1918, and prior fiscal years, on account of war expenses, and for other purposes," approved March 28, 1918.

To make all necessary rules and regulations to carry out the provisions of the act, with authority to request the head of any department, board, bureau, or agency of the Government to suspend, modify, or annul rules or regulations affecting shipping in the foreign trade, except such rules or regulations relating to the Public Health Service, the Consular Service, and the Steamboat Inspection Service, which have been established by such department, board, bureau, or agency, or to make new rules or regulations affecting such shipping.

To approve before issuance rules or regulations thereafter established by any other branch of the Government affecting foreign trade, except rules or regulations affecting the Public Health Service, the Consular Service, and the Steamboat Inspection Service.

To approve the type and kind of new vessels to be constructed by citizens of the United States out of trust funds set aside for investment therein, in order that the owner of such vessel may be allowed as a deduction for the purpose of ascertaining his net income subject to the war profits and excess profits taxes imposed by Title III of the revenue act of 1918, an amount equivalent to the net earnings of a vessel owned by such person operated in the foreign trade during such taxable year, but two-thirds of the cost of any such new vessel shall be paid for out of ordinary funds or capital of the person having such vessel constructed.

The act further provides that after February 1, 1922, the coastwise laws of the United States shall extend to its island territories and possessions not now covered thereby, and directs the board to establish adequate steamship service at reasonable rates to accommodate the commerce and passenger travel of such islands, but if such adequate shipping service is not established by February, 1922, the President is directed to extend the period within which such service may be established for such time as may be necessary therefor.

The act further provides that all mails of the United States shipped or carried on vessels shall, if practicable, be shipped or carried on American-built vessels documented under the laws of the United States, and directs the board and the Postmaster General in aid of the development of an adequate merchant marine to determine from time to time the just and reasonable rate of compensation to be paid for carrying the mails on such vessels.

The American Bureau of Shipping is directed to be recognized by all departments, boards, bureaus, or commissions of the Government for the classification of vessels owned by the United States so long as the American Bureau of Shipping is maintained as an organization with no capital stock and paying no dividends. The Secretary of Commerce and the chairman of the board are each directed to appoint one representative to represent the Government on the executive committee of the American Bureau of Shipping.

The act further provides that not to exceed 16 persons in addition to the crew may be carried on cargo vessels documented under the laws of the United States without thereby subjecting such vessel to the provisions of laws governing passenger vessels. The act further exempts from the provisions of the antitrust laws associations entered into by marine insurance companies for the purpose of transacting marine insurance and reinsurance business in the United States and foreign countries.

Section 30 of the merchant marine act, 1920, contains what is known as the ship-mortgage act, 1920, and materially alters the provisions of prior laws and judicial decisions relating to the status of mortgage liens on vessel property. This section creates what is known as a "preferred mortgage" by providing that mortgages on vessel property, recorded and indorsed in accordance with the provisions of the ship-mortgage act, shall be known as preferred mortgages and that upon the sale of a vessel subject to a preferred mortgage lien by order of a district court in suit brought by one having a maritime lien all preexisting claims in the vessel are terminated and attached in like amounts and priorities to the proceeds of the sale except that the lien arising under the preferred mortgage is given precedence over all such claims except expenses and fees allowed and costs taxed by the court, and liens for damages arising out of tort, for wages of a stevedore when employed by the owner, operator, master, ship's husband, or agent of the vessel, for wages of the crew of the vessel, for general average, and for salvage, including contract salvage.

The act further provides that such preferred mortgage may be foreclosed by a suit in rem in admiralty, the original jurisdiction of such suits being granted exclusively to the district courts of the United States. The act also regulates transfers of mortgaged vessels and the assignment of vessel mortgages and rights thereunder, and repeals the maritime lien act, 1910, which, however, is reenacted with amendments to make its provisions consistent with the provisions of the ship mortgage act, 1920.

Section 4530 of the Revised Statutes is amended so as to provide that a seaman on a vessel of the United States may not make the demand for wages provided for therein more often than once in the same harbor on the same entry.

Section 20 of the act of March 4, 1915, relating to suits for damages for personal injuries suffered on board a vessel or in its service is amended so as to extend to seamen who are given a right of trial by jury in such cases and further provides that where death ensues the personal representative of a deceased seaman is authorized to maintain an action for damages at law with the right of trial by jury, in both of which cases statutes of the United States modifying or extending the common-law right or remedy in actions for personal injury or death of railway employees are declared to be applicable.

The act further provides that in the judgment of Congress treaties or conventions to which the United States is a party which contain provisions restricting the right of the United States to impose discriminating customs duties on imports entering the United States in foreign vessels and restricting the right of the United States to impose discriminatory tonnage dues on foreign vessels should be terminated and directs the President to give notice to the several Governments parties to such treaties so in force terminating such restrictions at the expiration of the period provided for in such treaties for the giving of such notice.

The act, by section 38, amends section 2 of the shipping act, 1916, so as to more clearly define within the meaning of the shipping act, 1916, the citizenship of a corporation, partnership, or association.

UNITED STATES SHIPPING BOARD EMERGENCY FLEET CORPORATION.

The United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation was incorporated April 16, 1917, by the United States Shipping Board under the authority of section 11 of the act of Congress approved September 7, 1916, generally known as the shipping act, 1916.

The corporation is capitalized at $50,000,000, divided into shares of a par value of $100 each. All the stock of the corporation is owned by the United States of America, represented by the United States Shipping Board.

The object for which the corporation was organized is stated in the articles of incorporation, as follows: "That the corporate name of this company shall be United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation, and the object for which it is formed is the purchase, construction, equipment, lease, charter, maintenance, and operation of merchant vessels in the commerce of the United States, and in general to do and to perform every lawful act and thing necessary or expedient to be done or performed for the efficient and profitable conducting of said business, as authorized by the laws of Congress, and to have and to exercise all the powers conferred by the laws of the District of Columbia upon corporations under said subchapter 4 of the incorporation laws of the District of Columbia."

The board of trustees of the corporation consists of seven members. The general officers consist of a president, several vice presidents, secretary, treasurer, general comptroller, and general counsel.

The proceeds received by the corporation from the sale of its capital stock and appropriations made by Congress have been used for the construction by contract of steel, wood, composite, and concrete vessels for overseas commerce and for the completion of steel vessels over 2,500 dead-weight tons capacity requisitioned by direction of the United States Shipping Board on August 3, 1917.

By the emergency shipping fund provision of the urgent deficiencies appropriation act approved June 15, 1917, as amended by an act approved April 22, 1918, and by an act approved November 4, 1918, certain extensive war powers in connection with the construction, requisition, and operation of vessels were conferred on the President and by him by Executive orders of various dates conferred on the corporation. The merchant marine act, 1920, transferred all the power and authority thus delegated to the corporation to the United States Shipping Board, which, however, is authorized to perform such of its duties as it may deem advisable through or by the corporation as its agent.

In accordance with the authority granted by section 25 of the merchant marine act, 1920, the United States Shipping Board, by resolution adopted on January 10, 1924, conferred certain powers on the United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation.

UNITED STATES RAILROAD ADMINISTRATION.

By proclamation of the President issued February 28, 1920, under authority of an act of Congress approved February 28, 1920, Walker D. Hines, Director General of Railroads, was authorized, either personally or through such divisions, agencies, or persons as he might appoint, to exercise and perform all of the powers and duties conferred upon the President by the provisions of that act except the designation of the agent under section 206 thereof. In a proclamation dated March 11, 1920, Walker D. Hines, Director General of Railroads, was also designated agent under section 206 of the act.

Walker D. Hines, Director General of Railroads, resigned that position, effective May 18, 1920, and by proclamation of the President of the United States John Barton Payne, Secretary of the Interior, was designated to take over and perform all of the duties previously designated to be performed by the Director General of Railroads; the latter resigned and, effective March 28, 1921, James C. Davis was appointed.

The act of February 28, 1920, authorizes the President to adjust, settle, liquidate, and wind up all of the matters, including compensation, and all questions in dispute of whatsoever nature arising out of or incident to Federal control. The act provides that the President shall have the right at all reasonable times until the affairs of Federal control are concluded to inspect the property and records of all carriers whose railroads or systems of transportation were at any time under Federal control. It also provides that the carriers, at their own expense, upon the request of the President or those duly authorized by him, shall furnish all necessary and proper information and reports compiled upon the records made or kept during the period of Federal control affecting their respective lines. The act provides that any carrier which refuses or obstructs such inspection or which willfully fails to provide reasonable facilities therefor or to furnish such information or reports shall be liable to a penalty of $500 for each day of the continuance of such offense.

UNITED STATES COUNCIL OF NATIONAL DEFENSE.

The Council of National Defense is directed by the act of August 29, 1916, to nominate to the President, to be appointed by him, an advisory commission consisting of not more than seven persons, each of whom possesses special knowledge of some industry, public utility, or the development of some natural resource, or is otherwise specially qualified for the performance of such duties as shall come within their jurisdiction.

It is the duty of the Council of National Defense to supervise and direct investigations and make recommendations to the President and the heads of executive departments as to the location of railroads with reference to the frontier of the United States so as to render possible expeditious concentration of troops and supplies to points of defense; the coordination of military, industrial, and commercial purposes in the location of extensive highways and branch lines of railroad; the utilization of waterways; the mobilization of military and naval resources for defense; the increase of domestic production of articles and materials essential to the support of armies and of the people during the interruption of foreign commerce; the development of seagoing transportation, data as to amounts, location, methods and means of production and availability of military supplies, the giving of information to producers and manufacturers as to the class of supplies needed by the military and other services of the Government, the requirements relating thereto, and the creation of relations which will render possible in time of need the immediate concentration and utilization of the resources of the Nation.

The records of the Council of National Defense, as well as those of the War Industries Board and the Committee on Public Information, are now under the jurisdiction of the Assistant Secretary of War, who is charged by law (act of June 4, 1920) with supervision of the procurement of all military supplies and other business of the War Department pertaining thereto and the assurance of adequate provision for the mobilization of matériel and industrial organizations essential to war-time needs.

WAR FINANCE CORPORATION.

The War Finance Corporation was created by the act approved April 5, 1918. Its original purpose was to give financial support to industries whose operations were "necessary or contributory to the prosecution of the war" and to banking institutions that aided in financing such industries. It was also authorized to make advances to savings banks and building loan associations, to buy and sell obligations of the United States Government, and to issue bonds.

The corporation was in existence only six months before the armistice was signed. When hostilities ceased its operations were contracted automatically, but in the spring of 1919 it was called upon to undertake the burden of financing the railroads, then under Federal control, because no appropriation had been made for the maintenance of their operations.

AUTHORITY TO FINANCE EXPORTS.

By act approved March 3, 1919, the powers of the corporation were extended to embrace an entirely new line of activity. In order to assist in the transition from conditions of war to the conditions of peace, the corporation was given authority to make advances to the extent of $1,000,000,000 to American exporters and American banking institutions which chose to extend credits to foreign buyers. The activities of the corporation under this authority were discontinued in May, 1920, at the request of the then Secretary of the Treasury. In January, 1921, the Congress passed a joint resolution directing the corporation to resume operations in accordance with the provisions of the act of March 3, 1919.

AGRICULTURAL CREDITS

By act approved August 24, 1921, commonly known as the agricultural credits act of 1921, the corporation's powers were further extended and it was authorized to make loans for agricultural purposes to banking and financing institutions, including live-stock loan companies, and to cooperative marketing associations. The act required the corporation to obtain in every case "full and adequate security by indorsement, guaranty, pledge, or otherwise" and provided that the aggregate of advances made by the corporation remaining unpaid at any one time may not exceed $1,000,000,000. It contained a provision limiting to June 30, 1922, the period during which the corporation was authorized to make new advances. This period, however, was extended to June 30, 1923, by the act approved June 10, 1922; to March 31, 1924, by the agricultural credits act of 1923; and to December 31, 1924, by the act approved February 20, 1924.

Advances may be made for periods not exceeding one year. The act of August 24, 1921, authorized the corporation, in its discretion, to renew or extend such advances for periods not exceeding three years from the dates upon which they were originally made; while the act of February 20, 1924, provides that the time for the payment of any advance "shall not be extended beyond January 1, 1926, if such advance was originally made on or before January 1, 1923, or beyond three years from the date upon which such advance was originally made, if such advance was originally made after January 1, 1923."

FINANCIAL RESOURCES OF THE CORPORATION.

The capital stock of the corporation was fixed by the act of April 5, 1918, at $500,000,000, all of it to be held by the Government. On November 30, 1919, the entire authorized stock of $500,000,000 had been subscribed. The accumulated earnings of the corporation are available for use in connection with the conduct of its business.

The corporation is authorized to issue, and have outstanding at any one time, its bonds in an amount aggregating not more than three times its paid-in capital, such bonds to mature not less than six months nor more than five years from their respective dates of issue and to have a first and paramount floating charge upon all the assets of the corporation, which is prohibited from mortgaging or pledging any of its assets at any time. Under this authority the corporation in April, 1919, issued for public sale one-year 5 per cent bonds to the extent of $200,000,000. These bonds matured on April 1, 1920, and all of them, with the exception of a few not yet presented for payment, have been retired.

The funds of the corporation are kept on deposit with the Treasurer of the United States, subject to check, but may, with the consent of the Secretary of the Treasury, be invested in United States Government bonds, notes or Treasury certificates.

ALIEN PROPERTY CUSTODIAN.

The President was authorized under the provisions of the "trading with the enemy act" to appoint an official, to be known as the Alien Property Custodian, who shall be empowered to receive all the moneys and property in the United States due or belonging to an enemy or ally of an enemy, which may be paid, conveyed, transferred, assigned, or delivered to the said custodian under the provisions of the act, and to hold, administer, and account for the same under the general direction of the President and as provided in the act.

The President has delegated to the Alien Property Custodian the following powers and duties under the trading with the enemy act:

The executive administration of all the provisions of section 7 (a), section 7 (c), and section 7 (d), including power to require reports and extend the time for filing the same, conferred upon the President by the provisions of section 7 (a), and including the power conferred upon the President by the provisions of section 7 (c), to require the conveyance, etc., to the Alien Property Custodian at such time and in such manner as he shall require, of any money or other properties owing to or belonging to or held for or on account of any enemy or ally of an enemy not holding a license granted under the provisions of the trading with the enemy act which, after investigation, said Alien Property Custodian shall determine is so owing, etc.

The property seized and demanded by the Alien Property Custodian is scattered throughout the United States and its Territories, including the Philippine Islands and Hawaii, and consists of industrial plants, such as chemical and woolen mills, steamship lines, banks, land and cattle companies, salmon factories, gold and silver and other mines of metal and other miscellaneous industrial plants, and thousands of parcels of real estate, and trusts represented by securities and liquid assets.

The Alien Property Custodian is required by the trading with the enemy act to deposit all moneys coming into his hands in the Treasury of the United States, to be invested by the Secretary of the Treasury in United States bonds or certificates of indebtedness. With respect to all other property the Alien Property Custodian has all the powers of a common-law trustee, and the further power of management and sale under the direction of the President. All moneys or properties after the end of the war will be disposed of as Congress shall direct.

The treaties of peace between the United States of America and Germany and Austria provide that—

"All property of the Imperial German Government, or its successor or successors, and of all German nationals, which was, on April 6, 1917, in or has since that date come into the possession or under control of, or has been the subject of a demand by the United States of America or of any of its officers, agents, or employees, from any source or by any agency whatsoever, and all property of the Imperial and Royal Austro-Hungarian Government, or its successor or successors, and of all Austro-Hungarian nationals which was on December 7, 1917, in or has since that date come into the possession or under control of, or has been the subject of a demand by the United States of America or any of its officers, agents, or employees, from any source or by any agency whatsoever, shall be retained by the United States of America and no disposition thereof made, except as shall have been heretofore or specifically hereafter shall be provided by law until such time as the Imperial German Government and the Imperial and Royal Austro-Hungarian Government, or their successor or successors, shall have, respectively, made suitable provision for the satisfaction of all claims against said Governments, respectively, of all persons, where-over domiciled, who owe permanent allegiance to the United States of America and who have suffered, through the acts of the Imperial German Government, or its agents, or the Imperial and Royal Austro-Hungarian Government, or its agents, since July 31, 1914, loss, damage, or injury to their persons or property, directly or indirectly, whether through the ownership of shares of stock in German, Austro-Hungarian, American, or other corporations, or in consequence of hostilities or of any operations of war or otherwise." * * *

Under an amendment to the trading with the enemy act approved March 4, 1923, the President was authorized to return an amount of property or money not to exceed in value the sum of $10,000 to individuals, partnerships, unincorporated associations, and corporations whose property was seized or demanded by the Alien Property Custodian during the existence of the war.

The President, by an Executive order dated May 16, 1923, has vested in the Alien Property Custodian all the power and authority conferred upon him by the said amendment pertaining to every claim in which the amount to be paid does not exceed in money or other property the value of $10,000

UNITED STATES TARIFF COMMISSION.

The commission was created by act of Congress approved September 8, 1916. It has authority to investigate the administration, operation, and effects of the customs laws and their relation to the Federal revenues.

The law directs that the commission shall put at the disposal of the President, the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives, and the Finance Committee of the Senate, whenever requested, all of the information at its command, and shall make such investigations and reports as may be requested by the President or either branch of Congress

The commission has power to investigate the tariff relations between the United States and foreign countries, commercial treaties, preferential provisions, economic alliances, the effect of export bounties and preferential transportation rates, the volume of importations compared with domestic production and consumption, and conditions, causes, and effects relating to competition of foreign industries with those of the United States, including dumping and cost of production.

Under the provisions of sections 315, 316, and 317 of Title III of the tariff act approved September 21, 1922, the commission is authorized to conduct investigations to assist the President to modify the rates of duties and the classifications fixed in the dutiable schedules of that act

Section 315 provides that the commission shall make, under such reasonable procedure, rules, and regulations as it may deem necessary, investigations to assist the President in ascertaining the differences in costs of production in the United States and in foreign countries of articles covered by the dutiable schedules of the tariff act. The findings of the commission as the results of such investigations shall be reported to the President, who is authorized, when he finds that such differences are not equalized by the rates of duties prescribed, to determine and proclaim such changes in classification, or increases or decreases of duties, within a limitation of 50 per cent thereof, as will effectuate such equalization. When the President shall find, however, that such proceeding will not equalize the said differences in costs of production, he is authorized to direct that ad valorem duties upon the articles covered by such findings shall be based upon the American selling price thereof as defined in section 402 of the act. Ascertainment of such differences in costs of production shall take into consideration differences in wages, costs of materials, and other items in costs, differences in wholesale selling prices of domestic and foreign articles in the principal American markets; advantages given foreign producers by foreign governments or others; and any other advantages or disadvantages in competition.

The commission is authorized under section 316 to investigate unfair methods of competition and unfair acts in the importation of articles into the United States, or in their sale after importation. When the findings and recommendations of the commission, upon its investigation of such acts, justify the President in doing so, he is authorized to determine and assess additional duties within prescribed limits upon articles covered by such findings or, in extreme cases, to exclude such articles from entry into the United States, such additional duties or refusal of entry to remain in effect until otherwise ordered by the President.

The testimony in every investigation under the provisions of this section is required to be reduced to writing, and with the findings of the commission constitutes the official record in each case. A copy of the findings is required to be sent to the importer or consignee of the articles affected thereby and shall be conclusive, subject only to rehearing by consent of the commission or to appeal on questions of law only to the United States Court of Customs Appeals or to review by the United States Supreme Court on certiorari.

Under the provisions of section 317 the commission is required to ascertain and at all times to be informed whether any foreign country discriminates against the commerce of the United States, whether by imposing upon it unreasonable charges or regulations not equally imposed upon other countries, or by laws, administrative regulations, or practices in regard to customs, port charges, classifications, or other like requirements which may be to the disadvantage of the commerce of the United States in such country or in any other foreign country. The commission is required to report to the President with its recommendations any such discriminations which it may find to exist, and upon such findings, when confirmed by him, the President is authorized to specify and declare upon articles wholly or in part the growth or product of any such country such new and additional duties as will offset such burdens, or he may exclude from importation articles from such country. Such new or additional duties are limited, however, to not to exceed 50 per cent ad valorem. Articles imported contrary to the provisions of this section are made subject to seizure and forfeiture to the United States.

Section 318 of the tariff act approved September 21, 1922, provides that, in addition to the duties previously imposed upon it by law, the commission shall ascertain conversion costs and costs of production of articles in the principal growing, producing, or manufacturing centers of the United States, whenever in the opinion of the commission it is practicable, and shall ascertain such costs in foreign countries whenever in the opinion of the commission such costs are necessary for comparison with the costs in the United States and can be reasonably ascertained.

The commission is also directed to describe and keep on file samples of imported articles and articles of the United States which are comparable, to ascertain the import costs of such foreign articles, and the selling prices in the United States of such articles of the United States, and to ascertain all other facts affecting competition between domestic and imported articles in the principal markets of the United States. This section authorizes the commission to establish and maintain an office at the port of New York for executing any of its functions, and authorizes the commission to adopt an official seal which shall be judicially noticed.

UNITED STATES EMPLOYEES' COMPENSATION COMMISSION.

(Created by the act of Congress approved September 7, 1916.)

The act of Congress creating the United States Employees' Compensation Commission assures compensation, including reasonable medical and hospital treatment, to all civil employees of the Federal Government who sustain personal injuries while in the discharge of their duties, but no compensation shall be paid if the injury is caused by the willful misconduct of the employee or by his intention to bring about the injury or death of himself or of another, or if intoxication of the injured employee is the proximate cause of the injury or death. To obtain the medical and hospital treatment, the employee shall be sent to the nearest United States medical officer or hospital, but if this is not practicable, to the nearest physician or hospital designated by the United States Employees' Compensation Commission, or when neither of these is available, to the nearest physician or hospital.

The monthly compensation for total disability shall not be more than $66.67, nor less than $33.33, unless the employee's monthly pay is less than the latter amount, in which case his compensation shall be the full amount of his monthly pay.

Payment shall be made for partial disability equal to 60 per cent of the difference between the employee's monthly pay and his wage-earning capacity after the disability.

In case of death the compensation shall be paid the widow or widower, to dependent children under the age of 18 years, to dependent parents or grandparents, and to other dependents under certain conditions. All claims for compensation must be filed within one year.

The first compensation law in America was the Federal act of 1908, by which compensation was paid certain employees in the more hazardous service.

By the organization of this commission, compensation functions of all other commissions and independent bureaus through which compensation was formerly paid to injured Government employees cease and determine.

By Executive orders the administration of the compensation act so far as it relates to the Panama Canal employees and employees of the Alaskan Engineering Commission has been placed under the heads of those organizations.

NATIONAL SCREW THREAD COMMISSION.

The National Screw Thread Commission was appointed in accordance with H. R. 10852, approved July 18, 1918. It is composed of nine members, two of whom are commissioned officers of the Army, appointed by the Secretary of War; two commissioned officers of the Navy, appointed by the Secretary of the Navy; and four appointed by the Secretary of Commerce, two of whom are chosen from nominations made by the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, and two from nominations made by the Society of Automotive Engineers. The Director of the Bureau of Standards is ex-officio chairman of the commission. The duties of the commission as set forth in the act by which it was authorized are to ascertain and establish standards for screw threads which shall be submitted to the Secretary of War, the Secretary of the Navy, and the Secretary of Commerce for their acceptance and approval. Such standards, when thus accepted and approved, shall be adopted and used in the several manufacturing plants under the control of the War and Navy Departments, and, so far as practicable, in all specifications for screw threads in proposals for manufactured articles, parts, or materials to be used under the direction of these departments. The commission has made an extensive study of the production and use of screw threads in the United States and has established standards and tolerances for various classes of this product. A report was issued under date of January 4, 1921, setting forth the standards agreed upon by the commission up to that date. Since the issuance of the original report, other closely allied problems have been taken up and a revised report is now in preparation. The life of the commission has been three times extended, and the present date of the termination of the life of the commission is March 21, 1927.

UNITED STATES VETERANS' BUREAU.

The United States Veterans' Bureau was created by an act of Congress approved August 9, 1921, by which act the bureau was established as an independent bureau under the President. The Bureau of War Risk Insurance was abolished by said act and the powers and duties pertaining to the Director of the War Risk Insurance under the Treasury Department were transferred to the Veterans' Bureau, together with the functions, powers, and duties conferred upon the Federal Board for Vocational Education by the act of June 27, 1918, known as the vocational rehabilitation act, and all personnel, properties, etc., of the United States Public Health Service as prescribed and provided in a written order of the Secretary of the Treasury on April 19, 1921, designated "Order relative to the transfer of certain activities of the United States Public Health Service, relating to the Bureau of War Risk Insurance, including the trainees of the Rehabilitation Division of the Federal Board for Vocational Education." Effective May 1, 1922, those hospitals of the United States Public Health Service having to do with the care of ex-service men, together with their personnel, were transferred to the Veterans' Bureau and are now known as United States veterans' hospitals.

The Bureau of War Risk Insurance was created by act of Congress approved September 2, 1914, to insure American vessels and their cargoes against the risks of war. By an act approved June 12, 1917, Congress added the duty of insuring the lives of masters and crews of American vessels. On October 6, 1917, the most important provisions of the war-risk act were added. These provided for payment of allotments and allowances to the dependent families of members of the military forces of the United States, payment of compensation for death or disability, and the writing of term policies of insurance by the Federal Government against death or total disability. Several amendments to the act have been made since, notably the amendments approved December 24, 1919, which provided for an optional payment in lump sum of the converted forms of insurance and substantial increases in the amount of compensation payable on account of death or disability, and the amendments of August 9, 1921, which extended the time limit for reinstatement of lapsed insurance by disabled ex-service men and provided hospital and other medical treatment for all disabled members of the military and naval forces in addition to care previously authorized, and transferred the duty of furnishing vocational training to the disabled members of the military and naval forces from the Federal Board for Vocational Education to the United States Veterans' Bureau.

FEDERAL BOARD FOR VOCATIONAL EDUCATION.

The Federal Board for Vocational Education was created by act of Congress approved February 23, 1917. This act makes appropriations to be used in cooperation with the States in the promotion of vocational education. For the fiscal year 1917-18 the amount appropriated was $1,860,000, but the appropriation increases each year until in 1925-26 it reaches $7,367,000, which sum is provided annually thereafter. The money appropriated is to be given to various States for the purpose of stimulating vocational education in agriculture and the trades and industries and in the preparation of teachers of vocational subjects. Its allotment is upon condition that for each dollar of Federal money expended the State or local community, or both, in which schools are established shall expend an equal amount for the same purpose.

The duties imposed upon the board are of a twofold character. First, it is the representative of the Government appointed to cooperate with boards appointed by the States in promoting vocational education; and, second, it is required to make, or cause to have made, reports on vocational subjects. As representative of the Government it examines the plans submitted by the various State boards containing the scheme of vocational education to be conducted by the States, and approves the same if found to be in conformity with the provisions and purposes of the act. It ascertains annually whether the several States are using or prepared to use the money received by them in accordance with the provisions of the statute and each year it certifies to the Secretary of the Treasury the States which have complied with the provisions of the act, together with the amount which each State is entitled to receive. In the preparation of reports it is charged with the duty of making studies and investigations relating to the establishment of vocational schools or classes and the courses and studies to be taught therein. It is also required to make studies, investigations, and reports upon agriculture and agricultural processes and requirements upon agricultural workers; trades, industries, and apprenticeships; trade and industrial requirements upon industrial workers and classification of industrial processes and pursuits; commerce and commercial pursuits and requirements upon commercial workers, home management, domestic science, and related facts and principles; and problems of administration of vocational schools and of courses of study and instruction in vocational subjects.

By the passage of the Federal vocational rehabilitation act, approved June 27, 1918, and the amendment thereto of July 11, 1919, the board was charged with the duty of furnishing vocational rehabilitation to every member of the military or naval forces of the United States discharged with a disability incurred, increased, or aggravated while a member of such forces or traceable to service therein, needing vocational rehabilitation to overcome the handicap of such disability. In furnishing training under the act no limitations were imposed by the board with respect to the courses to be pursued, and all careers were opened to the disabled men, much of it being given directly in the trades and industries. The board carried out this work of training the disabled soldiers, sailors, and marines and placing them in employment in their particular line of endeavor until the passage of the bill on August 9, 1921, creating the Veterans' Bureau, which consolidated all the agencies dealing with the disabled soldiers, sailors, and marines.

The civilian vocational rehabilitation act was approved on June 2, 1920. By this act the Federal Government agrees to cooperate with the States in rehabilitating and restoring to remunerative occupations any persons disabled in industry or otherwise, and names the Federal Board for Vocational Education as the administrative agency. The duties imposed upon the Federal board include the making of such rules and regulations as may be appropriate to carry out the purposes of the act, the provisions, through cooperation with the States, for vocational rehabilitation for disabled persons, the examination of State plans and their approval, if in conformity with the provisions of the act, the cooperation with such public and private agencies as may be deemed advisable for this purpose. The Federal board must ascertain annually whether the States are properly using Federal funds and must certify, on or before the 1st day of January of each year, to the Secretary of the Treasury those States which have accepted and complied with the provisions of the law, naming the amount of money which each State is entitled to receive. The Federal board is authorized to make such studies and investigations of the vocational rehabilitation of disabled persons and their placement in suitable or gainful occupations as are needed to carry out the intention of the act.

BOARD OF ROAD COMMISSIONERS FOR ALASKA.

The Board of Road Commissioners for Alaska was created by the act of Congress approved January 27, 1905 (sec. 2), amended by the act approved May 14, 1906. Funds for the work are derived from a tax fund collected in Alaska and from special appropriations made by Congress through military committees. The work of the board is carried on under the direction of the Secretary of War and the Chief of Engineers. The War Department has fixed the organization of the board as follows:

The senior officer on duty, to be designated as the president, shall have general charge of the operations of the board, and shall approve and certify, on behalf of the board, all vouchers and expenditures.

The engineer officer shall supervise the work of construction in the field, as provided in the act of Congress creating the board.

The third officer shall, upon designation by the Secretary of War, as provided in the law as amended, act as disbursing officer of the board.

The board is charged by law with the construction, repair, and maintenance of roads, tramways, ferries, bridges, and trails in the Territory of Alaska.

Under the act of June 30, 1921, the Secretary of War is authorized to receive from the Territory of Alaska or other source funds contributed for the construction, repair, and maintenance of roads, bridges, trails, and related works, said funds to be deposited in the United States Treasury and expended by the Board of Road Commissioners in accordance with the purpose for which they were contributed.

COMMISSION ON NAVY YARDS AND NAVAL STATIONS.

Appointed by direction of the President to carry out provisions of the act of Congress, approved August 29, 1916, relative to the establishment of navy yards, naval stations, and submarine and aviation bases.

NATIONAL ADVISORY COMMITTEE FOR AERONAUTICS.

The National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics was appointed by the President, pursuant to act of Congress approved March 3, 1915 (naval appropriations act, public No. 273, Sixty-third Congress). Its membership consists of two officers of the Army, two officers of the Navy, a representative each of the Smithsonian Institution, the United States Weather Bureau, and the United States Bureau of Standards, together with five additional persons acquainted with the needs of aeronautical science, or skilled in aeronautical engineering or its allied sciences. All the members, as such, serve without compensation.

The duties of the committee, as provided by Congress, are to supervise and direct the scientific study of the problems of flight, with a view to their practical solution, and to determine the problems which should be experimentally attacked, and to discuss their solution and their application to practical questions; also to direct and conduct research and experiment in aeronautics in such laboratories as may in whole or in part be placed under the direction of the committee.

Under the rules and regulations formulated by the committee and approved by the President, technical subcommittees have been established whose general duties are to aid in determining the problems in their respective branches of the aeronautical field to be scientifically attacked, bringing to bear the knowledge derived from experimental investigations conducted in all parts of the world, and to endeavor to coordinate the research and experimental work involved in the study of the problems agreed upon. These subcommittees are composed in part of specially appointed representatives of the Army and Navy Air Services.

By virtue of the character of its membership, including as it does the heads of the Army and Navy Air Services, the committee also serves in an advisory capacity for the determination of questions of general policy in aeronautical matters.

In addition to the functions specifically defined for the various subcommittees the general functions of the advisory committee may be stated as follows:

First. Under the law the committee holds itself at the service of any department or agency of the Government interested in aeronautics for the furnishing of information or assistance in regard to scientific or technical matters relating to aeronautics, and in particular for the investigation and study of problems in this field with a view to their practical solution.

Second. The committee may also exercise its functions for any individual, firm, association, or corporation within the United States, provided that such individual, firm, association, or corporation defray the actual cost involved.

Third. The committee institutes research, investigation, and study of the problems which, in the judgment of its members or of the members of its various subcommittees, are needful and timely for the advance of the science and art of aeronautics in its various branches.

Fourth. The committee keeps itself advised of the progress made in research and experimental work in aeronautics in all parts of the world, particularly in England, France, Italy, Germany, Holland, and Belgium.

Fifth. The information thus gathered is brought to the attention of the various subcommittees for consideration in connection with the preparation of programs for research and experimental work in this country. This information is also made available promptly to the military and naval air services and other branches of the Government, university laboratories, and aircraft manufacturers interested in the study of specific problems.

Sixth. The committee holds itself at the service of the President, the Congress, and the executive departments of the Government for the consideration of any special problem which may be referred to it. It has in this way made special reports and recommendations regarding the Air Mail Service, the development of a system of transcontinental airways and landing fields, the extension of aerological and weather report service, the Federal regulation of air navigation, and the development of aviation generally for military and civil purposes.

The committee has established an office of aeronautical intelligence, which serves as the depository and distributing agency of the scientific and technical data on aeronautics collected by the committee from governmental and private agencies in this country and abroad, and maintains an office in Paris to collect and exchange scientific and technical data on aeronautics in France, England, Italy, Germany, Holland, and Belgium.

The committee directly conducts scientific research and experiment in aeronautics at the Langley Memorial Aeronautical Laboratory, at Langley Field, Va., a section of the field having been set aside by the War Department for the committee's use.

THE INTERNATIONAL JOINT COMMISSION.

The International Joint Commission was created by the treaty between the United States and Great Britain signed January 11, 1909, the object of which is "to prevent disputes regarding the use of boundary waters and to settle all questions which are now pending between the United States and the Dominion of Canada involving the rights, obligations, or interests of either in relation to the other or to the inhabitants of the other, along their common frontier, and to make provision for the adjustment and settlement of all such questions as may hereafter arise."

The commission consists of six members, three appointed by the President of the United States and three appointed by His Majesty on recommendation of the Government of Canada. It was organized in 1911, adopted rules of procedure, and established permanent offices in Washington and Ottawa. It has jurisdiction over all cases involving the use or obstruction or diversion of boundary waters between the United States and Canada, of waters flowing from boundary waters, and of waters at a lower level than the boundary in rivers flowing across the boundary.

Under Article IX of the treaty the International Joint Commission also is constituted an investigatory body, for the purpose of examining into and reporting upon any questions or matters of difference arising along the common frontier that shall be referred to it from time to time by either the Government of the United States or the Government of Canada.

Under Article X of the treaty any questions or matters of difference arising between the high contracting parties involving the rights, obligations, or interests of the United States or of the Dominion of Canada, either in relation to each other or to their respective inhabitants, may be referred for decision to the International Joint Commission, it being understood that on the part of the United States such action will be by and with the advice and consent of the Senate and on the part of Great Britain with the consent of the Government of Canada.

Under Article VI of the treaty the commission is charged with the measurement and apportionment from time to time of the waters of the St. Mary and Milk Rivers and their tributaries, these rivers lying partly in Montana and partly in Alberta and Saskatchewan and being largely used for irrigation purposes in both countries.

INTERNATIONAL BOUNDARY COMMISSION, UNITED STATES AND CANADA.

For defining and marking boundary between United States, Alaska, and Canada, except on Great Lakes and St. Lawrence River.

This commission was authorized by conventions or treaties between the United States and Great Britain, as follows:

1. Southeastern Alaska, or the boundary between Alaska and British Columbia. Length 893 miles.

Article VI of the convention between the United States and Great Britain, providing for the settlement of questions between the two countries with respect to the boundary line between the Territory of Alaska and the British possessions in North America, signed at Washington January 24, 1903, stipulated that when the high contracting parties shall have received the decision of the tribunal upon the questions submitted as provided in the foregoing articles, which decision shall be final and binding upon all parties, they will at once appoint, each on its own behalf, one or more scientific experts, who shall with all convenient speed proceed to lay down the boundary line in conformity with such decision.

2. The boundary between Alaska and Canada along the one hundred and forty-first meridian. Length, 647 miles.

The convention between the United States and Great Britain providing for the surveying and marking out upon the ground of the one hundred and forty-first degree of west longitude where said meridian forms the boundary line between Alaska and the British possessions in North America, signed at Washington April 21, 1906, stipulated that each Government shall appoint one commissioner, with whom may be associated such surveyors, astronomers, and other assistants as each Government may elect, who shall locate the boundary line, erect the necessary boundary marks, make the necessary surveys, and file duplicate records with their respective Governments.

3. The United States and Canada boundary from the Atlantic to the Pacific Ocean, with the exception of the St. Lawrence River and Great Lakes. Length 2,685 miles.

Articles I, II, III, V, VI, VII, and VIII of the treaty between the United States and Great Britain, entitled "Canadian International Boundary," signed at Washington April 11, 1908, stipulated that each of the high contracting parties shall appoint without delay an expert geographer or surveyor as commissioner, and the commissioners so appointed shall jointly execute the necessary surveys, repair existing boundary marks, erect additional boundary marks, and lay down the boundary line in accordance with the existing treaties upon quadruplicate sets of accurate modern charts, prepared or adopted by them for that purpose, and that said charts so marked shall be filed with each Government, and said commissioners shall also prepare, in duplicate, and file with each Government a joint report or reports, describing in detail the course of the boundary so marked by them, and the character and location of the several monuments and boundary marks and ranges marking it.

INTERNATIONAL BOUNDARY COMMISSION, UNITED STATES AND MEXICO.

The International Boundary Commission, United States and Mexico, was created to carry out the provisions of conventions or treaties of 1848, 1853, 1882, 1884, 1889, and 1905 between United States and Mexico. The commission has exclusive jurisdiction of all differences or questions that may arise on boundary between United States and Mexico from Gulf of Mexico to Pacific Ocean, approximately 2,000 miles, consisting of some 1,300 miles along the Rio Grande and 25 miles along Colorado River. Also 680 miles overland boundary between El Paso, Tex., and Pacific Ocean. The commission is empowered to suspend the construction of works of any character along the Rio Grande and Colorado Rivers that contravene with existing treaties; erect and maintain monuments along boundary, make necessary surveys of changes brought by force of current in both rivers caused by either avulsion, accretion, or erosion; mark and eliminate bancos caused by such changes; supervise maintenance of gauging stations along both rivers and their tributaries for proper measurement of the water flow; survey, place and maintain monuments on all international bridges between the two countries. The commission is authorized to call for papers of information relative to boundary matters from either country; hold meetings at any point questions may arise, summon witnesses and take testimony in accordance with rules of the courts of the respective countries. If both commissioners shall agree to a decision their judgment shall be binding on both Governments, unless one of them shall disapprove it within one month from the date it shall have been pronounced.

BOARD OF SURVEYS AND MAPS OF THE FEDERAL GOVERNMENT.

The Board of Surveys and Maps of the Federal Government was created by Executive order of December 30, 1919, for the purpose of making recommendations to the several departments or to the President for coordinating all map making and surveying activities of the Government and to settle all questions at issue between executive departments relating to surveys and maps in so far as their decisions do not conflict with existing laws. Meetings are held at stated intervals, to which representatives of the map-using public are invited for conference and advice. A central information office has been established in the United States Geological Survey for collecting, classifying, and furnishing information concerning all map and survey data available in the several Government departments and from other sources.

THE UNITED STATES SECTION OF THE INTER AMERICAN HIGH COMMISSION.

The United States section of the Inter American High Commission received legal recognition in an act approved February 7, 1916. It consists of the eight representatives of the United States on the commission. There are corresponding sections in the Republics of Central and South America and the West Indies. The commission was organized on the recommendation of the First Pan American Financial Conference held in Washington, May 24-29, 1915. It aims to bring about substantial uniformity in the commercial law and administrative regulations of the American Republics and more stable financial relations between Latin America and the United States, and, in general, to carry out the recommendations of the First and Second Pan American Financial Conferences, and cooperate in the formulation and effectuation of the program of the international conferences of American States in so far as it bears directly on the purposes and work of the commission. The Second Financial Conference took place in Washington January 19-24, 1920. The commission's work is directed by a central executive council, which is composed of the chairman, vice chairman, and secretary of the section which represents the country selected as headquarters of the commission for the interval between any two meetings. The meeting held at Buenos Aires April 3-12, 1916, selected Washington as headquarters until the second meeting of the entire commission would take place. The officers of the United States section, therefore, now constitute the executive council.

FEDERAL POWER COMMISSION.

The act of Congress approved June 10, 1920 (41 Stat., 1063), entitled "The Federal Water Power Act," created the Federal Power Commission, to be composed of the Secretary of War, the Secretary of the Interior, and the Secretary of Agriculture. The operations of the commission are conducted under the supervision of an executive secretary, assisted by an engineer officer detailed from the United States Engineer Corps and by other individuals assigned to the work of the commission by the Departments of War, Interior, and Agriculture.

The commission has general administrative control over all power sites on the navigable waters and on the public lands and reservations of the United States, and over the location, design, construction, maintenance, and operation of power projects upon such sites, an investigation being required in the case of every application to determine whether the project proposed is best adapted to a comprehensive scheme of development of the water resources of the region, not only for power development, but also for such related uses as irrigation, navigation, flood control, and water supply. The act requires that there shall be sufficient inspection and supervision of project works to assure their adequate maintenance and efficient operation, and that the commission shall ascertain the amounts necessary to be set aside to cover depreciation and to make necessary renewals and replacements. The act requires the establishment by the commission of a system of public-utility accounting, to be made applicable to all licensees, with provisions for determining and reporting cost of projects, for creation and disposition of depreciation and amortization reserves, for allocation of earnings to project and other property, and for all the other items which enter into modern utility accounting practice. The commission is charged with the duty of regulating rates, service, and securities in intrastate business wherever the several States have not provided agencies for undertaking such duties themselves and in interstate business whenever the individual States have not the power to act or can not agree.

The commission is required to classify some 2,500,000 acres of public land within power reserves; to determine the value of power available at Government dams, and the advisability of its development for public purposes, and to fix annual rental charges for reimbursing the costs of administration and for recompensing the United States for the use of its lands and other property.

In cases where a licensee makes use of a headwater improvement, the commission determines the proper share of the annual costs to be paid by the licensee benefited, and when any project already constructed is brought under license, the commission determines its fair value.

The commission is authorized to conduct general investigations of power resources and of their relation to interstate and foreign commerce, cooperating with State and National Governments in its investigations, and to publish the results of its work in special and annual reports, and it is required to make certain special investigations and report thereon to Congress.

UNITED STATES GEOGRAPHIC BOARD.

By Executive order of August 10, 1906, the official title of the United States Board on Geographic Names was changed to United States Geographic Board. That part of order enlarging duties, rescinded by Executive order, December 30, 1919.

The board passes on all unsettled questions concerning geographic names which arise in the departments, as well as determines, changes, and fixes place names within the United States and its insular possessions, and all names suggested by any officer of the Government shall be referred to the board before publication. The decisions of the board are to be accepted by all the departments of the Government as standard authority.

THE COMMISSION OF FINE ARTS.

By act approved May 17, 1910, Congress created as a permanent body the national Commission of Fine Arts. The commission is "composed of seven well-qualified judges of the fine arts," who are appointed by the President and serve for a period of four years each, and until their successors are appointed and qualified.

Under the provisions of this organic act Congress directs that "It shall be the duty of the commission to advise upon the location of statues, fountains, and monuments in the public squares, streets, and parks in the District of Columbia, and upon the selection of models for statues, fountains, and monuments erected under the authority of the United States and upon the selection of the artists for the execution of same. It shall be the duty of the officer charged by law to determine such questions in each case to call for such advice. The foregoing provisions of this act shall not apply to the Capitol Building of the United States and the building of the Library of Congress. The commission shall also advise generally upon questions of art when required to do so by the President or by any committee of either House of Congress."

By Executive order dated October 25, 1910, the President directed that "Plans for no public building to be erected in the District of Columbia for the General Government shall be hereafter finally approved by the officer duly authorized until after such officer shall have submitted the plans to the Commission of Fine Arts created under the act of Congress of May 17, 1910, for its comment and advice."

On February 2, 1912, the President directed the commission to advise the officer in charge of public buildings and grounds in regard to the improvement of any of the grounds in the city of Washington under his charge whenever such advice is asked for by that officer. That officer now uniformly consults the commission regarding details of the development of all the parks and reservations under his control.

On November 28, 1913, the President issued the following Executive order: "It is hereby ordered that whenever new structures are to be erected in the District of Columbia under the direction of the Federal Government which affect in any important way the appearance of the city, or whenever questions involving matters of art and with which the Federal Government is concerned are to be determined, final action shall not be taken until such plans and questions have been submitted to the Commission of Fine Arts designated under the act of Congress of May 17, 1910, for comment and advice."

On July 28, 1921, the President issued the following Executive order: "It is hereby ordered that essential matters relating to the design of medals, insignia, and coins produced by the executive departments, also the design of statues, fountains, and monuments, and all important plans for parks and all public buildings, constructed by the executive departments or the District of Columbia, which in any essential way affect the appearance of the city of Washington, or the District of Columbia, shall be submitted to the Commission of Fine Arts for advice as to the merits of such designs before the executive officer having charge of the same shall approve thereof."

In order that the development of the District of Columbia may proceed harmoniously both under Federal and District jurisdictions, the President has requested the Board of Commissioners of the District of Columbia to consult the Commission of Fine Arts on matters of art falling under their jurisdiction and control.

The duties of the commission, therefore, now embrace advising upon the location of statues, fountains, and monuments in the public squares, streets, and parks in the District of Columbia; upon the selection of models for statues, fountains, and monuments erected under the authority of the United States, and the selection of the artists for their execution; also for medals, insignia, and coins; upon the plans and designs for public structures and parks in the District of Columbia, as well as upon all questions involving matters of art with which the Federal Government is concerned. In addition, the commission advises upon general questions of art whenever requested to do so by the President or any committee of Congress.

Congress has stipulated in many recent enactments that the plans for certain designated buildings, monuments, etc., must be approved by the commission before they can be accepted by the Government.

SUPERINTENDENT OF THE STATE, WAR, AND NAVY DEPARTMENT BUILDINGS.

The office of the Superintendent of the State, War, and Navy Department Buildings is an independent establishment created by Congress for the maintenance, operation, and protection of the State, War, and Navy Building and various other buildings later placed under its charge. It operates independently of the State, War, or Navy Department, under a commission composed of the Secretary of State, Secretary of War, and Secretary of the Navy. The superintendent has charge of the maintenance and operation of the buildings under his custody, including the care of the grounds, heating, lighting, repairing, altering and cleaning the buildings, and the forces provided therefor. He also is responsible for the safety of the buildings and the personnel housed therein and has charge of the guarding and fire-fighting force authorized by Congress.

FEDERAL COORDINATING AGENCIES.

(Under supervision of the Chief Coordinator*)

FEDERAL PURCHASING BOARD.

Composed of one representative from each department and independent establishment having authority to purchase supplies. Created by Executive order promulgated in Bureau of the Budget Circular No. 25 of August 25, 1921, to enable the Chief Coordinator to perform the duties of coordinating purchases throughout the several departments and establishments. It formulates policies and plans to unite purchasing activities of the several departments and establishments and to bring about business methods calculated effectively to safeguard the interests of the Government, and at the same time promote the confidence of private business interests having dealings with the Government. The board studies purchase operations with a view to determining the advisability of centralizing purchases within departments, coordination among departments, utilization of surplus, and economies to be effected by combined purchases. Detailed studies are made of the requirements of the Government as a whole, both as to quantities and qualities, available sources, localities, seasons of supply, means of transportation and storage, and kindred conditions involving purchase.

FEDERAL LIQUIDATION BOARD.

Composed of one representative from each department and establishment having sales activities. Created by Executive order promulgated in Bureau of the Budget Circular No. 26 of August 25, 1921, in order to enable the Chief Coordinator to perform the duties of coordinating sales throughout the several departments and establishments. Is a coordinating and not an operating agency. It views the problems of liquidation of surplus war supplies from the standpoint of the Government as a whole, and exercises such general supervision over departmental sales operations as is necessary for the purpose of coordination and safeguarding the Government's interests. The underlying policy of the board is to decrease to a minimum by utilization of surplus stocks, the withdrawal of funds from the Treasury for procurement of supplies, and at the same time increase to a maximum the revenues accruing from the sales of surplus materials.

COORDINATION OF MOTOR TRANSPORT, DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

Office created by Executive order promulgated in Bureau of the Budget Circular No. 35 of September 23, 1921, to coordinate in the interest of efficiency and economy the use of motor transportation operated under the executive departments and independent establishments of the Federal Government. Investigates the proper housing and grouping of the vehicles of each department; arranges for economical repairs by Government activities; limits the number of assigned vehicles and provides for the operation of all in pools; links all pools of vehicles in the District of Columbia into a single pool for the purpose of economical operation. Prevents the hire of passenger cars and trucks and additional garage space when the required service can be furnished by other Government agencies. Prescribes uniform system of cost accounting throughout the Government motor transport services in the District of Columbia.

FEDERAL TRAFFIC BOARD.

Formed by Bureau of the Budget Circular No. 41 of October 10, 1921, for the purpose of effecting economies and better business administration throughout the Government service in the handling of passenger and freight shipments by express and parcel post, and for the utilization in a more practical way of the various carrying facilities available, both rail and water. Study of present methods in connection with settlement of transportation accounts, study of traffic problems confronting the Government departments and establishments, establishment of uniform classifications on all Government items and reclassification of items erroneously classified, handling of all questions pertaining to terminal, switching, port, lighterage charges, and general rate adjustments. The board is designed to prevent the overlapping of service and duplication of effort in the conduct of the traffic business of the Government.

FEDERAL SPECIFICATIONS BOARD

Composed of representatives from each department and independent establishment purchasing materials or services in accordance with specifications prepared in such department. Created by Executive order promulgated in Bureau of the Budget Circular No. 42 of October 10, 1921, for purposes of coordination and economy in the procurement of material and services used by the Government under specifications prepared in the various branches thereof. Compiles and adopts standard specifications for materials and services and brings specifications into harmony with the best commercial practice wherever the conditions permit. Standardizes nomenclature and dimensions to insure ready interchangeability of supplies and interworking parts made by different manufacturers, and limits the number of types, sizes, and grades of manufactured products used by the Government.

INTERDEPARTMENTAL BOARD OF CONTRACTS AND ADJUSTMENTS.

Composed of representatives from each department and independent establishment authorized by law to enter into important contracts. Created by Executive order promulgated in Bureau of the Budget Circular No. 47 of November 22, 1921, for the purpose of standardizing contract forms, securing the adoption of uniform policies as regards construction work and uniform practices of interpretation and negotiation both preceding and following the actual execution of such contracts. Standardizes where possible the forms and methods of contract letting to the end that a uniform policy may control the making of contracts, with a view to such changes in form of contracts as will tend to enlist the interest of the contractor in behalf of economy and promptness of execution, as well as to eliminate those uncertainties of construction and hazards to be assumed by the contractor which have operated to increase the cost of Government work and supplies; recommends general policies in the settlement of outstanding obligations arising from contracts of the United States; acts in an advisory capacity, when requested, to review and revise important contracts and agreements, to advise as to proper interpretation of contracts in process of execution, and to assist in the negotiation of important contracts and agreements relating to personal services, supplies, or construction work.

FEDERAL REAL ESTATE BOARD.

Composed of one representative from each executive department or independent establishment owning, occupying, or controlling real estate or interest therein for or in behalf of the United States. Created by Executive order promulgated in Bureau of the Budget Circular No. 54 of February 18, 1922, to insure the adoption of uniform methods of procedure and for better utilization of existing Government owned or controlled real estate. Supervises and coordinates all activities, except in the District of Columbia, connected with real estate or interests therein, the procurement thereof, whether for temporary or permanent use, by lease, donation, gift, or purchase, the occupancy thereof by an executive department or independent establishment of the United States Government, and the disposal thereof, under authority of Congress, by lease, license, permit to use, sell, or otherwise; standardizes the maintenance of all files and records, of grants, deeds, leases, and other instruments pertaining to real estate under the control of or in use by particular departments and the maintenance of a proper indexing system thereof.

PERMANENT CONFERENCE ON PRINTING.

Composed of one representative from each executive department and independent establishment. Organized under Executive order promulgated in Bureau of the Budget Circular No. 14 of July 22, 1921, to investigate and propose uniform standards, businesslike methods, and proper economies in public printing and binding and the distribution of publications. Recommends reductions in the amount of Government printing and binding through the elimination of unnecessary reports, bulletins, publications, etc. Standardizes and changes specifications where necessary to reduce the cost of printing, scrutinizes requisitions from the various departments with a view to reducing the cost of work without impairing its usefulness. Investigates preparation of copy for printer, cost of author's corrections; standardization of paper in relation to grades, sizes, weights, and colors; illustrations and printing in color; standard size form and binding of publication, discontinuance of periodicals and annual reports; blank and loose-leaf forms and letterheads, rush work; duplications of departmental printing; distribution of public documents, mimeographing and multigraphing.

INTERDEPARTMENTAL BOARD ON SIMPLIFIED OFFICE PROCEDURE.

Composed of one representative from each department and independent establishment. Created by Executive order promulgated in Bureau of the Budget Circular No. 137, dated May 16, 1924, with a view to promoting economy and efficiency in routine office procedure in departments and establishments through simplicity and uniformity of practice as to matters not already allocated elsewhere by law or Executive order. The board standardizes forms, other than General Accounting Office forms, used in the executive departments and establishments, where such forms lend themselves to standardization; investigates matters relating to methods of conducting correspondence, use of forms, methods of filing, and allied questions.

FEDERAL NARCOTICS CONTROL BOARD.

REGULATIONS.¹

Pursuant to the provisions of the narcotic drugs import and export act, approved May 26, 1922, published in Treasury Decision 39154 of June 12, 1922, the Federal Narcotics Control Board hereby prescribes the following regulations:

(1) Definitions—(a) The term "crude opium" shall be understood to mean the spontaneously coagulated sap obtained from the soporific poppy (Papaver somniferum and related species), and which may or may not have been subjected to further drying or other treatment, thus covering all forms of opium known to the trade, such as gum opium, granulated opium, powdered opium, and deodorized (denarcotized) opium, except "smoking opium" or "opium prepared for smoking."

(b) By coca leaves shall be understood the leaves of Erythroxylon coca, known commercially as Huanuco coca, or the leaves of Erythroxylon truxillense, known commercially as Truxillo coca, or the leaves of any other species of Erythroxylon yielding cocaine.

(c) The term "cocaine" shall be understood to cover all forms of cocaine or its salts known to the trade.

(d) The term "derivative" shall be understood to mean any alkaloid, or salt or an alkaloid, or combination thereof, or any chemical compound prepared either directly or indirectly from the alkaloids of opium or from cocaine. It shall include morphine, codeine, ethylmorphine hydrochloride (known as diopin), or diacetylmorphine hydrochloride (known as heroin), their salts or combinations and any new derivative of morphine or cocaine, or of any salts of morphine or cocaine, or any other alkaloid of opium.

(e) The term "preparation" shall mean any product, mixture, or compound containing or representing any quantity of opium or coca leaves or any derivative thereof.

IMPORTS

(2) Ports designated for imports.—Crude opium and coca leaves (which are the only "narcotic drugs" as defined in the act that are admissible) may be imported only at the ports of Detroit, Mich., Indianapolis, Ind., New York, N. Y., Philadelphia, Pa., St. Louis, Mo., and San Francisco, Calif.

(3) Who may import.—Crude opium and coca leaves may be entered only by manufacturers actually engaged in manufacturing from such crude opium or coca leaves products for the wholesale trade for medical or other legitimate uses.

(4) Applications required.—Applications in triplicate for permission to import crude opium or coca leaves shall be made under oath on an approved form, stating all material facts, and addressed to the collector of customs at the proposed port of importation, who, after careful consideration thereof and any investigation deemed necessary, shall forward the application with his recommendation to the Federal Narcotics Control Board, Treasury Department, Washington, D. C. Such application must state the amount of the stock on hand, the usual requirements for the ensuing six months, and the necessity for the proposed importation.

Upon request the collector of customs may furnish to the applicant a certified copy of the approved application for use under the laws or regulations of the exporting country.

(5) Procedure on arrival and delivery from the appraiser's warehouse.—Immediately upon the unloading of crude opium from the importing vessel the customs officer shall carefully examine the packages, note their condition, seal the packages, and cause them to be transported under customs guard and by bonded cartmen to the appraiser's warehouse, where they shall be placed in a separate and specially protected inclosure.

The appraiser shall issue such special regulations to his employees as will insure the safe-keeping of the packages while in the warehouse.

No delivery of crude opium to the importer from the appraiser's warehouse shall be permitted until the deputy collector of customs in charge of the building and an assistant appraiser shall be satisfied and so note on the delivery permit, after personal examination, that the importer has taken all proper precautions for the safe transportation of the crude opium from the appraiser's warehouse to the importer's premises, or to the premises of the common carrier if shipment is to be made.

Until otherwise ordered, however, the procedure now followed in the case of shipments of crude opium in bond between the ports designated in regulation 2 for imports will not be disturbed.

¹ These regulations will be amended in January, 1925; inquire of the Federal Narcotics Control Board for revised regulations.

Except as specially provided in these regulations, the procedure in the case of coca leaves shall be the same as in the case of merchandise generally.

(6) Entries.—Crude opium may be entered only for consumption or for transportation in bond between the ports designated in regulation 2 for imports. Entry of either crude opium or coca leaves shall not be permitted unless the application to import has been approved by the Federal Narcotics Control Board, nor unless the merchandise has been properly described in the manifest of the importing vessel or carrier.

Coca leaves, however, may be entered, either for consumption or warehouse, or for transportation in bond to any of the ports designated in regulation 2.

(7) Importations of unusual amounts.—No amount of crude opium or coca leaves which may be imported within any certain period as necessary to provide for medical and legitimate uses only will be fixed by the board at present, but special explanation of importations of unusual amounts of such articles, either in single shipments or in the aggregate, will be required and carefully investigated by the board.

(8) Reports of stocks on hand and probable future requirements.—Importers shall render to the board, as soon as practicable after December 31 of each year, or oftener if specially required, a report of the stocks of narcotic drugs on hand and an estimate of the probable requirements for medical and legitimate uses for the next year or any other period that may hereafter be specially designated.

EXPORTS.

(9) No exportation without previous approval.—No person shall take out of the United States on his person or in his baggage or offer to any carrier for transportation out of the United States, nor shall any carrier receive for exportation or export out of the United States, any narcotic drug unless and until an application for permission to export shall have been approved by the Federal Narcotics Control Board.

(10) Applications.—Applications in triplicate for permission to export narcotic drugs shall be made under oath on an approved form, stating all the material facts, and addressed to the nearest collector of customs sufficiently early to permit of orderly procedure and any necessary investigation. With this application, the shippers' export declaration in due form shall also be submitted, together with any import license (and a translation thereof if in a foreign language) or a certified copy of any such license, that may have been issued by the country of destination, or other evidence that the merchandise is consigned to an authorized permittee.

Verification by an American consular officer of signatures on foreign import licenses will not be necessary if such licenses bear the official seal of the officer signing them.

After careful consideration of such application, and after any investigation deemed necessary, the collector shall forward the application to the board with his recommendation.

(11) Labeling of packages.—In lieu of the marking on the outside of the packages required in the previous regulations (T. D. 38381), the inner packages shall be labeled in a legible and conspicuous manner to show the narcotic character of the contents.

(12) Opening and inspection of packages.—The collector of customs may require packages offered for export to be opened and may inspect the contents thereof.

IN-TRANSIT SHIPMENTS

(13) In-transit shipments transferred in the United States or remaining on board the transporting vessel.—Each in-transit shipment under section 2 (subsection 5) of the act, will be considered by the board on its individual merits, but in general the regulations governing exports will be applied so far as practicable, except that the collector of customs may permit narcotic drugs, other than smoking opium or opium prepared for smoking, to be retained on board a vessel arriving from a foreign port which are shown on the manifest to be destined to another foreign port.

Articles in transit manifested merely as drugs, medicines, or chemicals, without evidence to satisfy the collector that they are nonnarcotic, shall be detained and subjected at the carrier's risk and expense to such examination as may be necessary to satisfy the collector whether they are of a narcotic character. With a view to avoiding such inconvenience, the carrier should not accept in-transit shipments of such articles unless accompanied by properly verified certificates of the shippers, specifying the items in the shipment and stating whether narcotic or not.

GENERAL

(14) Importations or exportations by mail prohibited.—The importation or exportation of narcotic drugs in the regular mails or by parcel post will not be permitted.

(15) Vessels' stores—Collectors may permit narcotic drugs in reasonable quantity and properly listed as medical stores of vessels to remain on such vessels if satisfied that such drugs are adequately safe-guarded and used only for medical purposes. Smoking opium or opium prepared for smoking shall be seized, however, whenever and wherever found.

(16) Custody and disposition of narcotic drugs forfeited or not claimed—All narcotic drugs which are forfeited in proceedings for condemnation, or not claimed as provided by law, or which are summarily forfeited as provided in subdivision (d), subsection 2, section 1, of the act shall be reported to the secretary of the board on a form provided by the Treasury Department for that purpose and retained by the officer reporting the same as custodian for the board pending their disposition. Two committees, each consisting of three employees of the Treasury Department shall be appointed by the secretary of the board, the duties of each of which shall be to examine, weigh, inventory, and destroy such drugs as he may direct. Each committee shall make report to the secretary of the board of all such drugs destroyed immediately upon completing such destruction.

(17) Violations of the law to be reported—Collectors of customs shall report to the United States attorney and to the board any violations of the law which they may discover.

(18) Compliance with other laws and regulations applicable is necessary.—All regulations of or action by the board is subject to the provisions of the customs, internal revenue, and other laws and regulations applicable.

(19) Emergency regulations superseded.—These regulations supersede the emergency regulations published in T. D. 39154 of June 12, 1922.

(20) Previous licenses valid.—Authorizations to import or export issued prior to the taking effect hereof by the Division of Customs, Treasury Department, under the provisions of the regulations published in T. D. 39154 of June 12, 1922, will continue valid.

(21) Secretary and assistant secretary of the board—Under date of March 10, 1923, the board designated Mr. L. G. Nutt, head of the Narcotic Division, Bureau of Internal Revenue, Treasury Department, as its secretary, with authority to act upon applications and conduct correspondence for and on behalf of the board. Mr. M. R. Livingston, chief of the returns section of said division, is hereby designated as assistant secretary of the board, to perform such duties in connection therewith as the secretary of the board may direct.

(22) Time of taking effect.—These regulations shall take effect October 15, 1922.

PERSONNEL CLASSIFICATION BOARD.

The Personnel Classification Board was created by an act of Congress approved March 4, 1923. It is an ex-officio board, consisting of the Director of the Bureau of the Budget or an alternate from that bureau designated by the director, a member of the Civil Service Commission or an alternate from the commission designated by the commission, and the Chief of the United States Bureau of Efficiency or an alternate from that bureau designated by the chief of the bureau. The Director of the Bureau of the Budget, or his alternate, is chairman of the board. The board is charged with the carrying out of the requirements of the above-mentioned act, which provides for the classification of civilian positions of the Federal Government within the District of Columbia and in the field service.

AMERICAN BATTLE MONUMENTS COMMISSION.

The American Battle Monuments Commission was created by an act of Congress approved March 4, 1923, for the purpose of preparing plans for, and erecting suitable memorials to mark and commemorate the services of the American forces in Europe, including works of architecture and art in the American cemeteries in Europe. The act creating the commission charges it with the duties of controlling as to materials and design, providing regulations for, and supervising the erection of all memorial monuments and buildings in the American cemeteries in Europe. To the commission is given the function of photographing the battlefields of Europe upon which American forces were engaged, in order to complete the historical records of these forces.

The commission is directed to cooperate, in such manner as it shall determine, with American citizens, States, municipalities and associations desiring to erect war memorials in Europe, providing that the plans for such memorials have been approved by the commission in accordance with the provisions of the act.

The act requires that the National Commission of Fine Arts have supervision over all designs or materials for memorials used by the commission.

The commission is authorized to receive funds from any State, municipal, or private source for the purposes of its work, and is also permitted to furnish replicas of any memorial, or part thereof, at actual cost, applying the proceeds of such sales to the purposes of the commission.

COURT OF CLAIMS OF THE UNITED STATES.

This court was established by act of Congress February 24, 1855 (10 Stat. L. 612). It has general jurisdiction (36 Stat. L. 1135) of all "claims founded upon the Constitution of the United States or any law of Congress, except for pensions, or upon any regulations of an executive department, or upon any contract, express or implied, with the Government of the United States, or for damages, liquidated or unliquidated, in cases not sounding in tort, in respect of which claims the party would be entitled to redress against the United States, either in a court of law, equity, or admiralty, if the United States were suable, except claims growing out of the late Civil War and commonly known as war claims," and certain rejected claims.

It has jurisdiction also of claims of like character which may be referred to it by the head of any executive department involving controverted questions of fact or law. In all the above-mentioned cases the court, when it finds for the claimant, may enter judgment against the United States, payable out of the Public Treasury. An appeal, only upon questions of law, lies to the Supreme Court on the part of the defendants in all cases and on the part of the claimants when the amount in controversy exceeds $3,000. The findings of fact by the Court of Claims are final and not subject to review by the Supreme Court.

It also has jurisdiction of the claims of disbursing officers of the United States for relief from responsibility for losses of Government funds and property by capture or otherwise, without negligence, while in the line of duty.

There is a statute of limitations which prevents parties from bringing actions on their own motion beyond six years after the cause of action accrued, but the departments may refer claims at any time if they were pending therein within the six years.

By the act of March 2, 1919 (40 Stat., 772), known as the Dent Act, the Court of Claims is given jurisdiction of the class of war claims therein specified. In these cases the action of the Secretary of War upon the claim, or his failure to act thereon, is a condition precedent to the right of the claimant to commence an action in the Court of Claims.

The court also has jurisdiction of actions provided for by certain statutes passed during the last war permitting the seizure of property by the Government.

By section 151, Judicial Code (36 Stat. L., 1135), whenever any bill, except for a pension, is pending in either House of Congress providing for the payment of a claim against the United States, legal or equitable, or for a grant, gift, or bounty to any person, the House in which such bill is pending may, for the investigation and determination of facts, refer the same to the Court of Claims, which shall proceed with the same in accordance with such rules as it may adopt and report to such House the facts in the case and the amount, where the same can be liquidated, including any facts bearing upon the question whether there has been delay or laches in presenting such claim or applying for such grant, gift, or bounty, and any facts bearing upon the question whether the bar of any statute of limitation should be removed or which shall be claimed to excuse the claimant for not having resorted to any established legal remedy, together with such conclusions as shall be sufficient to inform Congress of the nature and character of the demand, either as a claim, legal or equitable, or as a gratuity against the United States, and the amount, if any, legally or equitably due from the United States to the claimant: Provided, however, That if it shall appear to the satisfaction of the court upon the facts established that under existing laws or the provisions of this chapter, the subject matter of the bill is such that it has jurisdiction to render judgment or decree thereon, it shall proceed to do so, giving to either party such further opportunity for hearing as in its judgment justice shall require, and it shall report its proceedings therein to the House of Congress by which the same was referred to said court.

Section 5, act of March 4, 1915 (38 Stat., 996), provides: "That from and after the passage and approval of this act the jurisdiction of the Court of Claims shall not extend to or include any claim against the United States based upon or growing out of the destruction of any property or damage done to any property by the military or naval forces of the United States during the war for the suppression of the rebellion, nor to any claim for stores and supplies taken by or furnished to or for the use of the military or naval forces of the United States, nor to any claim for the value of any use and occupation of any real estate by the military or naval forces of the United States during said war; nor shall said Court of Claims have jurisdiction of any claim which is now barred by the provisions of any law of the United States.

By act of March 3, 1891, chapter 538 (26 Stat. L., 851, and Supplement to R. S., 2d ed., p. 913), the court is vested with jurisdiction of certain Indian depredation claims.

The act of June 25, 1910, chapter 423 (36 Stat. L., 851-852), "An act to provide additional protection for owners of patents of the United States, and for other purposes," conferred a new jurisdiction.

There are five judges, who sit together in the hearing of cases, the concurrence of three of whom is necessary for the decision of any case.

All claims are prosecuted in the Court of Claims by an action commenced by the filing of a petition and prosecuted in accordance with the rules of the court, copies of which rules can be obtained upon application to the clerk of the court.

The court is located at Washington, D. C., in the old Corcoran Art Building, Seventeenth Street and Pennsylvania Avenue. The term begins on the first Monday in December each year and continues until the Saturday before the first Monday in December. Cases may be commenced and entered at any time, whether the court be in session or not.

JUDICIARY.

SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED STATES.

(In Capitol Building. Phones, marshal's office, Main 1; clerk's office, Main 3476.)

WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT, Chief Justice of the United States, born at Cincinnati, September 15, 1857; son of Alphonso (Secretary of War, 1875-76; Attorney General, 1876-77; United States minister to Austria, 1883-1885; transferred to Russia, 1885-86) and Louisa Maria (Torrey) T.; graduated at Woodward High School, Cincinnati, 1874; B. ORIGIN AND FORM OF GOVERNMENT.

The District of Columbia was established under the authority and direction of acts of Congress approved July 16, 1790, and March 3, 1791, which were passed to give effect to a clause in the eighth section of the first article of the Constitution of the United States, giving Congress the power—

"To exercise exclusive legislation in all cases whatsoever over such district (not exceeding ten miles square) as may, by cession of particular States and the acceptance of Congress, become the seat of the Government of the United States; and to exercise like authority over all places purchased, by the consent of the legislature of the State in which the same shall be, for the erection of forts, magazines, arsenals, dockyards, and other needful buildings."

The seat of Government of the United States was first definitely named by the following clause in the act entitled "An act providing a permanent form of government for the District of Columbia," approved June 11, 1878, as follows: "That all territory which was ceded by the State of Maryland to the Congress of the United States, for the permanent seat of Government of the United States, shall continue to be designated as the District of Columbia" (20 Stat. 102), although it had been incidentally mentioned as such in several preceding statutes.

It embraces an area of 69 245 square miles, of which 60 01 square miles are land. The river boundary is high-water mark along the Virginia shore of the Potomac River.

The local government of the District of Columbia is a municipal corporation having jurisdiction over the territory which "was ceded by the State of Maryland to the Congress of the United States for the permanent seat of the Government of the United States" (20 Stat. 102.)

This government is administered by a board of three commissioners having in general equal powers and duties. (20 Stat. 103.)

Two of these commissioners, who must have been actual residents of the District for three years next before their appointment and have during that period claimed residence nowhere else, are appointed from civil life by the President of the United States and confirmed by the Senate of the United States for a term of three years each and until their successors are appointed and qualified.

The other commissioner is detailed from time to time by the President of the United States from the Engineer Corps of the United States Army, and shall not be required to perform any other duty. (Ib.) This commissioner shall be selected from among the captains or officers of higher grade having served at least 15 years in the Corps of Engineers of the Army of the United States. (26 Stat. 1113.)

Three officers of the same corps, junior to said commissioner, may be detailed to assist him by the President of the United States. (28 Stat. 246.)

The senior officer of the Corps of Engineers of the Army who shall for the time being be detailed to act as assistant (and in case of his absence from the District or disability, the junior officer so detailed) shall, in the event of the absence from the District or disability of the commissioner who shall for the time being be detailed from the Corps of Engineers, perform all the duties imposed by law upon said commissioner. (26 Stat. 1113.)

One of said commissioners shall be chosen president of the board of commissioners at their first meeting and annually and whenever a vacancy shall occur. (20 Stat. 103.)

The commissioners are in a general way vested with jurisdiction covering all the ordinary features of municipal government and are also ex officio the Public Utilities Commission of the District of Columbia. (37 Stat. 974.)

The expenditures of the District of Columbia are based upon estimates annually prepared by the commissioners and submitted by them to Congress through the Bureau of the Budget. To the extent to which it shall approve of said estimates, Congress shall appropriate a proportion out of the Treasury of the United States. The remainder of the amount of such approved estimates shall be levied and assessed upon the taxable property and privileges in said District other than the property of the United States and of the District of Columbia. (Act approved June 11, 1878; 20 Stat. 104.) At present the relative proportions are 40 per cent out of the Treasury of the United States and 60 per cent out of the revenues derived from taxation of private property and privileges. "All taxes collected shall be paid into the Treasury of the United States, and the same, as well as appropriations to be made by Congress as aforesaid, shall be disbursed for the expenses of said District, on itemized vouchers, which shall have been audited and approved by the auditor of the District of Columbia, certified by said commissioners or a majority of them." (Ib. 105.)

Congress has by sundry statutes empowered the commissioners to make building regulations; plumbing regulations; to make and enforce all such reasonable and usual police regulations as they may deem necessary for the protection of lives, limbs, health, comfort, and quiet of all persons, and the protection of all property within the District, and other regulations of a municipal nature.

RULES GOVERNING PRESS GALLERIES.

1. Persons desiring admission to the press galleries of Congress shall make application to the Speaker, as required by Rule XXXV of the House of Representatives, and to the Committee on Rules of the Senate, as required by Rule VI for the Regulation of the Senate Wing of the Capitol; and shall state in writing the names of all newspapers or publications or news associations by which they are employed, and what other occupation or employment they may have, if any; and they shall further declare that they are not engaged in the prosecution of claims pending before Congress or the departments, and will not become so engaged while allowed admission to the galleries; that they are not employed in any legislative or executive department of the Government, or by any foreign Government or any representative thereof, and that they are not employed, directly or indirectly, by any stock exchange, board of trade, or other organization, or member thereof, or brokerage house, or broker, engaged in the buying and selling of any security or commodity or by any person or corporation having legislation before Congress, and will not become so engaged while retaining membership in the galleries. Holders of visitor's cards who may be allowed temporary admission to the galleries must conform to the restrictions of this rule.

2. The applications required by the above rule shall be authenticated in a manner that shall be satisfactory to the standing committee of correspondents, who shall see that the occupation of the galleries is confined to bona fide correspondents of reputable standing in their business, who represent daily newspapers or newspaper associations requiring telegraphic service; and it shall be the duty of the standing committee, at their discretion, to report violation of the privileges of the galleries to the Speaker, or to the Senate Committee on Rules, and pending action thereon the offending correspondent may be suspended.

3. Persons engaged in other occupations whose chief attention is not given to newspaper correspondence or to newspaper associations requiring telegraphic service shall not be entitled to admission to the press galleries; and the Press List in the Congressional Directory shall be a list only of persons whose chief attention is given to telegraphic correspondence for daily newspapers or newspaper associations requiring telegraphic service.

4. Members of the families of correspondents are not entitled to the privileges of the galleries.

5. The press galleries shall be under the control of the standing committee of correspondents, subject to the approval and supervision of the Speaker of the House of Representatives and the Senate Committee on Rules.

Approved:

FREDERICK H. GILBERT,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Approved by the Committee on Rules of the Senate.
